NELSON URGES 168 HOUR WEEK FOR WAR WORK

Asks 'Extra Steam' to Meet Goals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, in a nationwide radio address here tonight asked every laborer and every plant manager to do his duty in helping to win the war. He told plans to stimulate the arms production. He also cited responsibilities resting with the government administration.

Donald M. Nelson.

"The war can be lost in Washington," Nelson said. "It cannot be won here. That can be done only on the battle lines that now extend around the world and on the production lines that extend across the nation."

To fan their wills to win, Nelson said he was asking the army and navy to arrange for men on the firing lines on land and sea to communicate directly with the men who are making the weapons.

Plans Production Awards.

As a further stimulant to arms output the production chief said he was directing primary munitions contractors to set up management-labor committees within each plant to push toward the President's goals. He said he was confident that production from existing equipment can be stepped up at least 25 per cent by making every machine work 168 hours a week.

Teams or shifts within plants are to be scored so the competition will add additional zest to the armament race. Nelson also is proposing that a "production soldier" receive awards of merit for special contributions to the arms output.

Next Year Doesn't Count.

"I have come to this microphone tonight to talk about one thing, particularly to the managers and the workers of American industry," he said. "It is deadly serious. I want to ask you a question I have been asking myself:

"Are you doing everything within your power today to put more weapons into the hands of our fighting men?

"I emphasize today because the arms we produce tomorrow, next month, or next year are not going to the men who need them today, and they need them desperately today.

Fighting Slave Workers.

"We are not fighting enemies whose production is free. We are fighting enemies where management is force and where labor is forced. Both, upon pain of death, must do exactly what they are told and exactly as much as they are told. They are actually slaves.

"So, I ask you—all of you free men and free women—can we beat it? The answer is to be found particularly in what you men in the war production plants—management and labor—what you do about it now—today.

"I have talked to men who blame labor for lack of production. I have talked to labor leaders who blame management for lack of production. I have talked to managers who blame their suppliers. I have talked to suppliers who blame scarcity of materials. And I have talked to a lot of people who blame Washington.

"What Have You Done?"

"My answer to each of these people has been: What have you done about it yourself?

"To the business men who blame labor, I say:

"What have you done to settle the problem forthrightly instead of merely complaining? Have you really tried to remove the causes of just complaints against working conditions in your plant?

"To the representatives of labor, I say: Have you really gone to the limit to adjust your differences without stopping production?

"To those who whine that Wash-

CHARGES DEAL BY HILLMAN TO FAVOR HIS UNION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Sidney Hillman, labor director of the War Production board, was accused in a speech on the house floor today of bringing about an arrangement for huge military clothing contracts which favors Hillman's own labor organization, the Amalgamated Clothing Workers [CIO], and excludes the rival International Ladies' Garment Worker's union [AFL].

Rep. Engel.

Rep. Albert J. Engel [R., Mich.] asserted that under the arrangement which he said had been approved by Donald M. Nelson, WPB production chief, all clothing contracts for the military services must go to firms normally engaged in the manufacture of men's wear.

Will Get All the Work.

"Under this arrangement between Nelson and Hillman," Engel said, "Hillman's union and similar groups are going to make every item for the army and navy while David Dubinsky's ILGU and other groups making women's garments will not be permitted to bid on military contracts.

"Why expand the men's garment industry to handle this terrific production while at the same time permitting the machinery and plants of the women's garment industry to sit idle and rust?" asked Engel. "It seems unreasonable that Sidney Hillman, by virtue of his position in the government, should be permitted to divert all this work to his own labor union and to similar organizations making men's garments while workers making women's garments are forced into idleness.

"We know that next year our military requirements of wool will be about 650 million pounds, or about 50 per cent more than the combined military and civil requirements of 1941. The army alone already has bought 542 million yards of service textiles and will require nearly one billion yards for the 6 million man army over the next two years, all of which must be given priority over civilian needs.

War Department Notified.

"I wish to emphasize to the house that this private arrangement between Hillman and Nelson has been communicated officially to the war department, which in turn has directed that only manufacturers of men's garments may offer bids. Prior to this ruling, many women's garment factories had been inspected and approved by the quartermaster department as eligible and properly equipped to execute war department orders."

No formal public notice of the ruling has been given, Engel said. When he initiated his own inquiry, the order excluding women garment workers was confirmed to him personally, he revealed, by Maj. Gen. Edmund Gregory, the quartermaster general.

The War Production board, Engel said, argues that the 2,000,000 men who came into the army from civilian life would no longer buy civilian clothing and that the makers of such garments were entitled to this business to replace their lost trade.

"Yet the fact remains," he told the

GOBS WHO TALK TOO MUCH LAND IN NAVY'S BRIG

San Francisco, Cal., March 2 (AP).—Arrests of civilians and enlisted men to halt the careless disclosure of secret naval information in barrooms and other public places, where enemy spies might be listening, were reported tonight by the navy. A strengthened naval shore patrol, working with the FBI, the army's military police, and local authorities watched taverns over the last week-end and seized a number of persons, Rear Adm. J. W. Greenslade, commandant of the 12th naval district, announced.

"We are determined to bring a halt to careless talk about naval affairs," Adm. Greenslade said. "Orders have been given to responsible officers in the district headquarters to ensure that there will be no more thoughtless chatter of the kind that might give aid and information to the enemy."

The navy said that the 2,000 members of the San Francisco local No. 41, Bartenders' union, had promised full support in suppressing careless talk.

U. S. PLANS INDIA MISSION TO MOVE CHINA SUPPLIES

Washington, D. C., March 2 [Special].—The United States will shortly send an important supply mission to India, it was learned tonight, to help in the defense of that country and to assist in the distribution of war materials from India to the Chinese.

The mission is expected to be led by a personal representative of President Roosevelt, who will report directly to the White House.

With Rangoon cut off as the main port of supply for the Chinese, and the Burma road neutralized by recent Japanese military operations, India has become the center from which lend-lease goods are being shipped to China.

Girls' Draft May End London's Musical Shows

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—London's favorite amusement, the musical girl show, may disappear altogether, theatrical producers said today, as a result of the calling up of women for war industries. Withdrawal of actors, musicians and stage hands into the services already had created a crisis, and even charwomen have been engaged as scene shifters.

Freighter Ripped by 3 Subs Off East Coast; 39 Rescued

Norfolk, Va., March 2 (AP).—Three axis submarines teamed up and sank the American freighter Marore off the middle Atlantic coast Thursday night, the navy announced.

The U-boats crippled the freighter with one torpedo and then riddled her from stem to stern with more than 100 shells, members of the crew said.

The crew of 39 was rescued. Twenty-five of them in two lifeboats were picked up by a rescue ship directed to the scene by navy planes and 14 others rigged a sail on a third lifeboat and reached shore at Cape Hatteras, N. C. The men in this boat related they had declined rescue by two passing tankers because "they were going in the wrong direction for us."

Crew Watches Shelling.

Crew members abandoned ship within 10 minutes after the torpedo had struck the 8,215 ton vessel. They rowed several hundred yards away and watched the three submarines, grouped in a triangle and each approximately a mile distant, shell the freighter in what one crewman described as a "beautiful display of fireworks."

"The shells going over our heads sounded like freight trains," said Christopher W. Core of Richmond, Va., the freighter's radio operator. "Tracer shells the subs were using looked like Roman candles. It was a beautiful display, but we couldn't enjoy it."

Aim Described as Accurate.

Capt. Charles E. Nash of Dundalk, Md., the ship's skipper, said the submarines fired more than 100 shells at the Marore and that practically 100 per cent of them struck the freighter.

Howard W. Bock of Baltimore, Md., first assistant engineer, said the U-boats still were shelling the Marore when she sank more than an hour after the crew took to the boats.

"It looked like target practice," he said.

Crew members praised E. B. Stahl, the freighter's third assistant engineer, for his quick work in stopping the engines after the ship had been torpedoed. Core said the lifeboats would have been swamped if launched while the freighter was moving.

The engine room was thrown into darkness when the torpedo struck, and Stahl used his flashlight and stopped the engines.

Tanker Battles U-Boat

San Francisco, Cal., March 2 (AP).—The navy announced today that an American tanker, the William H. Berg, and an enemy submarine exchanged shots 30 miles southeast of the Golden Gate Saturday night. The tanker was attacked by gunfire without warning, but was not hit. The tanker's deck guns returned fire immediately on the submarine, which was almost invisible in the darkness. Navy surface craft and patrol bombers went into action, but the enemy craft had disappeared. Radio stations in the San Francisco bay area left the air for half an hour during the fight. The action was the first reported instance in which an American tanker has fired at an assailant with deck guns since the arming of merchantmen began.

Capt. Nash said the Marore had been running without lights but had turned on the running and mast lights shortly before the attack as a precaution against possible collision with two other ships which had been sighted near by.

The freighter was northbound with 23,000 tons of ore when attacked. The ship was owned by the Ore Steamship company of New York.

Find Five Torpedo Victims.

Point Pleasant, N. J., March 2 (AP).—The oil covered bodies of five men, believed to be crewmen from the torpedoed Standard Oil company tanker R. P. Resor, were picked up at sea today by a coast guard patrol boat. Chief Boatswain John Daisey said three of the bodies had been identified. The navy announced Friday the torpedoing of the tanker off Belmar, N. J. The ship carried a crew of 41. Two survivors were rescued.

British May Deduct 10c a Day from Civilians' Pay

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—British treasury experts were reported today studying a plan to extend to civilian war workers the system of deducting sixpence [about 10 cents] daily from the pay of each man in the fighting services to be paid after the war. Experts were said to favor the plan particularly as a means of stabilizing wages, thus avoiding inflation and arresting production declines.

GROUND TROOPS REVAMPED INTO COMBAT GROUP

Supply Service Put in 3d Command.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—On the eve of the greatest test of American arms in the history of the republic, President Roosevelt today ordered a sweeping reorganization of the army command. The order eliminates a large number of independent commands now under the chief of staff and creates three basic units that will have control over all phases of military action.

Under the new pattern there will be an army ground forces command, an army air forces command, and a service of supply command, each responsible to the chief of staff.

Thus the air force will be on a par with the combined ground fighting forces, a recognition, military experts noted, of its vital importance in modern warfare.

Marshall Stays as Chief.

Gen. George C. Marshall remains as chief of staff and Lieut. Gen. H. H. Arnold as chief of the air forces. To command the newly grouped ground forces Lieut. Gen. Lesley J. McNair was shifted from chief of staff of army general headquarters. Maj. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, now assistant chief of staff in charge of supply, was given command of the new service of supply.

The changes, more far reaching than anything since the Civil war, become effective March 9 and will remain in force until six months after the close of the war, according to the order, issued thru the White House.

Will Increase Striking Power.

Obviously designed to increase the army's speed of action and striking power under modern conditions, the move is a result of studies begun last fall and hastened in recent weeks because of the active involvement of the nation in the war.

The present functions of the chiefs of infantry, cavalry, field artillery, and coast artillery are transferred to the ground force command. Heretofore these units have been virtually autonomous, each dealing separately with the high command.

The commanding general of the new army air forces is to receive the duties and powers now divided between the commanding general of the general headquarters air force [the combat command] and the chief of the air corps [the maintenance command].

S O S Scope Not Detailed.

In the past the air arm merely has been on a par with the numerous other army subdivisions such as infantry, cavalry, artillery, etc. In addition to being interpreted as a step nearer a wholly independent air force the reorganization move lends support to rumors that the air force is to be used separately to carry the war to the axis powers thru large scale bombing operations, possibly from bases on the British Isles.

President Roosevelt's order is vague with respect to the exact scope of the new services of supply command. It stated only that this unit is to take over the functions and powers of the chief of coast artillery relating to "procurement, storage and issue." Nothing is said, it was noted, about transferring the quartermaster corps or the ordnance department to the new command which presumably would hold dominion over all army buying.

Prescribe Other Duties.

The President specifically authorized the secretary of war to prescribe the duties of commanders of other forces of the army not designated by the order and directed him from time to time to issue detailed instructions regarding personnel, funds, records, property, routing of correspondence and other matters.

An extension of the new high command principles is also authorized thru a provision for the future establishment of "such overseas departments, task forces, base commands, defense commands as the secretary of war may find to be necessary for national security."

The order specifies, however, that

NEWS OF MAJOR DEVELOPMENTS ON WAR FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Java's defenders—American, British, and Dutch troops—struck back at the Japanese invaders yesterday, according to an official bulletin issued at Bandoeng, seat of the allied high command. The counterblows were said to have "developed satisfactorily." Nevertheless, the situation was described as critical. Vital installations in Batavia, Java's capital, were destroyed by the defenders in their "scorch the earth" policy. The Japanese were admitted to be holding vital areas following three landings on Java's northern coast.

Allies Remove Wavell.

Sir Archibald Wavell, the British general, was relieved as commander in chief of the forces of the united nations in the southwest Pacific, a joint statement by the United States army and navy disclosed.

The task of guiding the defense of Java, the last stronghold of the Indies, was turned over to the Dutch. The identity of Wavell's successor was not made public. A communique issued at Washington said Wavell would return to India as commander in chief of British forces there.

The British announced a lull in the Burma campaign, but said they were expecting a new onslaught by the Japanese invaders in their drive toward Rangoon, the capital, and India. British sources maintained that a drubbing in the air—inflicted by American and British flyers—had forced the Japanese to call for aerial re-enforcements. The British command at Rangoon indicated their lines were holding along the Sittang river.

Moros to Aid MacArthur.

Gen. MacArthur advised the war department that 10,000 Moros in the Philippines have taken an oath to resist the Japanese until the invaders are ejected. MacArthur again reported that there were "practically no ground operations" in Bataan during the last 24 hours.

A Swiss correspondent reported from Berlin that the Russians are massing "almost unheard of forces" all along the front for what is believed to be a large scale attack. He said German planes observed Russian supply trains moving up. Berlin reported that Russian troops were attacking German positions in 40 or 50 successive waves.

LOST IN BIG FOG, SWEDE WALKS ON ICE TO DENMARK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 2.—Kalle Nilsson, 15 year old son of a Swedish fisherman living at Haljarp, south of Landskrona, went fishing on the ice of the frozen Oresund [strait] Saturday, and returned home today famous.

Nilsson got lost in a fog in the afternoon and wandered about 20 miles on the ice, finally to arrive at Copenhagen, Denmark. There he was fêted by the Danes as the first Swede who has walked to Copenhagen from Sweden in more than 100 years.

WAR MAP IN COLOR

A detailed map of Burma, against which the Japanese now are waging an intensive campaign, appears on the back page of today's Tribune. This map, adapted from an official map compiled by the office of the surveyor general of India and other detailed maps, provides information not shown in maps previously offered to the American general public. A story about Burma appears on page 5.

DUTCH TO TAKE OVER COMMAND OF INDIES' WAR

British Leader Sent Back to India.

New Invasion On

LONDON, March 3 [Tuesday] (AP).—Dispatches from Batavia said today that a huge new Japanese invasion armada was bearing down upon Java and was being met by continuous relays of United States flying fortresses and allied bombers. The reports said the original Japanese invasion fleet consisted of 140 ships, of which 50 were able to land troops Saturday. Thus the others are believed to number from 70 to 80 ships, despite casualties inflicted.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—The war and navy departments announced tonight that Sir Archibald P. Wavell, the British general, has been relieved as commander in chief of the forces of the united nations in the southwest Pacific and that command of the allied land, sea, and air forces in the Netherlands East Indies will pass to the Dutch.

Gen. Wavell, according to the announcement, will resume his former appointment as commander in chief in India, which now includes responsibility for the defense of Burma against the Japanese invaders, and close coöperation with China.

"There is no change in the present arrangements for the general coördination of strategic policy in the war against Japan," the statement said.

Allied Aid to Continue.

The Dutch will continue to receive "all available assistance from the united nations," the war and navy departments declared.

The removal of Wavell as supreme commander for the whole region, however, is expected to give impetus to the movement in the United States, Australia, and other allied quarters for the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander in chief in the Philippines, as commander of all the allied forces in the southwest Pacific.

This movement found expression in Australia, where the Sydney Telegraph proposed that MacArthur be named to that post.

Recall Hart's Removal.

On Feb. 11 Adm. Thomas C. Hart of the United States navy was relieved as commander of the allied naval forces in the southwest Pacific and succeeded by Vice Adm. C. E. L. Helfrich of the royal Netherlands navy. With Wavell relieved the Dutch now will be in supreme command of the allied forces fighting in Java to save that last stronghold of the Netherlands Indies from the Japanese invaders.

Today's announcement indicated that the new Dutch commander in chief will be responsible only for the defense of the Netherlands Indies, and will not succeed to Wavell's former position as commander in chief of all allied forces in the southwest Pacific.

If this is correct, it means the end, at least temporarily, of the unified allied high command for the southwest Pacific which President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill proclaimed on Jan. 3.

Dutch Chiefs in Command.

It is understood here that the commander in chief of the Netherlands Indies army, Lieut. Gen. Hein ter Poorten, will be in command of allied land forces, including British, Australian, and American troops, and that the commander of the Dutch East Indies air force, Maj. Gen. L. H. van Oyen, will be in command of allied air forces operating in the East Indies.

In addition to Adm. Helfrich these Dutch commanders, it is assumed here, will be directly responsible to the governor general of the Dutch East Indies, Dr. A. W. L. Tjarda van Starkenborgh Stachouwer.

Demands for the removal of Wavell, now 58 years old, have increased steadily since the Japanese conquered Malaya and Singapore and poured into the Dutch East Indies and Burma.

NELSON URGES 168 HOUR WEEK ON WAR OUTPUT

Extra Steam to Meet F. D. R. Goal Asked.

ington hasn't done enough for them, I say:

"Where is your initiative? Where is your enterprise? You are always talking about preserving free enterprise? What is it? Do you usually get business by waiting for the customer to call you and ask you to take an order? Have you made a thoro study of what the customer wants? Are you prepared to convert your machinery to those needs? Can you show us what you can do? There isn't time for the army and navy to determine what every plant can make. There must be initiative and enterprise at the other end of the transaction.

All Want to Do More.

"If you can show the army and the navy what you can do and are prepared to do it, most of the problem is solved.

"Almost without exception, every one of these people I have talked to feels the urge to do more. The trouble is not with their intentions. The trouble is rather too strong a tendency to pass the buck—to blame the other fellow.

"It is the production line that supplies the battle line. But it is on the battle line that freedom is being defended—where your right to free enterprise; your right to collective bargaining; your right to criticize; your right to worship as you please—it is on the battle line that those things you hold more precious than all else are being defended. It is on the battle line that men—fathers, sons, brothers, boys you know, have pledged their lives to this thing for their country, for you and for me. And their success in this heroic undertaking depends entirely upon what we—you and I—here at home—you and I on the production line—do to give them the stuff they need to destroy the enemy.

"Let's put it another way. Have you clinched your fists, impatient to get at the Japanese for what they did at Pearl Harbor? How many MacArthurs does it take to make you mad? Doesn't your blood run faster as you read of the undersea raiders operating within a torpedo's length of our own shores?

"If these things have left you indifferent; if these things have not brought you to your feet alert and mad, determined that they shall stop and that those who inflict this bloodshed upon us shall be destroyed, then you are not worthy to be called American.

Put Fight into Jobs.

But I know that most of you are mad. So I ask you to put that heat and that indignation—that fight—into that job of yours, whatever the job may be. It doesn't matter whether you tend a lathe, boss a production line, or manage the plant. If you, every one of you, start tomorrow putting that extra bit of drive, that extra head of steam, that extra measure of determination into the job at hand we can win with a minimum loss of blood and treasure.

"To help us do all this and to give us the genuine feeling of participation that we need, the President has asked us for a great production drive. I am, therefore, writing the management and workers in plants engaged in primary war production asking them to set up joint management-labor committees within each of those plants to run this drive to push production up to and beyond the President's goals.

No Sly Speed-up Scheme.

"And right here I want to say that this is no sly scheme to speed up men and machines for profits' sake. It is, instead, a job in which we all can take a hand and share in its success. Out of it must come greater production per machine and much greater use of each machine now operating. We cannot always wait for new ones. We must have full three-shift operations of those we have.

"We cannot be satisfied until we've come as close as possible to the limit of 168 hours of work per machine per week. In doing that I am confident we can increase production at least 25 per cent on existing equipment.

"In this production drive I am also asking the joint committees in each plant to provide machinery whereby each man may submit ideas and suggestions for doing the job better. These ideas and suggestions will be studied each week by the committees. Those found sound will be forwarded to Washington. Our engineering staff will examine them. Those proved valuable will be made available to other plants. Thus we tap a vast new reservoir of ideas, welding our productive genius into a united effort for victory.

Work 168 Hours a Week.

"Here in Washington, we can but outline the basic framework of this production drive. We can give guidance and make suggestions. Success depends upon the men and women in industry—the men and women out there on the production line. The war can be lost in Washington. It cannot be won here. That can be done only on the battle lines that now extend around the world and on the production lines that extend across this nation. Those production lines will determine whether we hold the battle lines and whether ultimately we crush the enemy.

"There must be sweat and action on the production line to match the blood and action on the battle line.

"We nust train our sights on 168 hours per week of machine time to match the 168 hours per week of machine gun time.

"The men of the production line dare do no less than the men of the battle line.

"I, therefore, say to you free men and free women on the production line—to the free management of American industry—work as you've never worked before that we may defeat an enemy more ruthless, brutal, and bloody than we ever faced before."

U. S. RECOGNIZES DE GAULLE RULE OF PACIFIC ISLES

Will Aid in Defense, Welles Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 2.—The state department revealed today that this nation has given formal recognition to Free French control over France's possessions in the Pacific, including the Island of New Caledonia, and is coöperating with Gen. Charles DeGaulle in their defense.

For reasons of military secrecy, the disclosure did not include any details as to the manner or extent to which United States forces are assisting the Free French allies in protecting the strategically important islands. The policy of this country toward the French overseas territories, said a spokesman, will be governed by the "manifest effectiveness" with which the local French authorities protect the possessions from "the common enemy."

New Caledonia Rich in Nickel.

New Caledonia is the chief possession involved. It is rich in nickel and other strategic materials and includes some refineries.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles emphasized that the policy toward the French possessions in the Pacific does not apply to the French Islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon off the New Foundland coast.

Welles confirmed a statement of United States policy outlining the new accord with the Free French in respect to the island possessions.

"With the French authorities in effective control of French territories in the Pacific this government has treated and will continue to treat on the basis of their actual administration of the territories involved" the statement said in part.

"This government recognizes in particular that French island possessions in that area are under the effective control of the French national committee established in London and United States authorities are coöperating for the defense of these islands with the authorities established by the French national committee and with no other French authorities."

Action Puzzles Vichy.

VICHY, France, March 2 (AP).—Announcement that the United States had granted partial recognition to Free French rule in the Pacific brought the reply from authorized circles here tonight that it was hard to understand such action when Vichy still is recognized as the legitimate government of France and her empire.

CHARGES DEAL BY HILLMAN TO FAVOR HIS UNION

Army Clothing Contracts Are Sewn Up.

house, "that priorities are directing all wool and a large part of the available cotton textiles into military contracts. As a result, the makers of women's garments are forced into increasing idleness while those making men's garments have more work than they can handle.

"It is obvious that the amount of clothing manufactured by the government for a soldier is much greater than the same amount the same individual would buy in civilian life. Because of this fact it is an absolute impossibility for the existing men's garment factories alone to meet the requirements for army and navy.

"It seems a foregone conclusion that unless this rule is changed, Hillman's union and other similar unions making men's clothing are going to expand to take care of this business while other unions will be idle with only one recourse and that is to seek work in Hillman's and other unions. When the thing is all over, Hillman's organization will be double its present size.

Asks When Agreement Was Made.

"It is a fair question to ask when was this agreement made. Was it made before or after Mr. Donald Nelson was appointed production czar? Was the agreement made between Mr. Nelson and Mr. Hillman as a condition of Mr. Nelson's appointment as production czar? Is Mr. Sidney Hillman interested in production for war purposes, or is he interested in and devoting his energies to production of war materials in his own organization?

"Is Mr. Nelson the production czar, or is Mr. Nelson merely an automaton sitting on the production czar's throne, while Sidney Hillman sits behind the throne pulling the wires and pressing the buttons which manipulate the automaton called Donald M. Nelson?

"The fact of the matter is, and I am forced to the conclusion, that Sidney Hillman is the man who is telling Donald Nelson, and the secretary of war, the undersecretary of war, the generals in the army, from four stars down, and the admirals in the navy, just who is going to be permitted to make army and navy clothing."

5 NATIONS URGE ARGENTINA DROP ITALIAN AFFAIRS

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 2 (AP).—The Argentine foreign office announced today that Cuba had requested Argentina to abandon the representation of Italian interests in Havana. Panama made the same request earlier today.

Five American republics now have asked Argentina to cease representing Italian interests in their capitals and it is expected that others will follow suit.

ARGENTINE VOTE COUNTED; TESTS FOREIGN POLICY

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 2 (AP).—Election officials began the preliminary count today of votes cast in a national election Sunday to determine control of Argentina's lower house—a decision which may have a bearing on the country's foreign policy.

Final results probably will not be known for a week. The election did not affect the senate, where Acting President Ramon S. Castillo's Conservative party dominates.

However, if opposition control in the chamber of deputies, now held by the Radicals and Socialists, is maintained, it may mean an eventual attack on the government's failure to break relations with the axis.

If the Conservatives and their allied parties win it would be an indorsement of the present "policy of prudence" in Argentine foreign affairs.

Hundreds of Radicals in important Buenos Aires province refused to vote in protest against suspected fraud, but both the Radicals and Socialists claimed a majority in this capital city.

WAVELL GUARDS NEW 'HOT SPOT' IN BRITISH EMPIRE

England's 'Best General' Back in India.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—The transfer of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell from the allied command in the southwest Pacific back to his former post as commander in chief in India puts the general in another "hot spot."

As commander in chief in India, Wavell will have "responsibility for operations in Burma and close co-operation with China."

Wavell is generally regarded as the greatest general Britain has produced in this war. British sources said that it can be taken for granted that the vital point in empire defense would be placed under his command.

Believe Wavell in Burma.

Reports reaching London from Australia tonight said Wavell already is in Burma directing operations. There was no attempt here to minimize the growing threat to India, or the difficulties confronting Wavell in his new command.

Little hope is entertained that Rangoon, Burma's capital, but confidence is expressed by military writers that Wavell will do his utmost to hold upper Burma, so as to keep open a route, however precarious, from India to China.

Two weeks ago, the Burma road was regarded as essential by a Chinese spokesman for further assistance to enable Chiang Kai-shek to continue the resistance against the Japanese.

See Menace to India.

This set-back, on top of the announcement by the Dutch that they are enforcing a scorched earth policy in Batavia, Java's capital, points to new, even more serious problems menacing the allied front in the southwest Pacific, British sources said. They declared it means India is threatened; Australia is menaced, and the separation of the allied united front into isolated groups where they [the groups] are liable to annihilation, as on ordinary battlefields.

The Daily Mail political correspondent said Wavell's scope in Java was limited, and maintained that his military qualities can better be used in directing the defense of India.

This opinion was contradicted in the same paper by B. H. Liddell-Hart, one of the foremost British military writers, who suggested that the defense of Java should take precedence.

Once the Japanese are within reach of Rangoon any reënforcement of British troops would be "foolishly behind the time," he said.

U. S. DESTROYER, IN SERVICE ONLY 2 DAYS, BESTS SUB

New York, March 2 (AP).—A new United States destroyer recently met and almost certainly dealt successfully with an enemy submarine within 48 hours of the time the warship went on duty in the North Atlantic, the third naval district said today.

The destroyer, with a new crew, steamed out of a northern port almost before her paint was dry. The ship was launched in September, never had any test runs, and her guns never had been tried. The official account said many of her crew were inexperienced at sea. It was said heavy going was encountered as soon as the destroyer struck open sea and veterans and newcomers alike were seasick.

Shortly before 10 o'clock on the second night out came the order "sound general quarters." Men at the destroyer's listening post had reported the presence of a submarine.

The submarine used every trick to escape, it was said, but the destroyer rapidly changed course until it passed the desired position and dropped depth bombs. Explosions shook the destroyer from keel to rigging. The destroyer captain listed the submarine as "probably sunk."

FIRED THRU KNOX, WRITES HIM FOR PUBLIC HEARING

St. Albans, West Va., March 2 [Special].—Classified by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox as an "undesirable person," George E. Deatherage said here today he has written Knox demanding a public hearing and has also given the navy secretary's name as a reference in applying for a job with the War Production board.

Deatherage, former commander of the anti-Semitic and anti-communistic Knights of the White Camellia, was dismissed Feb. 23 as executive engineer for Doyle & Russell, contractor at the naval operating base in Norfolk after Knox placed his name in the undesirable classification.

In his letter to Knox, Deatherage said he asked whether any evidence of disloyalty against him exists and demanded an open hearing "before the authorities having jurisdiction." In his letter to the WPB, written in response to a communication from the board informing him he had been recommended for a position by a Mr. Zimmerman, otherwise unidentified, Deatherage named Knox as a person with knowledge of his character, experience, and ability.

ENEMY ALIENS GET EXTRA TIME FOR REGISTERING

J. Albert Woll, United States attorney, announced yesterday that approximately 5,000 enemy aliens, who have failed to apply for certificates of identification, will be given until March 31 to file their applications. After that date, he said, they will be treated as possible saboteurs and may be interned for the duration of the war, imprisoned or fined $1,000.

Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen reported that 41,956 enemy aliens applied for identification cards before midnight Saturday.

Yesterday two enemy aliens were found to be without cards. Masaichi Dogen, a Japanese transient, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on charges of failure to register for the draft. His delinquency in registering as an alien was discovered later. Michele Macre, an Italian from Arizona, was charged with failure to register. John Kiely, assistant United States attorney, was granted continuance in both cases to allow time for investigation.

ALL CIVILIANS IN AUSTRALIA FACE DRAFT, ARMY PAY

Five Major Holidays Are Abolished.

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 2 (AP).—In anticipation of the war's spread to Australia, the government today ordered compulsory service for all civilians and tightened control over the three branches of the armed service. It also abolished for the first time five major holidays.

The war cabinet decided to extend the labor corps system to civilians at army pay—considerably below trade union wages—with army conditions and army-like discipline, mostly for construction and maintenance.

The new ruling also combines the Australian imperial force and the famed volunteer force with the militia and permanent garrison. The militia is a draftee-like compulsory service.

Important Decisions Made.

The war cabinet action was announced following a two day meeting of the commonwealth war council at which Prime Minister John Curtin announced far reaching decisions had been made on offensive and defensive strategy. These sessions, attended by representatives of New Zealand and the united nations, were said to have arrived at principles which require only the approval of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill before being put into effect.

Based upon the prospect that large scale military action may be aimed soon against Australia and New Zealand, the plan was believed to assume that immediate operations will be principally by air and sea.

Only Two Holidays.

Under today's ruling, Good Friday and Easter will be the only holidays permitted until July. Lay-offs are prohibited for Labor day in March, Easter Monday, Easter Tuesday, Anzac day on April 25 and the king's birthday in June.

Maj. Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett, commander of the Australian forces at Singapore, who escaped with an account of the entire Malayan campaign, appeared before the commonwealth council and his report was understood to have figured largely in its decisions regarding future strategy.

The general told the council that the Malayan campaign proved a modern army must have overwhelming air support.

The government expressed its full confidence in Maj. Gen. Bennett, who remained with the Australian army in Malaya until after the surrender of Singapore and then wrote a thrilling new chapter in his career by a daring escape from the Japanese.

After hearing his account, Prime Minister Curtin told the nation that "we have expressed our confidence" in the general, "whose leadership and conduct were in complete conformity with his duty to his men and his country. He remained with his men until the end, completed the formalities of surrendering and then took the opportunity and risk of escaping."

Bennett flew here from Batavia after his dramatic escape from Singapore in a junk.

Launch Submarine

The U. S. S. Kingfish sliding into the Piscataqua river yesterday.

Portsmouth, N. H., March 2 (AP).—A new navy submarine, the U. S. S. Kingfish, was launched today at the navy yard before a small group of official guests, navy officers and yard workmen. The sponsor was Mrs. Harry A. Stuart, wife of Rear Adm. Stuart, in charge of naval petroleum reserves.

TWO AUSTRALIAN TOWNS RAIDED BY JAP PLANES

CANBERRA, Australia, March 3 [Tuesday]—(AP).—Japanese warplanes made almost simultaneous attacks this morning on the western Australia towns of Wyndham and Broome in raids directed at airdromes.

A royal Australian air force communique said there was some damage at both towns but no casualties.

[Wyndham is 300 miles southwest of Darwin, north Australian port which has been the focus of earlier Japanese air attacks. Broome is 400 miles southwest of Wyndham.]

The Japanese used only machine-guns and cannon in their attack on Wyndham but bombs were dropped at Broome.

The raids were directed at airdrome facilities and at grounded aircraft, the communique said.

DECLARES NAVY BUILDS STRENGTH FOR DRIVE ON AXIS

'Do Not Expect Miracles,' Adm. King Says.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the United States fleet, declared today that the navy was engaged in building up vital air and sea communications preliminary to developing a general offensive against the axis powers.

Adm. Ernest J. King.

The statement concerning the fleets activities was given in a navy communique.

The communique said:

"Adm. Ernest J. King, U. S. N., commander in chief, United States fleet, made the following statement today:

"'I have noted the widespread interest in the press about what the United States fleets are doing. Did this interest not exist I should be deeply concerned.

"'As to the activities of our fleets, the public can count with certainty upon being furnished all information which does not give aid and comfort to the enemy. The traditional title of the navy as the silent service is, however, based on experience and necessity. It will have to be maintained.

"'On the other hand I can say, that while no miracles are to be expected, an all out effort is being made in the unspectacular but vitally essential task of establishing our sea and air communications.

"'Appropriate measures are being taken to strengthen the key points of these communications, with a view to developing an offensive, which slowly but surely, will gain scope and power as we gain strength, thru the production of aircraft, ships, and guns.

"'Currently, therefore, the United States fleets are carrying on with the basic idea to "do more than your best with what you've got." This means to take and make every opportunity to harass and damage the enemy, while building soundly for his ultimate defeat.'"

ALLIED TROOPS STRIKE BACK AT JAVA INVADERS

Batavia Destroys Its Vital Installations.

BANDOENG, Java, March 2 (AP).—American, Dutch, and British troops struck out together against the Japanese invader tonight in widespread counterattacks. A guarded official summary declared the counterblows had "developed satisfactorily," critical tho the situation remained.

There was no evidence shortly before midnight of any new Japanese landing, or of the approach of new sea invasion trains. The enemy, tho holding vital areas of this island, had not in 48 hours been able to add another to his three initial beachheads.

In Batavia, the island capital, vital installations were destroyed—but only against distant possibilities.

Situation Summed Up.

An official bulletin at 10:30 p. m. thus summed up the situation at the hour of supreme crisis:

"From well informed circles it is heard that action against the Japanese invasion troops has developed satisfactorily. Altho in connection with the character of the operations no details can be published it can be said that the enemy received fair hits.

"Up to now, there is no information received about fifth column activities, while everywhere our troops are going to meet the Japanese and are enthusiastically welcomed.

Calls Situation Critical.

"Altho there is no question of a direct threat to Batavia, vital objects are [being] made useless to exclude all risks.

"The situation in some parts of Java is obviously critical, but the invaders are receiving blows hammer and tongs."

In the wild sweep of the fighting, much was obscured. However, among the visible features was the use of taxicab transport—such as that which carried shouting French troops forward a generation ago to save Paris—to rush fighting men to the broad beach fronts along the northern Java shore.

British Order of the Day.

The second phase of the battle for Java, the keystone in the East Indies arch and the last barricade to the Indian ocean, opened with the allies taking the initiative, as illustrated by this order of the day to the British section of the allied line:

"British troops in Java: We have the honor to be about to fight with our Dutch and American allies in the defense of the last stronghold of democracy in the southwest Pacific.

"The Japanese are skilful and well armed opponents and are likely to be in superior numbers. They fight better on attack than on defense, and therefore our best chance is to attack wherever we can.

"Attack and not defense must be our watchword . . ."

Allied Planes in Action.

The allied air arm remained in powerful action—so powerful that there were some indications that this time, and for the first time, the Japanese enemy apparently lacked superiority aloft.

Recapitulating the action of Sunday, the Dutch command announced that allied fighter planes falling upon an enemy invasion train of 20 enemy transports between Toeban and Rembang in the coastal waters west of the Surabaya naval base had smashed the enemy landing sloops "with few exceptions," hurling tanks and troops into the sea.

"Moreover," it was added, "some tanks which had already been brought ashore were machine gunned and set on fire."

Japanese fighter planes did not appear to be giving the invader effective support.

Japanese bombers twice were driven off in air raids upon this city, the seat of the supreme allied command, and in neither instance were able to deliver an effective attack.

Enemy Sea Losses Rise.

Enemy losses at sea also still were rising.

A Dutch torpedo boat in an overnight Sunday-Monday foray sank a Japanese flotilla leader [a cruiser or big destroyer] in the eastern waters of the Java sea to bring Japanese ship casualties to at least 27 sunk or damaged.

Acknowledged Dutch naval losses stood at two cruisers and two destroyers.

The deepest known Japanese penetration of Java up to tonight was in the western part of the island where they had reached Soebang, within 30 miles of Bandoeng. [British dispatches stated there was good reason to believe that this Japanese column had been cut off by allied counterattacks.]

The second enemy beachhead was in the Bantam district at the western extremity of Java, about 60 miles from Batavia.

The third was near Rembang in the east-central part of the island and 70 miles west of the Surabaya naval base—the area where the enemy had been cut down heavily Sunday in his broken efforts to make new landings.

More Warships Sunk: Japan.

TOKIO, March 2 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Japanese headquarters claimed today another heavy cruiser and two British destroyers had been sunk in the Java sea and declared that Japanese forces which have landed on Java were "steadily extending their sphere of operations."

There was no indication whether these ships were included in the assertion of a Japanese naval spokesman—the highest from Tokio so far—that five allied cruisers, one of them an American ship, and 10 destroyers had been sunk between last Friday afternoon and yesterday morning. He said four other allied cruisers also had been damaged.

85,000 JAPS IN JAVA.

In London, informed persons saw the battle for Java as involving Japan's biggest offensive of the Pacific war and estimated that, despite his tremendous losses, the enemy still had five and a half divisions of about 85,000 men on the island. There was no effective estimate of allied troops; such estimates ran from 100,000 upward.

The Japanese "are willing to gamble at least 10 divisions on the subjection of Java," one source declared.

JAPS SHOW DASH—INTO FIGHT AND THEN FOR COVER

Flee to Fields as Dutch Troops Hold Ground.

BY J. E. BOUWER.

[Netherlands East Indies Journalist.]

NEAR THE MIDDLE JAVA FRONT, March 2 [Aneta to Associated Press].—I visited a point very close to where fighting was in progress today, but I cannot disclose the name of the fiercely contested position.

Native soldiers said the Japanese stormed the position last night in two British army trucks and two private cars. They raced up at furious speed, their tommy guns spitting fire left and right.

When their fire was answered by the defenders the Japanese apparently thought they were being ambushed, and fled into the surrounding plantations. Many of the attackers were mopped up, but small groups were able to concentrate and finally forced the Netherlands East Indies troops to retreat to new positions near by where a stand was being made this morning.

Little Jap Air Activity.

Dutch troops were hurled into action and Dutch tanks were reported to have obtained some results in a counterattack.

It is highly significant that there has been little enemy air activity in support of the landing operations. As I moved up toward the fighting area I saw Dutch bombers and fighters flying toward the coast and returning to reload and refuel.

Along the road crowded with military traffic I saw Dutch army trucks moving toward the front with fighting slogans painted on their sides.

"Give Them Hell," was a common slogan of many of the signs.

Normal Behind the Front.

I passed thru many native villages where life apparently was proceeding normally altho they were less than 40 miles from the front.

At one place, two doubles tennis matches were in progress. Two European women strolled quietly along one village street, pushing baby carriages.

Frequently we were halted at carefully hidden posts. A Dutch or native soldier would rush into the road, pointing a gun or brandishing a klewang—native sword—and order us to halt for inspection.

KILLED BY STREET CAR.

John Martin, 65 years old, a Negro, 2944 Prairie avenue, died yesterday in County hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when he was struck by a street car at 32d and State streets.

JAPS SAY NAVAL BOMBERS ATTACK CHRISTMAS ISLE

TOKIO, March 2 [from Japanese broadcasts]—(AP).—Domei news agency declared today that Japanese naval bombers launched their first attack yesterday on Christmas Island, a British possession in the Indian ocean.

Christmas Island, covering 60 square miles, is a pinpoint of land about 220 miles south of the western end of Java and is important for its large natural deposits of phosphate of lime.

The British formally annexed the island in 1888 and incorporated it with the settlement of Singapore in 1900. Except for the district officer of the Malayan civil service and his staff, who administer it, and a small detail of Sikh police, virtually all the 1,300 inhabitants are Chinese and Malay employés of the phosphate company.

Duke of Aosta, Captured Italian Leader, Gravely Ill

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, March 2 (AP).—An official announcement said today that the condition of the Duke d'Aosta, captured Italian East African commander, was rapidly becoming worse. He became ill after being taken to officers' prison camp quarters following his surrender in Ethiopia last May.

JAPS LAND ON CHINESE COAST; ARE HURLED OUT

CHUNGKING, China, March 2 (AP).—Japanese troops were hurled back after making a landing on the coast of Chekiang province in the vicinity of Siangshan, about 150 miles south of Shanghai, a Chinese communique announced today.

The landing was made from 10 heavily laden small steamers under a protective bombardment laid down by three accompanying Japanese warships. Observers here believed the Japanese were probing the Chinese-held coast for possible secret air bases from which planes could raid Japan.

After encountering fierce Chinese resistance the landing force retreated and reboarded the ships, the communique said.

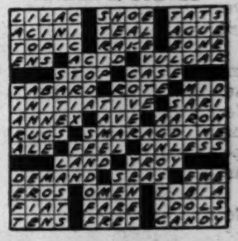
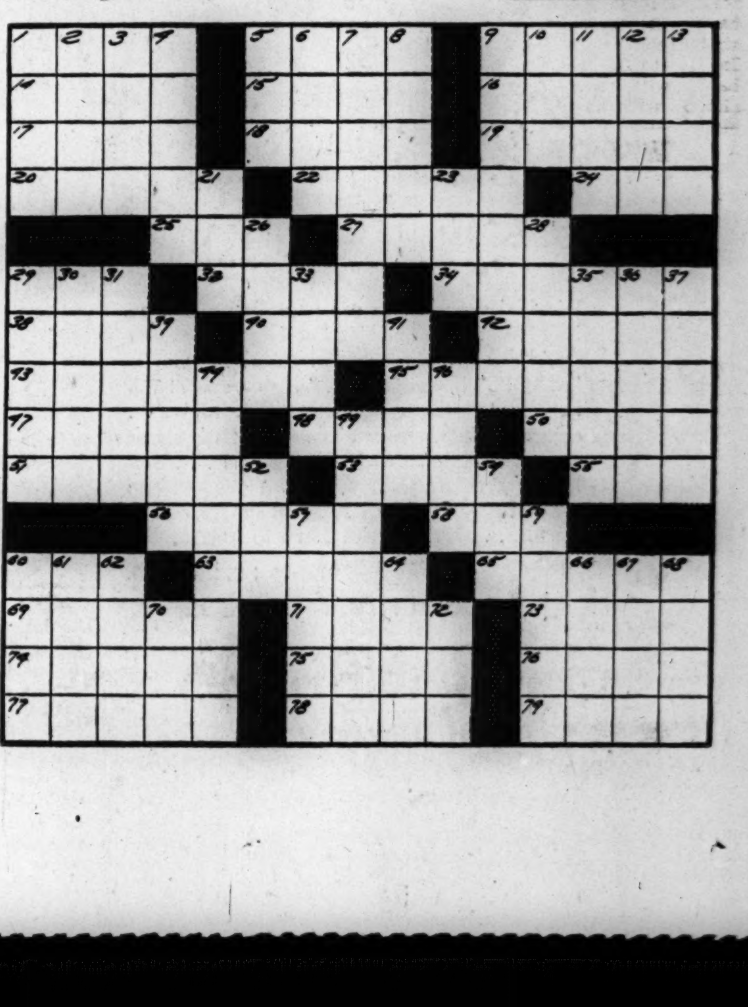
PUZZLE OF MONDAY, MARCH 2, SOLVED





BANDITS ATTACK INDIANS FLEEING UP BURMA ROAD

4,000 in Oxcart Caravan Plead for Help.

BY DANIEL DE LUCE.

ON THE PEGU FRONT, Burma, by Courier to Mandalay, Feb. 28 [Delayed]—(AP).—"The bad men are cutting us with long knives."

Thus, with pleading faces and dark hands uplifted in a gesture of prayer, peasants leading an oxcart migration of 4,000 Indians from the Pegu district tell me of bandits on their long, perilous trek up the Burma road.

For more than a mile this swarming, dusty caravan of refugees—wooden axles screeching, babies wailing, shepherds shouting at flocks wandering among the big wheeled carts—covers the highway like a blanket of sad humanity.

There are 4,000 souls here—but they are only a fraction of the 1,250,000 Indians in Burma, most of whom now seek the safety of their homeland.

Ask for Protection.

Correspondents en route to the front in American "jeeps" must wait half an hour to clear a narow driveway thru them.

In halting English, lean, tired guides with homemade spears and swords, and only bits of gray cotton cloth around their loins, call out for help.

"Sahib, we have no money, little food and water. We must keep moving without rest. If any of us strays the bad men with long knives attack and rob and kill, they say. "Won't his majesty's government protect us, sahib?"

In the countryside, where there no longer are police, looting is rampant and the Indian laborers, who always were hated by the Burmese National extremists, now are the undefended victims of whatever bands care to ambush them.

They can go but a few miles a day, yet they have 400 miles to Mandalay and then 250 more difficult miles westward to the Indian border.

Babies Born in Carts.

Babies have been born on this migration since last week. Their mothers ride in straw piles on the carts.

Stubbled paddy fields are the camp sites at night, set up in the fashion of American pioneers of the west, with the carts ringed around for security.

It is the dry season now. Village wells are nearly empty and even the oxen's tongues hang out during the searing afternoon heat.

As the jeeps finally work thru, a father carrying his small, naked son on his shoulders, and trudging behind a family cart crowded with young and old, waves good-by and he, too, pleads, "ask help for us, sahib."

Burma Civilians Bombed.

TOUNGOO, Burma, Feb. 27—[Delayed]—(AP).—Sitting on the stone rail of a tiny Buddhist pagoda in the center of burning Toungoo, I am writing this by the light of flames devouring eight square blocks of Burmese stores and homes.

It is 9 p. m. Six hours ago 30 Japanese bombers, escorted by 15 fighters, dropped high explosives and incendiaries.

An Indian soldier, standing guard against looters with a rifle over his shoulder, tells me that 350 Burmans and 40 Indian civilians, including a railroad station master, were killed in the raid.

American School Intact.

Only half a block away, Bixby Memorial school—built by missionary donations from American Baptists—stands virtually undamaged, tho across the street a warehouse is blazing like a yule log.

The damage done here is a fiery climax to the total air war which the Japanese have visited upon the main Burmese road to China between Rangoon and Mandalay.

At the old Fortress of Mandalay, King Thibaw's red and gold wooden palace stands in grounds pitted by bombs. Pyinmana, to the south, has become a ghostlike tomb since enemy planes wrecked the railroad station and the bazar Feb. 19. Two hundred were killed in that assault.

Road Now Deserted.

The road from Rangoon to Mandalay, once humming with the traffic of thousands of China bound trucks, now is a lonesome ribbon of asphalt. Bullock drawn carts were the only vehicles I passed today on a 100 mile trip south from Mandalay.

Burned American made trucks make milestones along the almost deserted highway. Their Chinese drivers fearful last week that the Japanese might cut them off from the north, poured gasoline on the trucks and set them afire.

But no Japanese troops have set foot on this route yet. It is estimated that at least 200 trucks were too hastily destroyed. All were new big six wheelers, worth $450,000 or more. In one town 23 were burned in a batch, with loads of tires and machinery still aboard.

DRUBBED IN AIR, JAPANESE PAUSE IN BURMA DRIVE

British Lines Hold on River Bank.

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—Battered in the air and held to the east bank of the Sittang river on the ground, the Japanese invaders of Burma nevertheless are expected to renew their westward attack toward Rangoon and India at any moment, military observers declared tonight.

Communiques from the British defenders reported that two Japanese patrols on the east bank of the Sittang above Pegu had been ambushed and killed or captured to the last man and that the remainder of the 100 mile front was quiet. Pegu is a rail junction 30 miles northeast of Rangoon and a link in the now almost useless supply route to China.

Japs "Given Hard Knock."

"Undoubtedly the Japanese suffered losses in attaining the east bank of the Sittang," said a responsible British source here.

"Possibly they have even been given a hard knock, but not hard enough to knock their Burma machine out of gear.

"They probably are pausing to bring up reënforcements for their air force, which has been given a stiff drubbing by the American volunteer group and the RAF.

"There is no reason to believe the Japanese have not the man power to launch a renewal of their attack toward India at any minute. You can be sure the British are expecting it."

This view tallied with word from Rangoon. The British command there indicated its lines were holding firm along the west bank of the Sittang, while the invaders apparently were preparing for a new push.

Report Foe Driven Back.

The Japanese patrol actions were taken to signify a search for likely sites to thrust across the river in force. One report Sunday said a Japanese group had reached the west bank by night but had been driven back.

An RAF communique from Burma said Japanese positions along the Sittang were attacked effectively during the day and that targets were set afire in "a town in the enemy's forward area." Identity of the town was not disclosed.

In addition to these activities and air combats, the defending flyers also are managing to ferry many women and children out of the danger zones.

Air Raiders Kill 1,000.

While Japanese air raiders were reported to have killed about 1,000 villagers and refugees along the 434 mile road northward from Rangoon toward Mandalay, an RAF officer said the onslaught generally had been held in check by "a devil of a thrashing" administered by the American volunteers and RAF. The air ministry news service said the defenders' air losses were "incredibly small."

The Japanese evidently were counting on their land and air forces to push to desolate Rangoon, since there were no reports of any attempted landings in the tangled delta region south of that once busy but now almost deserted port.

British Admit 95,000 Captured at Singapore

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 2.—A Japanese communique announcing the capture of 95,000 prisoners in Malaya and Singapore was admitted in authoritative circles here tonight to be "fairly accurate."

Sworn In

At the Chicago quartermaster depot, 1819 Pershing road, yesterday 10 officers lined up in the office of Brig. Gen. Joseph E. Barzynski, commanding general. In the morning's mail had come their promotion orders from the war department in Washington, D. C.

Gen. Barzynski first administered the oath to Maj. Frederic W. Dennis Jr., 45 years old, who accepted his promotion to lieutenant colonel. As adjutant, Lieut. Col. Dennis then swore in the following officers to their new ranks:

Lieut. Col. John J. Madigan, 49; Maj. Charles G. Herman, 34; Capt. E. O. Reid, 36; Capt. Robert R. Melson, 26; Capt. Virgil O. Wodicka, 27; First Lieut. Robert L. Prahl, 29; First Lieut. James M. Rasch, 33; First Lieut. Charles C. Wendler, 23, and First Lieut. Gordon F. Tyrrell Jr., 26.

Officers said that all the men promoted had earned the honor by the work they have done in insuring a steady flow of supplies to the army. All were civilians who held commissions in the army reserve.

BRITONS BATTLE AXIS CONVOY IN ENGLISH CHANNEL

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—An axis tanker was torpedoed in the English channel last night, the admiralty said today.

British patrols of light craft located two enemy tankers of medium size in a convoy strongly escorted by enemy small craft. British motor torpedo boats scored a torpedo hit on one tanker, and it was stated "a second torpedo also may have hit."

Later British patrols found that one enemy tanker was lying stopped and drifting among its escort boats. A second attack was attempted in which "damage was inflicted on the foe which could not be assessed," the admiralty said.

U. S. and Brazil Will Sign Three Agreements Today

Washington, D. C., March 2 [Special].—Arrangements for collaboration for hemispheric defense between Brazil and the United States will be formally completed with respect to three agreements tomorrow. Two will be signed by Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, and Arthur Souza-Costa, Brazilian finance minister. The third will be signed by the finance minister and federal loan authority. The first two are a new lease-lend agreement and an arrangement for developing rubber. The loan authorities will sign an arrangement covering financial subjects.

MAP OF BURMA SHOWS ITS PLACE IN WAR STRATEGY

Rich Area Gate to India, Back Door to China.

With a powerful expeditionary force now advancing in Burma, THE TRIBUNE today, as a timely war feature, presents on its back page a detailed color map of that rich British dependency in Asia.

Adapted from an official map compiled by the office of the surveyor general of India and from other detailed maps, this map contains much information that is not included in any others previously offered to the American general public. It contains between 2,000 and 3,000 place names.

Readers can understand by a study of this map the reasons for the Japanese campaign against Burma. While Burma is wealthy in natural resources, of far greater importance to the enemy is its position at the back door to China and at the eastern doorway to India.

Terminus of Burma Road.

If the Japanese succeed in occupying Burma they will be in possession of the western end of the famous Burma road, China's lifeline for war supplies.

The Chinese for more than a year have been constructing a new route of supply across the high Himalayan mountains to northern India.

Burma, including the undeveloped Shan States on the east and the Kachin Hills and Chin Hills tracts on the north and northwest, respectively, covers an area of 261,610 square miles. It is nearly five times as large as Illinois.

In it dwell approximately 16 million people, about 85 per cent of whom are Buddhists. The Christian population is less than 3 per cent of the whole. The remainder are mainly Animists, Mohammedans, and Hindus. Rangoon, the capital, normally has more than 400,000 inhabitants, Mandalay about 150,000, and Moulmein about 65,000.

There are about 2,000 miles of railways in Burma, and about 10,500 miles of highways. The Irrawaddy river and its navigable tributaries provide an important artery of commerce.

Rice Is Main Crop.

Agriculture is the main source of Burma's wealth, and rice is the leading crop. About 400,000,000 bushels are harvested annually. Sixty per cent of this in normal times is exported.

Cotton, beans, millet, peanuts, and other crops are grown in abundance.

The most important mineral product is petroleum. The oil production for 1940 was 6,800,000 barrels.

Among Burma's other minerals are gold, silver, copper, zinc, lead, and tin. Timber cutting is engaged in extensively, and there are numerous rubber plantations.

Great Britain has been in control of all Burma for 55 years and a considerable portion of it for 115 years. A chief commissionership until 1897, Burma then was changed to a lieutenant governorship. In 1923 it was constituted a governor's province and made a part of India. On April 1, 1937, it was separated from India.

The executive authority of the crown colony is exercised by a governor.

Suspended

MRS. ROSE K. JOYCE.

Mrs. Rose K. Joyce, Hyde Park High school history teacher who wrote a letter congratulating David Nyvall Jr. on his "courageous stand" in refusing to register for the draft, was suspended yesterday by Dr. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools.

The suspension order charged Mrs. Joyce with "conduct unbecoming a teacher." The board of education at its meeting tomorrow will set a date for her trial.

Young Nyvall, who attended Hyde Park, was a pupil of Mrs. Joyce in general history in 1938, according to Joseph F. Gonnelly, principal. Mrs. Joyce, whose home is at 1545 East 60th street, was graduated from Hyde Park in 1921 and from Chicago Teachers' college in 1925. She entered the school system as a teacher in 1926. She has taught at Hyde Park since 1933. Principal Gonnelly said her record as a teacher "has been excellent."

CLAIM 3 GERMAN PLANES DOWNED IN MALTA RAIDS

LONDON, March 2 (AP).—Two German bombers and a fighter probably were destroyed over Malta yesterday, the air ministry news said today. "It was one of the most intense attacks on the island since that German air force returned to Sicily in December," the ministry said.

Beat Off Axis Patrol.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 2 (AP).—An axis column, encountered in the area east of El Mekili, "withdrew on being engaged by our artillery," the middle east general headquarters communique said today.

Claim 12 Planes Downed.

ROME, March 2 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—Only patrol activity on the North African front was reported by the Italian high command today, indicating no material change in the Libyan standstill. Twelve British planes were destroyed by German planes, the communique said.

WORD PICTURE OF BURMESE TOWNS IN THE WAR NEWS

Pegu, Burma, is a railroad town on the Pegu river, about 58 miles northeast of Rangoon, where the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad crosses. It was once the capital of the state of Pegu and had a population of about 160,000, but has dwindled in the last 200 years to about 10,000.

* *

Toungoo, about 100 miles up the central Burma valley from Pegu, also is a railroad town on the Sittang river, principal thorofare for native traffic. Its chief importance lies in its position on the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad.

* *

Pyinmana, another 40 miles up the Sittang river from Toungoo, and near its head, is another small stop on the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad. The surrounding land of this area has considerably higher elevation than that lower down the valley. Both Pegu and Pyinmana are junction points from which run branches of the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad, eastward to Moulmein from Pegu and northwestward from Pyinmana.

Mrs. Frances Thomas of Northbrook was notified by the navy department yesterday that her brother, Charles Proffitt, 36 years old, chief gunner's mate, has been reported missing in action. Scene of the action was not disclosed. Proffitt formerly lived at 532 Webster avenue, Chicago. His wife, Marion, now lives at Valparaiso, Ind., with their baby son.

'TIME HAS COME' FOR OFFENSIVE, MARSHALL SAYS

32 Billion War Bill Goes to President.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sen. W. R. Austin.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—A bill appropriating 32 billion 762 million dollars and raising the total commitment by congress for the prosecution of the war to 142 billion dollars, was passed unanimously by the senate today without the formality of a record vote. A few minutes later the house, without debate, approved of a senate amendment which added 691 millions to the measure and sent the bill to the White House.

Passage of the bill followed the reading of a letter from Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, which deplored demands for the use of American combat forces to protect coastal communities and interior installations.

"Time Now" for Offensive.

Gen. Marshall's letter, read by Sen. Warren R. Austin [R., Vt.], said:

"The time has now come when we must proceed with the business of carrying the war to the enemy and not permitting the greater portion of our armed forces and our valuable material to be immobilized within continental United States. The enemy, calculating on public reactions, is undoubtedly employing submarines close inshore for the purpose of restraining our efforts to engage our planes and ground troops, so far as practicable, offensively in distant theaters.

"Further, I feel that we must expect isolated air raids of a few planes directed against us for no other purpose than to create a public reaction which will adversely affect the sound military purpose of defending America by engaging and defeating the enemy in theaters distant from our shores."

Pleas for Inland Protection.

Gen. Marshall said the war department had been deluged with requests and demands for the employment of federal combat troops not only to protect our coastal communities, but to guard installations thruout the United States.

"In the early weeks of the war, practically all such appeals were heeded in order to reassure the public, tho it meant disruption of divisions and more or less the cessation of combat training," he said.

Such appeals now are "piling up in a forbidding manner," Gen. Marshall added. He urged members of congress to "take the lead in offsetting the present unfortunate reactions."

Austin Reads Letter.

Sen. Austin read and approved Gen. Marshall's letter in the course of a prepared speech defending the Roosevelt administration's conduct of the war.

"We vote for this appropriation with full realization of the burden it will lay upon us, but we do it cheerfully because we believe that it is an essential step to winning the war and consolidating the position of the four freedoms," Austin said.

The speech by the assistant Republican leader of the senate, who is a devoted supporter of the Roosevelt administration, apparently was intended as a reply to speeches made last week by Senators Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.], John A. Danaher [R., Conn.], and Robert A. Taft [R., O.].

Huge Backlog Charged.

These three senators deplored the absence of official information to justify the appropriation of incomprehensible sums of money and charged that congress is piling up a backlog of unspent and unexpendable appropriations that will result in the loss of its constitutional power to control the purse strings. They elicited from Sen. Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], manager of the appropriation bill, the statement that present spending plans contemplate a total outlay of only 84 billion dollars by the end of the fiscal year 1943, which would leave unexpended a total of 58 billion dollars out of the 142 billion thus far appropriated.

The appropriations committee published no information as to the number of airplanes, tanks, guns, and other implements of war that will be acquired with the 32 billion 762 million dollars. The bill includes $23,485,737,900 for the army, $3,852,000,000 for the construction of 1,476 new ships aggregating 16,127,821 deadweight tons by the United States maritime commission, and $5,425,000,000 for lend-lease aid to allied nations.

The appropriations for the army include funds to complete the equipment for a force of 3,600,000 men.

Congress only a few weeks ago appropriated 12½ billion dollars for the army air corps.

Nearly three-fourths of the required 120 nurses have been enrolled by General Hospital unit No. 13, organized by the staff of the Presbyterian hospital, it was announced last night. Notice of mobilization is expected any day, those in charge said, and applications will be accepted as speedily as made until the roll is filled. Miss Nelle Crout, a Presbyterian graduate, has been transferred from Fort McClellan, Ala., to head the nursing staff. Dr. Edwin M. Miller has been named lieutenant colonel and chief of surgical service and Dr. Homer K. Nicoll, lieutenant colonel and chief of medical service of the unit.

AIR FORCE MADE EQUAL PARTNER OF GROUND ARMY

Supply Service Becomes Third Component.

President Roosevelt will retain authority to exercise thru the chief of staff the Presidential functions as commander in chief in relation to "strategy, tactics and operations" of prosecuting the war.

Chiefs of combat services affected by the reorganization are: Maj. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, chief of infantry; Maj. Gen. John K. Herr, chief of cavalry; Maj. Gen. Robert M. Danford, chief of field artillery, and Maj. Gen. Joseph A. Green, chief of coast artillery. Affected by the combination of the old air force units is Maj. Gen. George H. Brett, chief of the air corps.

Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson compared the new supply command to a similar organization created in France under Gen. James G. Harbord during the last war. The reorganization, he continued, is undertaken with the sole objective of speeding the winning of the war.

"It provides two great coördinate fighting arms, air and ground, and relieves them of the distraction and effort required by supply, procurement and general housekeeping problems," said the secretary. "A small, alert, compact air-ground general staff will be provided to aid the chief of staff."

New Duties for Coast Guard.

Meanwhile President Roosevelt today issued another executive order to facilitate the war effort thru reorganization of past procedure. He transferred all the functions of the bureau of marine inspection and navigation from the department of commerce to the coast guard and the bureau of customs and assigned the training functions of the maritime commission to the coast guard.

The order makes the coast guard responsible henceforth for the safety inspections of every American merchant vessel and for all marine casualty investigations. Five state nautical schools for merchant marine training were placed under the direction of the coast guard, now a part of the navy.

RUSSIANS MASS ENORMOUS FORCE, BERLIN REPORTS

Tells of Attacks in 40 or 50 Successive Waves.

BERNE, Switzerland, March 2 (AP).—The Russians are massing "almost unheard of forces" all along the front for what is believed to be a large scale attack, reports originating in official Berlin quarters said tonight.

German planes were said to have observed great columns of fresh soviet troops and enormous supply trains moving up behind the Red army's advance lines.

At some points, Russian attacks already were under way and these were described by German military spokesmen as "on a scale not reached hitherto in the war."

The Berlin correspondent of the Zurich newspaper Die Tat quoted reports from advance sectors saying Russian troops were attacking German positions in 40 or 50 successive waves, and that these soldiers showed no hesitation, regardless of the cost. He said the soviet Siberian units admittedly were demonstrating "almost unbelievable stubbornness."

Mass for Fantastic Effort.

"There can no longer be any doubt," he wrote, "that the soviets are massing all their forces in men and material for a fantastic effort to bring about a decision."

[In Lisbon, Portugal, a foreign military expert told the Associated Press that "the Germans must retreat to positions west of all the big rivers in Russia before the thaw begins, or they will run the great risk of being crushed by the soviets for lack of communications." He said, "no pontoons or any kind of military bridges can resist the strong currents of swollen Russian rivers during the spring thaw which lasts at least three weeks."]

Russian attacks were described in reports coming from Berlin as especially intense in the southern sector of the Donetz industrial region and in the Crimean peninsula where the Soviets were reported using many 52 ton tanks and long range guns.

The correspondent of Die Tat said the Nazi air force was compelled to devote its entire activity to trying to disrupt the Red army's communications.

Claim 77 Planes Downed.

MOSCOW, March 2 (AP).—The Russians reported tonight they were steadily frustrating air-borne attempts to supply the German army trapped in the Staraya Russa sector, were enlarging their free zone around Leningrad 140 miles to the north, and were preparing a new attack on Kharkov in the south.

Destruction of 77 German planes yesterday, was announced in tonight's soviet communique which said the Red air force lost only eight craft.

[The British radio declared Hitler had scattered half his air strength from Norway to France and over the Mediterranean area, thus enabling the Red air force to "achieve superiority over the German air force during the whole of the winter offensive."]

Situation Grows Worse.

The fact that the Germans are so persistently attempting to supply the encircled 16th army at Staraya Russa by air was interpreted as an indication that the 96,000 men there when the encirclement started were in increasingly desperate straits.

A soviet communique said that in the push out from Leningrad the Red army garrison had destroyed two blockhouses and 15 dugouts and had killed 1,200 Germans in two days.

[The intensity of this fighting was indicated also by the Germans, who reported they had withstood 167 soviet attacks in six weeks. A report from Stockholm said the Russians had regained 20 miles on the Leningrad front in the last week.]

To the south, in the Donetz basin, an unseasonable thaw made the going heavy for both sides, but the Russians said they were dragging artillery forward for a fresh attack on Kharkov, a key point in the southern campaign.

PENSION REPEAL COMPLETED, NOW UP TO PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—The senate completed legislative action today on a measure repealing legislation permitting congressmen to obtain government pensions.

With fewer than 25 members present the senate accepted a joint house-senate conference report approving the pension repealer as an amendment to a house bill.

The house bill, which now goes to the President for signature, provides continued pay for members of the armed forces and government civilian workers who are reported missing or in enemy custody. These payments would go to dependents.

Two other significant riders were attached to the bill.

One would authorize an $8,000,000 appropriation for construction of supplemental locks in the Soo canal between Lake Michigan and Lake Huron to expedite the shipment of iron ores.

The other would provide a 20 per cent increase in the basic pay of enlisted men and 10 per cent in the basic pay of officers in the army and naval forces on duty in foreign lands or in the Philippines, Hawaii, and Midway Islands.

PLAN AIR COURSE AT WEST POINT FOR ALL CADETS

West Point, N. Y., March 2 (AP).—A minimum of 10 hours air training will be a required part of the curriculum for every cadet of the United States Military academy.

Discussing the new regulation today, Lieut. Col. R. W. Harper, assistant to Lieut. Col. J. M. Weikert, in charge of air corps training, said every man, regardless of what branch of the service he entered, would be taught "at least the rudiments of aviation before he leaves West Point."

Army air force training has received steadily growing emphasis at the academy, where this year 175 of 378 graduates will enter the air arm.

MOROS SWEAR ON KORAN TO FIGHT JAPS TO THE END

10,000 Tribesmen to Wage War with Spears.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Ten thousand Moros in the Philippines have sworn a solemn oath upon the Koran never to lay down their serpentine daggers and keen edged swords until the invading Japanese are ejected, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported today.

MacArthur transmitted to the President a message signed by Alonto, sultan of Ramain and a member of the Philippine senate, that 10,000 Moros of Lanao province on the island of Mindanao already had sworn the oath and that more fighting men were being sworn every day.

The message said they had pledged themselves to disregard all differences in religion between Christians, Mohammedans, and pagans to "fight together as one people for a greater purpose, to destroy the enemy of good government."

Will Fight with Knives.

Alonto, signing the message in behalf of all Moro sultans of Lanao, deputy governors, municipal mayors, and other district officials, told MacArthur that "all fighting men of Lanao would like to sign their names, but they are too many."

"We have prepared our bladed weapons because we lack firearms," said the message, "and with sharp kris, barong, campilan, tabas, and spear, we will attack or defend as ordered."

The kris is a dagger with a serpentine blade, a traditional weapon of the Moros. The barong is a thick backed, thin edged knife or sword, and the campilan a heavy, two-handed, straight edged sword.

"We Know How to Fight."

The Moro pledge said in part:

"We Lanao Moros have fought for many generations; we know how to fight. When we swear upon the Koran we know what it means—which Gen. Wood, our good friend, would know means all out fight and no mercy asked."

In reply, Gen. MacArthur transmitted to the Moros the following message:

"Please tell the Lanao Moros that no more inspiring or significant incident has occurred in the mighty struggle that now engulfs the world than the magnificent stand they have taken. It covers them with immortal glory and elevates the Moro race to the highest pinnacle of spiritual grandeur. However hard the road, ultimate victory is certain. I have transmitted this message of superb fidelity to the President of the United States."

Believe German Planes Used.

The possibility that Japan had been forced to dig into her reserves of military equipment to maintain her fighting strength in the Philippines was suggested in military circles today after planes believed to be German made appeared in bombing raids over MacArthur's positions.

An army communique reported heavy aircraft participating in local bombing raids, which caused no damage, included three two engine planes with unusual markings.

Painted black, with white crosses on the wings, they were tentatively identified as of German manufacture.

The possibility that the Japanese have received aerial reënforcements from Germany was discounted.

The army communique this morning reported again that "there were practically no ground operations in Bataan during the past 24 hours."

Brazil Creates Air Base at Natal; First in Country

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, March 2.—President Getulio Vargas signed a decree today creating an air base at Natal, the first one in Brazil.

COL. M'CORMICK SAYS NAVY MUST LICK SUBS FIRST

Asserts True News Denied to U. S. Public.

Washington, D. C., March 2 [Special].—Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, declared in an interview published today in the Washington Times-Herald that our navy must first lick the axis submarine fleet now running wild in American home waters before we can begin to dream of successful war on foreign fronts.

The United States, he said, is for all practical purposes in a state of siege because of submarine attacks on our coastal shipping, but the public does not quite realize what is happening. Blame for public ignorance he laid squarely upon the Roosevelt administration.

Criticizes Lack of News.

"The man who is giving out naval news is not an American," said Col. McCormick. "He is not handling the news in the American way. In Europe the government tells only what it wants to, but here we expect the government to tell the truth and let the public judge.

"I have just traveled by train from Chicago to New York and from New York to Washington. Conductors, brakemen, porters, dining car waiters—all knew exactly what happened at Pearl Harbor. So many travelers out of Washington have been talking about it they couldn't help knowing.

"It is very embarrassing to the newspapers, therefore, not to be allowed to tell the truth."

Navy Not Controling Submarines.

Present naval resistance to the submarine attacks is obviously unsuccessful, said Col. McCormick. When people on the mainland of North America hear the explosions of torpedoes and see tankers supposed to bring oil to them going up in fire, they must realize we are a long way from a major war project on any distant continent.

In addition to the need for naval administration that will sink the subs and let the American public know the truth about the war, we need a sharp awakening of the military spirit if we expect to be a fighting nation in a fighting world, he said.

"There is a crying need," he said, "for a strong military character to impress his personality upon the army of today as Generals Pershing and Summerall did in the last war, and as Gen. MacArthur is doing in the Philippines.

Surprised at Young Men.

"I see a lot of funny looking young men on the streets of Washington wearing uniforms. They are dressed as soldiers, but they don't look, stand, or walk like soldiers.

"We aren't going to win a war with an army of air-raid wardens, either.

"I must say I find it difficult to understand the young men of today. It seems to me that when wearing a military uniform they'd want to be out where there is a soldier's life and when wearing a naval uniform they'd want to be out in the gulf stream battling the submarines, instead of slopping around the bars and night clubs of New York and Washington."

But for all the concealments and diversions, said Col. McCormick, the public is learning and results may be expected in the coming elections.

"I think we will see a much stronger house of representatives elected," he said. "People have had all they can bear of rubber stamps."

TRAFFIC UP 9 PCT. ON SURFACE AND 'L' LINES IN MONTH

Bus and Rail Passengers Also Increase.

Passenger traffic on both the surface and elevated lines increased more than 9 per cent in February over the corresponding month a year ago. Traffic on buses and the various suburban railroad services also rose.

The increases were shown yesterday in a survey of the transportation facilities serving Chicago. Company officials attributed the gains primarily to two causes: first, the upswing in industrial employment, and second, the downswing in private motoring resulting from the tire shortage. Indications were that the army of revenue paying riders may grow still more.

Surface Lines Income.

The surface lines, which normally carry 77 per cent of the city's transit riders, carried 5,000,000 more passengers last month than in February, 1941, a gain of 9.17 per cent.

The rider rise began in January, soon after the tire shortage was felt, and continued thru February. During the two month period—January and February—the trolleys transported 124,323,555 passengers against 114,592,562 in January and February last year, a net gain of 8.5 per cent for the two month period.

To meet the demands, the surface lines placed 150 more cars in service. There were 3,300 in operation during rush hours.

Repair 40 "L" Cars.

The elevated lines fared almost as well. They carried 13,268,833 passengers in February, against 12,130,851 in February last year, an increase of 9.3 per cent. The January-February total was 27,395,980, a gain of 7.6 per cent over January-February of 1941.

As a result the "L" system has repaired and placed in service 40 cars that had been standing idle in the yards for years. It also is repairing 100 more for use. Eventually, the elevated will have 1,600 cars available for passenger needs.

Because of a rate hearing pending before the Illinois Commerce commission, the Chicago Motor Coach company was unable to give out specific figures on bus passenger trends, but it was learned the company carried many thousand more riders last month than a year ago. The company pressed 35 new buses into service in February, making a total of 553 now in operation, an all time high.

Increase in Rail Travel.

Railroad suburban services, both steam and electric, reported general increases, but late statistics were not available in all cases. The Chicago, Aurora & Elgin electric railway carried nearly 7 per cent more riders in January, 1942, than in January, 1941; the North Shore lines gained 8 per cent in the comparable period, while the South Shore lines reported a 12.5 increase.

The Burlington railroad's January passenger load was 10 per cent higher than the January, 1941, load, while the Illinois Central's January gain was 11 per cent; its February increase was 10 per cent. The Milwaukee railroad gained 16 per cent last December as against December of 1940, while the North Western gained 9 per cent in the comparable period.

The special city council subcommittee which is investigating the advisability of staggering working hours to relieve rush hour traffic problems will meet tomorrow morning to hear a report by its engineers, Ald. Francis E. Callahan [37th], chairman, said last night. The engineers have surveyed the working hours of firms in the downtown district.

TRANSIT TANGLE RECORDS WILL BE ABRIDGED FOR ICC

Attorneys for the street car and elevated lines yesterday agreed to submit to the Illinois Commerce commission Friday a digest of more than 20,000 pages of court records involving 15 years of litigation in the proposed 179 million dollar merger of the two systems.

The agreement was reached after William E. Helander, assistant commissioner, and Fred Kleinman, chief accountant for the commission, said the commission wants all evidence bearing on the public interest and the fairness of the merger plan. Thomas L. Marshall, attorney for the "L," and William J. Friedman, attorney for Surface Lines' first mortgage bondholders, agreed to submit all information requested.

Boy, 14, Shot Accidentally in Home, Dies of Wounds

John W. Shuler, 14 years old, who was shot accidentally Sunday night at his home, 4100 Carroll avenue, died yesterday in Robert Burns hospital. He was wounded while he and a cousin were examining a .22 rifle after doing some target shooting in the basement. The gun was held at the time by the cousin, Herbert Spencer, 15, of 3026 Madison street.

Two RAF flyers from New Zealand, Flight Officer Ray Mellsop, 30 years old, and Sergeant Pilot Peter Day, 21, stopped in Chicago yesterday on a hitchhiking trip thru the middle west before they head overseas. They recently completed their advanced training at an RAF base in central Canada and are spending a one week furlough before they report for duty at an east coast Canadian port. "Our only regret is that we're so far away from home now that the Japs are creeping down on us," Mellsop said. "Everything was rosy when we left home last October. If we had more planes there wouldn't be any doubt that Australia and New Zealand could turn back the Japs." Mellsop lives in Hamilton, N. Z., and Day in Pukekohe.

LAWYERS URGED TO STAND GUARD ON CIVIL RIGHTS

Biddle Speaks to Bar Convention in City.

Attorney General Francis Biddle yesterday called upon organized attorneys in each community to stand watch against any unnecessary invasion of civil liberties in the wartime emergency, but at the same time urged members of the bar to explain to the public the necessity of temporary sacrifices of certain peacetime rights.

He addressed 200 members of the house of delegates of the American Bar association which opened a two-day session in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Lawyers can make a great contribution to American victory in the war, Biddle said. He suggested they expand their efforts to conserve and protect the professional interests of young men entering the armed forces, and organize effective legal services for all soldiers and sailors to meet the problems of post war readjustments.

Can Aid Small Business.

In addition, he said, the bar should come to the aid of the small businessman in securing rearmament contracts and subcontracts.

The attorney general told the lawyers that the department of justice has thwarted an abortive fifth column in the United States and that all enemy aliens whose records indicated disloyalty have been swiftly interned.

President Roosevelt sent the following telegram to the association: "It is unnecessary to remind a meeting of American lawyers that we fight today to make liberty under the law secure thruout the land Your contributions to our unity of purpose and to our high morale will speed the victory. I send greetings and good wishes to all who labor in the common cause."

A telegram from James M. Landis, director of the office of civilian defense, asked the attorneys to offer advice to local civilian defense councils.

Should Help Defense Units.

"Lawyers with administrative experience can add greatly to the strength of local defense units," Landis' message said. Among the services he suggested were the formation of regulations governing the emergency flow of traffic, the extinction of lights and the dispersion of crowds and an explanation of legal powers of air raid wardens and auxiliary policemen as well as executive officers of defense organizations. He also urged them to serve as members of speakers' bureaus.

Walter P. Armstrong, president of the association, told the house of delegates it was their duty to persuade the people that justice is the great concern of man on earth and that "we have the will and know the way to better the administration of justice."

SHOTGUN BLAST INTO HOME KILLS BUYER OF STOCK

Slain as He Sits Beside Radio with Wife.

Monroe, Wis., March 2 [Special].—Ned Hartwig, 34 years old, was shot and killed by an unknown assailant about 9 p. m. tonight while sitting with his wife in the living room of their home here.

Hartwig was a cattle buyer who had lived in Monroe for several years. His home originally was in Orangeville, Ill.

Hit by Shotgun Charge.

District Attorney Rudolph P. Regez said that the killer used a shotgun and that he fired thru a window from the front porch of the home. There was only one shot fired, the charge striking Hartwig in the back of the neck.

Mrs. Hartwig was sitting only a few feet from the window when she heard it crash and saw the muzzle of the shotgun come thru and belch flame. She said only one lamp was on in the room and she was unable to give any description of the killer. Neighbors said they heard him run to an auto and drive away westward.

The district attorney said authorities have no clews as to the identity of the slayer or as to a possible motive for the crime. Hartwig was not known to have any enemies, and had a reputation as a hard and steady worker, he declared.

Wife Has No Theories.

Hartwig's wife, who was sitting with him listening to a radio program when the shot was fired, was unable to offer authorities any theory as to the attack in preliminary questioning, according to Regez.

She was to be questioned by the sheriff and police chief later tonight. A 5 year old son of the couple, Tommy was sleeping in an upstairs bedroom at the time of the assault.

His total loot was about $1,000. Davis, 31 years old, has a record of 13 months in the Bridewell for larceny.

New York, March 2 [Special].—Karl Gustaf Morner de Morland, a member of the Swedish nobility, today gave up his title of count to become an American citizen. The former count is known here as Gosta Morner. He took his oath of citizenship from Federal Judge William Bondy. He was formerly married to Peggy Hopkins Joyce. They were divorced in Paris in 1928. CONDUCTOR'S HEART ATTACK FATAL.

August Noftz, 68 years old, a retired street car conductor, died last night of a heart attack in his home at 2817 South Tripp avenue.

NEGRO DIRECTOR REQUESTS MORE RACIAL FREEDOM

A plea for greater opportunities and representation for Negroes in the armed forces and in governmental units was made yesterday by Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council. He spoke before the Chicago Negro Baptist Conference in Liberty Baptist church, 46th street and Michigan avenue.

Brown also cited the need for a Negro congressman who will be a "militant, God fearing, courageous leader who has never failed his people and can be trusted out in front and behind closed doors of the inner councils."

Representation in Congress.

"A strong clear voice," said Brown, "must be raised in congress backed by a strong Negro sentiment, financed by the Negro ministry of the National Baptist convention, the Bishop Methodist councils, the Fraternal council of churches, and other civic and race organizations."

"The Negro congressman must proclaim from the housetops and at all times his complete allegiance to his race," Brown said.

Must Fight for Rights.

Chicago's colored population, he said, must help in the fight for "full, fair, and equal participation in the armed forces and the government's defense training program for skilled and specialized employment."

In a 17 point program for betterment of the Negro's state, Brown included: an end of racial discrimination in governmental and private industries, abolition of the poll tax laws, passage of anti-lynching legislation, more Negro employés in the Office of Civilian Defense and in the offices of the War Production and War Labor boards.

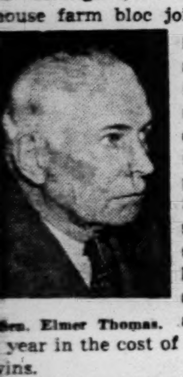
HOUSE FARM BLOC DEFIES F. D. R. IN BAN ON DUMPING

Committee Reports Out Bill for Parity.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Sen. Elmer Thomas.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—The house farm bloc joined a similar group in the senate today in defiance of President Roosevelt's edict against restrictions on prices for surplus farm products. A spectacular battle on the issue looms with a predicted increase of a billion dollars a year in the cost of living if congress wins.

Reporting a $695,065,859 farm spending bill for the coming fiscal year, the house appropriations committee approved a provision that no farm stocks held by the Commodity Credit corporation may be sold at less than the parity price.

The senate passed a bill carrying this provision last week and it was immediately denounced by the President as the product of "selfish interests" at a time of national peril.

Fear Veto of Act.

Fearing a veto of this legislation, the senate group had contemplated attaching the parity price rider to the 32 billion dollar war funds bill on the theory that the President would never veto this measure. They dropped the plan today after Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley [D., Ky.] noted that the army and navy does not buy the raw products held by the Commodity Credit corporation. But Sen. Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.] served notice that the issue would crop up again when the agriculture appropriations bill is sent to the senate by the house.

Farm leaders had been apprised, in any case, that Mr. Roosevelt might veto the vast war fund measure as a dramatic evidence of his severe disapproval of the parity price rider. The administration contemplates the sale of huge stores held by the Commodity Credit corporation at less than parity in order to keep food prices from rising too high.

Prices Now Near Parity.

"Parity" is a farm price level fixed by the secretary of agriculture which generally is supposed to put farmers on the income level enjoyed during the 1909-'14 level. Most farm prices are now near parity and are expected to go above that level under war conditions.

Commenting on the parity price provision in answer to the President's contention that such restrictions are inflationary, the committee declared:

"We do not believe that congress intends to vest the secretary with power and duty to handle government-owned stocks of agricultural commodities so as to prevent such prices rising to parity levels, or even for the purpose of 'bearing' the prices of such commodities below minimum ceilings fixed by congress in recently-enacted price-fixing legislation."

The farm fund bill contained no new appropriation for parity payments. Last year, the sum allotted was 212 million dollars, but the committee recommended this year only the spending of an unexpended balance of about 2 million dollars. This was because farm prices are high enough without subsidies. But the soil conservation fund was fixed at 450 million dollars—only 50 million dollars less than last year.

The appropriations committee in its report today accused the farm security administration of "carrying on experiments in collective farming under a plan which appears to resemble the practice of collective farming in communist Russia."

Wickard Is Alarmed.

The bill contained a prohibition against any new projects of such nature and a ban on loans of more than $2,500 to any farmer under the rural rehabilitation program.

Discussing the general farm outlook, Secretary of Agriculture Claude A. Wickard expressed "alarm" and regretted that not many seemed to share his fears.

Wickard denied charges by the American Farm Bureau federation that the Farm Security administration had solicited farmers to seek loans and paid poll taxes of southern farmers to build up a political pressure group for the department.

Farm Labor Crisis Studied; Draft of Food Raisers Eased

Shortage Is Serious

Representatives of 2,500 agricultural teachers in 13 midwest states yesterday opened a four day regional conference in the La Salle hotel and began wrestling with one of the knottiest problems in the war effort—how to step up farm production from 10 to 30 per cent in the face of one of the largest farm labor shortages in the history of the nation.

The conference will take up the farm problem in group discussion periods. The representatives are state directors of agricultural education in rural high schools and state land grant colleges. The session is sponsored by the United

The problem to be studied, as outlined by James H. Pearson, federal agent in charge of central states vocational education, follows:

1. As part of the war effort, production of 10 farm commodities—pork, beef, mutton, eggs, milk, peanuts, soy beans, vegetables, and fruits—must be increased to fill all army and civilian demands. The goal for 1942 ranges from 10 to 30 per cent, according to Pearson.

2. The farm labor shortage, which is more acute now than at any time in recent years and threatens to become more serious as time goes on, must be remedied.

A New Questionnaire

Springfield, Ill., March 2 (AP).—Illinois selective service registrants who are engaged in farming will be called upon to fill out a special questionnaire to guide local draft boards in determining whether they are eligible for deferment from military service.

Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state selective service director, said today the questionnaire was developed after some agricultural leaders and organizations complained the draft was taking men whose services were more urgently needed in the production of foods for war.

The special questionnaire is designed to provide draft boards with complete information about farm workers, so boards may better decide "whether a man employed in farming actually is necessary to war production," Armstrong explained.

He estimated Illinois registrants engaged in farming number 225,000.

Farm organization leaders have contended recently that a severe shortage of agricultural labor threatens to disrupt peak production of food.

"It is the policy of selective service to protect agricultural workers who are actually necessary in the war program of increased food production," Armstrong said.

Carries Chickens in Street Car; Won't Leave; Fined $5

John Kurczewski, 48 years old, 175 North Ada street, was fined $5 yesterday by Municipal Judge Victor A. Kula. He was charged with disorderly conduct for refusing to leave a street car when other passengers complained to the conductor. Kurczewski was carrying a live chicken in each hand at the time and the noise they made was described as "unbearable."

INJURED FATALLY IN FALL.

Stewart Spiers, 48 years old, a lineman for the Commonwealth Edison company, was injured fatally yesterday in a fall in his home at 2730 Giddings street.

SHERRY IS GONE, BUT ON CLARK ST. THEY REMEMBER

Her Friends Will Give Her a Decent Burial.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

Genevieve Christensen, known on North Clark street as Sherry, died Friday in her tiny room at 1159 North State street. Even before the police took her shabby handbag and two suitcases filled with shabby clothes to the coroner's office, Matty's place at 1116 North Clark street began a fund for flowers. Then they heard there wasn't enough money to bury her, and the collection continued.

Last night there was $65 in a tumbler behind the bar. Matty Petta showed a scribbled list of givers. Barney and Gils and Carl and Boots were down for $1 each. Gus, the bartender, gave $2. Virginia gave 50 cents.

A Familiar Figure.

Sherry has been a familiar figure around Clark and Division streets for seven years, and as long ago as prohibition days Matty remembered her on Wells street. She was just a kid, then, he said, and pretty.

The question came up as to how Sherry lived. Some one mentioned $40 a month from an estate in Denmark—until war came. Others said she was a waitress, a bookkeeper, a hatcheck girl.

As Matty talked a girl in a blue suit and hat came in. She didn't know Sherry, it seemed, but she was interested.

"What's it cost to get buried decent?" she asked.

Other customers drifted in. One said Sherry had been well-educated.

"She could talk on subjects," he said.

Sherry Often Read.

Another said he used to see her come in and order a drink and sit quietly reading books. What kind of books?

"Literature books," he said firmly.

"My father had a nice funeral," said the girl in blue. "Flowers, of course. But when I die, no flowers. Just break a whisky bottle on my grave."

How old was Sherry? Some one said 28 or 29.

The girl in blue took off her hat. She bent her head toward the man next to her.

"I'm 35," she said. "Do you see any gray hairs?"

The man said "No."

Matty remembered giving Sherry 50 cents one day for food because she said she was hungry.

And She Liked Music.

"She dropped it in the juke box," he chuckled. "I told her: 'I oughta kick you. My arm ain't broke. I coulda dropped it in there.'"

"Are you buying?" the girl in blue asked the man beside her.

He bought.

The funeral will be held tomorrow in the chapel at 716 North State street. Matty said there'll be at least three cars.

"Of course, there'll be none of them limousines," he added.

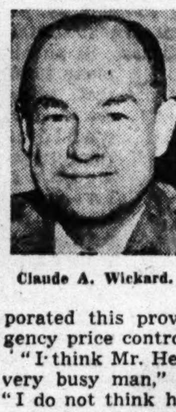
A sign on the chapel calendar could serve for Sherry's epitaph: "Jenny Christensen. Time later."

Sherry probably thought there was lots more time for lots of things.

WICKARD'S BOSS, BUT HENDERSON MAKES DECISIONS

Secretary Complains of His Price Aid.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Claude A. Wickard.

Washington, D. C., March 2.—Secretary of Agriculture Claude A. Wickard complained at a house committee hearing today that he doesn't always understand Price Administrator Leon Henderson. The secretary is supposed to be the administrator's boss when it comes to fixing farm prices. The farm bloc incorporated this provision in the emergency price control statute.

"I think Mr. Henderson has been a very busy man," the secretary said. "I do not think he feels he is necessarily bound to ask for my approval on the actions he is taking. When he asks me a question, I don't know whether he's asking my approval.

Have Different Philosophies.

"Mr. Henderson has said he wants to work with us very closely, but he has never said that there was to be agreement. He makes the decisions."

The two members of the President's family lean toward different economic philosophies. Henderson, a former professor, is trying to restrain farm prices to curb inflation. Wickard, a handyman of the politically strong tillers, would stimulate production by upping farm revenues. The secretary's testimony was on his 1943 appropriation bill.

"I told Mr. Henderson," Wickard continued, "that we in the department did not quite understand what he was doing. I still do not understand the significance of this, for instance: At the present time there is a ceiling on the price of steamed lard but not for refined lard. . . ."

Rep. Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.], quoted Henderson as saying that he [the price administrator] had consulted with the department of agriculture.

Have to Get Together.

"I can have our man come up here and testify just what is happening," Wickard said. "I'm afraid some of the prices proposed would interfere with our production effort.

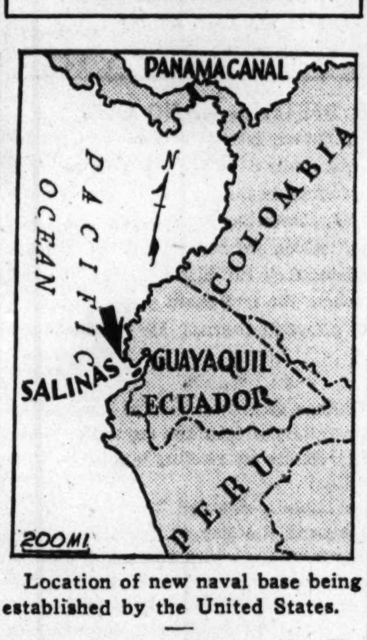
"When we get thru with our current examination of the supply and the demand situation, and see what we think the support prices should be, we will have to get together with Mr. Henderson and obtain his approval of these prices or we won't be able to make them effective."

Under the law, Henderson fixes prices, subject to certain restrictions in the case of farm products. One of these restrictions is that the secretary of agriculture must approve.

Camel Meat May Be Sold on Meatless Days, Egypt Rules

CAIRO, Egypt, March 2 (AP).—Camel meat may be sold on meatless days, the Egyptian government decreed today. The step was expected to relieve the meat shortage and improve trade relations with the Sudan, which has a surplus of camels.

New Naval Base



Location of new naval base being established by the United States.

Quito, Ecuador, March 2 (AP).—The United States is establishing a naval base at Salinas, strategic point guarding the entrance to Quayaquil bay and controling a large area of the southern Pacific, President Carlos Arroyo Del Rio said today.

The chief executive pointed to this as demonstrating that Ecuadorean cooperation in hemisphere defense "is based on acts, not words." He recalled his decree of Jan. 6 which made a portion of the Santa Elena peninsula, on which Salinas is located, a military area.

SWEDES OFFER SHIPS TO CARRY FOOD TO GREECE

Ask American Red Cross to Help Fight Famine.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 2.—The Swedish Red Cross has offered to place at the disposal of the American Red Cross a number of steamships with a total of 60,000 tons cargo capacity for carrying food, medicines, and other supplies to starving Greece.

With the threat of famine nearer to Europe every month, and with many nations already suffering from undernourishment and plagues resulting from starvation rations, the Swedish Red Cross is eager to help Greece and other countries in Europe in every way possible.

Expedition Leaves Soon.

Within a few days, the transoceanic freighter Hallaren will leave Gothenburg with a relief expedition of doctors, nurses, and workers for Greece. The Swedes have donated 40 tons of medical supplies and a small quantity of food, and the Hallaren expects to call at Lisbon, Portugal, to take on more food supplies.

After discharging her cargo at Athens, Greece, the Hallaren will be used to transport foodstuffs and other supplies from Turkey to Greece. The shortage of tonnage in the Mediterranean is said to have prevented such shipments.

Feed Finnish Children.

Sweden is practically the only country in Europe which is carrying on relief work, and is accomplishing much with her limited resources. During the coming week, 10,000 Finnish children will be eating one warm meal daily in Helsingfors provided by one of the Swedish relief committees functioning here, while 9,000 Finnish children, most of them under school age, are now being cared for in Swedish private homes and institutions. Several hundred French and Belgian children also are being cared for here.

The spectacle of a world war in which children are the chief sufferers is agonizing to the Swedes, who because of the British navicert restrictions and the blockade, cannot send any of their precious food out of the country.

Rations Are Severe.

Not that there is a surplus, for the Swedes have imposed rations which an American housewife would regard as privations. But they say the blockade of Germany has proven ineffective, and before a single German is likely to starve, tens of millions of European children will either die of famine or disease and millions of others will suffer all their lives because of the present malnutrition.

Many Swedes are asking if the blockade cannot be lifted for the children of Europe, who are today the chief war sufferers.

Annual Report for 1941 on YOUR POLICY and those of your 2,850,000 fellow-members in this Society
Thomas I. Parkinson PRESIDENT
THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY OF THE UNITED STATES

REDUCED to its simplest personal terms, that is what we are fighting for.

The victory will "take winning" but it will be won.

For America is strong . . . strong in red-blooded patriotic men and women . . . strong in industrial plants equipped to produce the sinews of war . . . strong in financial resources . . . strong in the capacity of our people to work, save and sacrifice . . . and above all else, strong in the will of a free people to keep their freedom.

Another source of national strength is the family security that the American people have built and are continuing to build through life insurance.

This family security is more important today than ever before. It helps to build national morale, and sound morale among Defense Workers and other home folks, as well as among our fighting forces, is essential to victory. The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States provides $7,607,000,000 of life insurance protection.

Life insurance also serves to strengthen the social and economic fabric of the nation through the unceasing flow of benefit payments. Every hour of 1941 The Equitable paid an average of $23,918 in benefits, a total of $209,000,000.

A life insurance institution is also privileged to aid the war effort by investing in U. S. Government securities and by providing capital to industry to produce needed materials. The Equitable recognizes an obligation on behalf of its policyholders to direct a large part of its funds into Government securities. Between the attack on Pearl Harbor and the year-end, The Equitable acquired $88,500,000 of U. S. Government obligations. Supplementing financial aid to Government, The Equitable has $1,491,500,000 at work in industry and business.

By promoting individual thrift, life insurance is supporting the Government's program for reducing non-essential spending and paving the way for increased war production. Equitable agents last year helped 100,000 persons to establish $306,000,000 of individual life insurance protection.

The protection and cash resources policyholders build through their policies not only help American families withstand financial shocks of the war period but provide a backlog of security to meet post-war readjustments.

Just as every Equitable policyholder will make the utmost possible personal contribution toward our war effort, so the management will work and plan with the one objective that transcends all else—helping America to achieve victory.

Thomas I. Parkinson
PRESIDENT

"YOUR POLICY"

There is a story behind every life insurance policy . . . a story of things deep down in human hearts. The smile of a baby . . . the tender glow in the heart of a mother . . . the pride of a father. In reality, these human things are as much a part of the annual report of a great life insurance institution as an accounting of the stewardship of millions of dollars of policyholder funds.

"Your Policy," annual report of The Equitable Society, endeavors to capture some of these human things. It also contains practical illustrations of how best to use your present insurance. You may obtain a copy from any Equitable agent or the Society's home office. A copy is being mailed to all policyholders.

DAY by DAY on the FARM

By GAIL COMPTON

Farm Aids in Defense.

March 2, 1942.

FOR the purebred dairy cattle at the farm the war has had some pleasant repercussions. In line with the farm's wartime policy of maximum production, dairy cows have been getting extra feed each day to increase milk production.

The herdsman is pushing his animals much more than he did last winter in an effort to keep the herd in heavy production. Cows receive about 30 pounds of alfalfa silage, 15 pounds of hay, and a 32 per cent protein supplement. Each cow receives a pound of ground corn and cob and oats for every 3½ pounds of milk it gives.

Control Feed of Cows.

Each animal is fed in accordance with its production. Indiscriminate heavy feeding will have little effect save perhaps to harm the animal. If, however, the grain and other feeds are rationed properly, and increases are made in ratio to the cows' ability to produce then a more uniform and sustained production can be obtained.

The herd now numbers 45 head, including bulls and calves. The men are milking 16 now, and are getting approximately 300 pounds of milk daily.

The herd has been checked thoroly by veterinarians and has been pronounced free of tuberculosis and Bang's disease.

To make sure this freedom from disease will be maintained, the herdsman has decided to have his calves innoculated against Bang's disease. This disease can sweep thru a herd causing the cows to abort, the milk production to slacken, and necessitate the destruction of most of the infected animals.

Calf innoculation for Bang's disease is a fairly recent innovation and one that is gaining wide popularity. The vaccine is given to calves between 4 and 8 months old. Experimental field studies by the department of agriculture show that 96.7 per cent of calvings by 13,888 animals previously vaccinated were normal.

Milk Vital in Defense.

Thru increased feeding, strict sanitation and other methods at his command, the herdsman is trying to get the cows to produce more milk vital in the defense effort.

A stroll thru the dairy barn at milking time revealed a radio perched on a shelf shattering the air with tunes. One of the milkers was asked if the music made the cows give more milk. "Nope," came the reply, "but it makes us work faster."

AVERT SITDOWN OF AFL WORKERS AT SHELL PLANT

A threatened sitdown strike by 20 union carpenters at the Elwood shell loading plant south of Joliet was averted yesterday by the construction superintendent, tho warned the men they were trifling with the armament production of a nation at war.

The plant is owned by the government and is operated by Sanderson & Porter, private contractors, on a fixed fee basis. All wage rates are determined by the government.

It was learned that the carpenters, members of an AFL union, objected to a pay cut of about 10 cents an hour that was put into effect when the work they were doing was switched from a temporary to a permanent basis. When the seriousness of their method of complaint was cited, the carpenters willingly went back to work, according to army officers.

RIOTING IN DETROIT.

Fourteen persons were injured, including five policemen, in a riot in Detroit on Saturday. At a cost of a million dollars the government had built some 200 dwellings for defense workers. The project had been intended originally for Negroes, but protests from white residents of the neighborhood resulted some time ago in the announcement that the houses would be occupied by whites. The Negroes then protested and the government again changed its mind. When several Negro families sought to move into the new quarters on Saturday entrance to the project was barred by a picket line and the fighting and furniture smashing began.

The incident is an ugly one, discreditable to the federal housing officials and more especially to the government and people of Detroit. They were all in the wrong and in varying degrees they all bear a share of responsibility for the outrage.

The Detroit Free Press says "City officials generally view the racial controversy as the most serious threat to the peace of Detroit in many years, and that includes all the strikes of the last 10 years." Several weeks ago Mayor Jeffries used much the same language in saying, "It is by far the most serious thing in my administration."

What the officials apparently do not see is that the housing riot is itself the outgrowth of the labor disorders which were so generally tolerated in Michigan a few years ago. At that time public officials, taking their lead from President Roosevelt and Gov. Murphy, refused to resist acts of mob violence. Factories were occupied and no serious effort was made to enforce orders of the Michigan courts to return the properties to their owners. At one moment the strikers in Lansing seized control of the statehouse itself, and were not opposed. Highways were blocked, interstate commerce on the railroads was interrupted, and nothing was done about it.

That was Michigan's education in mob violence and the lesson has apparently been well learned. Many people in Detroit seem to have reached the conclusion that the larger the mob the more praiseworthy its activities.

Self-anointed humanitarians thruout the country sympathized with the sitdown strikers and found excuses for their lawlessness. The rioters were said to be underprivileged and therefore entitled to adjust the balance in any way they could find. Cowardly public officials were praised for their calm acceptance of the disorders, as if the safeguarding of life and property were not the primary concern of all government and of state and local government in particular. Mr. Murphy was rewarded with an appointment to the Supreme court.

Now the mob had turned against the least privileged group in America. That should have been expected. When the notion becomes current that the constituted authorities will not keep the peace, the victims of racial or religious prejudice, being in a minority, must expect the worst, particularly at such moments as this in Detroit when there is much unemployment resulting from the shutdown of the automobile factories.

That is the principal lesson to be derived from the disgraceful incident. A secondary lesson is that if communities invite the federal government to build houses for the citizens, the wishes of the federal burocracy and not of the communities will be followed.

AUSTRALIA SECONDS THE NOMINATION.

The Associated Press reports that the Sydney Telegraph has proposed that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be named commander of all southwest Pacific forces and quotes the Australian newspaper as saying, "Gen. Wavell's ABDA [American-British-Dutch-Australian] command has moved westward to Burma and a new Pacific command is needed. Most of his [the new commander's] forces will be American and he should be an American."

The suggestion has been made several times in these columns that MacArthur, as a field commander who has met the Japanese and proven that he, of all the anti-axis commanders, can fight them effectively, is the man best qualified to take over the consolidated command of what forces are left. If strong bodies of American troops are to be sent into the western Pacific, MacArthur's experience with the enemy will be invaluable in the formulation of a winning strategy.

The task then remains of bringing MacArthur out of the Philippines. When Gen. Wavell recently proposed to go personally to MacArthur's aid on Bataan peninsula, we had evidence that planes could get thru the Japs to the Philippines. If planes can get in they can get out, and MacArthur, after turning over the Bataan command to one of his able subordinates, should come out in one of them and assume the larger job to which he is called.

DEMOCRACY'S STRENGTH.

Pearl Harbor was a disaster. Singapore is a catastrophe. Bataan is a tragedy. Java may be another. Could Hitler have survived these disasters—the disasters visited on the democracies? The question can be asked because the free peoples are surviving them, and will survive them.

In the streets of Montreal a few weeks ago young French Canadians shouted "Down with conscription." Imagine crowds shouting in the streets of Berlin, "Down with the war! Down with the tyranny!" There would be work for the firing squad. Otto Tolischus tells how a woman in Mainz grumbled of Hitler's reich, "It will never get any better." She was compelled to go every day to the office of the mayor and repeat the formula, "Every day is better already and will get still better and better."

Would Hitler survive a Singapore? You may say he has had a Russian winter, but do the people of Germany know the extent of that reverse? Not when the wounded, by the uncounted thousands, are hidden in hospitals all over Europe. Not when death notices are rationed. Not while the propaganda machine speaks only of victory deferred.

The tyranny, with its police repression, its command of all information, its promise of the neighbor's goods, can hold the dull mass in line now. But when the disasters come and can no longer be hidden, how long do you give Hitler then?

FRENCH PACIFIC ISLANDS

United States recognition accorded Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Free French control over the French island possessions in the Pacific raises the question of whether we should not immediately occupy these islands and negotiate for their permanent ownership by this country. It is not enough simply that the French possessions in Oceania are friendly. They must be organized so that they can be defended and retained as useful bases in the face of whatever force the Japanese can bring against them.

After the fall of France, the New Hebrides and the large Island of New Caledonia, flanking Australia to the east, went over to the Free French cause. They are close enough to Samoa that their occupation by the Japanese would threaten that American base, while they are also on the line of any Japanese approach to New Zealand. Almost a year ago the American naval air force was considering the establishment of a seaplane base at Noumea in New Caledonia, which is a regular point of call on the American Clipper plane route to Auckland, N. Z., and only five hours by transport plane from Brisbane, Australia. New Caledonia is also valuable as a producer of scarce metals. It is the world's third largest producer of nickel and a large exporter of chrome, both of which are important for munitions making.

These islands are now protected by a De Gaullist adherent, Georges d'Argenlieu, who in peacetime is a friar of the Carmelite order, but who in war is a French admiral. The Japanese had hoped to get access to them, in the same manner as the yielding Vichy government handed over Indo-China, but the friar-admiral stands in their way. Nevertheless, Japanese intentions were clearly stated in the Tokio press, which announced that "Japan will not hesitate for a moment to resort to force to stamp out De Gaullists in the Pacific."

The United States is forewarned, and it should be forearmed. It should be much less hesitant about injuring Vichy's feelings in dealing with the Society Islands and the Marquesas in the South Central Pacific, which also have embraced the Free French cause. More than 10 years ago the Societies were such orphans of France that there was a popular movement to place themselves under American mandate. Eight years ago congress was asked whether France should not cede the Marquesas to this country in lieu of her unpaid war debts, and it was pointed out that American bases there might offset Japan's illegal fortification of her Pacific mandated islands.

Almost overlooked in the vast Pacific is France's Clipperton Island, a coral atoll 700 miles west of Mexico and south of Lower California, which lies athwart ship lanes to the Panama canal. The loyalty of this island as between Vichy and De Gaulle is indefinite, but 11 years ago, after the king of Italy, acting as arbiter, awarded the island to France in its dispute for possession with Mexico, a large appropriation was voted to establish bases for hydroplanes and submarines. These bases in Japanese hands would be most dangerous, and it must not be overlooked that Japan is an axis ally of Italy, which assured French possession of the island and which is now as thick as thieves with Vichy. President Roosevelt visited Clipperton on one of his yachting expeditions in 1934, and it may be that he recalls the fact and is aware of the danger.

While the United States is considering acquisition of the French Pacific possessions, it should also enter negotiations to acquire permanently the foreign islands we are occupying in the Atlantic. The leases granted us on some and the right of bases granted on others are unsatisfactory arrangements. It would seem evident that to carry on war across wide oceans we need way stages along the communication lines, and our best chance of safeguarding and holding them would be in taking them over on a permanent basis.

Editorial of the Day

NO, NO, MR. SLOTKY!

[Lexington (Ky.) Leader.]

Mr. Samuel Slotky, regional information consultant for the division of information of the Office of Emergency Management, has sent to the Leader and presumably to hundreds of other papers the first copy of a daily column, "Your War," which is being written for the OEM, or, in other words, for the government.

Says Mr. Slotky: "We will send this column to you by mail for a week. At the end of this time, will you please mail us your reaction, whether you care for same or not?"

Our reaction, Mr. Slotky, is unfavorable. Please cross us off the list as a noncoöperator, or whatever it is you call a newspaper that refuses to make itself a house organ for the administration.

A house organ is what you would make us, in degree, anyway, Mr. Slotky, and a house organ, moreover, concealing its identity and parading as an independent, for you have asked us not to carry a by-line on the column and you imply that we are not to reveal its origin or connection in other ways. You would, it seems, have us assume responsibility for what you want said. You would have us contribute to the appearance of nonpartisan, dispassionate fact and truth by not informing our readers that the column is government inspired.

It is not, Mr. Slotky, that we have any especial criticism of the specimen column, or that we don't want to do everything that a newspaper honorably can to promote American military success. It is the principle, and the potentiality, that we object to. For a good many years now, the government, or the administration, has entered farther and farther into the propaganda business, and not always for indubitably great and holy causes, either. That movement has disturbed a great many of us, for we saw in it a sort of incipient bureau of public information, after the Nazi pattern. We saw the possibility, even then being translated into fact, that government propaganda would be directed toward the entrenchment of disputed policy and the perpetuation in office of elective officials—to the injury, of course, of informed opinion and of the free democratic way.

We will not risk being a party to the promotion of that tendency, Mr. Slotky, no matter how unbiased and accurate this one columnist may appear to be. We have our news services, whose aim is to give us the news, not to slant opinion. We have loyal, patriotic columnists willing enough to stand responsibility for their utterances. We shall try to struggle along with them. We shall try to remain a newspaper.

"OUR PISTOLS RANG OUT."

When the Andaman Islands became a target for Japanese bombs a few days ago, the mighty spirit of Sherlock Holmes began to haunt the oriental scene of war. A. Conan Doyle's stirring tale, "The Sign of Four," which formed the second chapter in the great detective's life history, came to mind. Remember Tonga, the malignant pygmy, with his blowpipe and poisoned thorns? He was an Andaman islander.

• • •

Sherlock Holmes gave his faithful biographer, Dr. Watson, a glimpse into the mystery of the murder of Maj. Sholto by reading a passage from a gazetteer, thus:

"'Andaman Islands, situated 350 miles to the north of Sumatra in the Bay of Bengal. . . . The aborigines may perhaps claim the distinction of being the smallest race upon this earth. . . . The average height is rather below four feet, altho many full grown adults may be found who are much smaller than this. They are a fierce, morose, and intractable people, tho capable of forming most devoted friendships when their confidence has once been gained. . . . They are naturally hideous, having large, misshapen heads, small, fierce eyes, and distorted features. . . . They have always been a terror to shipwrecked crews, braining the survivors with their stone headed clubs, or shooting them with their poisoned arrows.'"

• • •

Then there was the end of the chase down the river, when the policeboat had overtaken the Aurora; when the little savage clapped his blowpipe to his lips; and when "our pistols rang out together." The deadly dart whizzed between Holmes and Watson to stick in a wooden hatchway. "Holmes smiled at it and shrugged his shoulders in his easy fashion."

• • •

"The Sign of Four" [1889] marked the first and, we think, the only appearance of the Andaman Islands in English literature.

DIARY OF SENOR MANANA.

Some day I'll visit poor old Fred
Who long has been confined to bed;
Will he be glad to see me, yea!
Ah, yes, I'll call on him—some day.

Some day I'll write to Aunt Marie
Who regularly writes to me;
Will she be pleased, well I should say!
Yes, I shall write to her some day.

Some day I'll take a pretty toy
To that dear little crippled boy;
How he will fondle it at play!
I'll take it to him, too—some day.

Some day I'll bring home flow'rs to Jill
Just so she'll know I love her still;
Yes, flow'rs have always made her gay.
I'll surely bring her flow'rs—some day.

Some day I'll do so many things
That to the sad heart pleasure brings,
Yet if I wait too long it may
Be just too late to act—some day.

Twilight and Falling Snow.

The black and ugly city of the silent hours has become a gentle place of dreaming beneath the lightly falling feathers of the Snow Bird.

I look up and, with half a try, can see the Snow Bird in the sky. She is beautiful beyond description, her whiteness so translucent the very stars seem pale, while she shakes her great white wings benignly over the rooftops, the treetops, the waiting earth.

Even as I watch I am one with another world, a world of soft shadow and of gleaming whiteness, a world of yesterday, and today, and tomorrow.

Sweet and distant, church bells sound a prayer for the peace of this hour, the calm of this place, the beauty of the Snow Bird, the dreaming of the evening. Kathy.

A Little Lesson in Japanese.

The Japanese use the word "maru" only with the names of merchant vessels; it means "round." It was formerly used for the rounded towers of castles and probably became associated with ships from the castellated appearance of Chinese junks. . . . After the name of a warship, the Japanese use the word "kan," which was originally a Chinese word for a warship.

AN INSTANT ONLY.

An instant only, and the world has changed—
It will never be the same again;
And now the infinite distances I ranged
Are more familiar than the summer rain.
Even the stars, known all my observing years,
Are different, more candid and more bright,
And all the sudden rifts that brought me tears
Will be but beacons in the deepening night.
Because I walked with you to the last rim
Upon the edge of that which men call Time,
And held your hand, and saw the chalice brim
With colored flame, then break with clashing chime;
Now I am not afraid, but walk serene
Across the years that rise to intervene.

The Press Club Triumvirate.

Linemaster: I cannot tell you how much I appreciated your tribute to Sam Kiser [Feb. 9]. I scanned the columns of the Chicago and New York newspapers to see if some of the veterans would pay tribute to such a sterling character as Sam, but I looked in vain until your recognition of him came.

In days gone by, when the Press club was one of Chicago's leading organizations, Sam Kiser, Wilbur Nesbit, and Dick Little formed a triumvirate that every member of the club knew and was proud of, and we all recognized the fact that, not only in that group but in the entire club membership, Sam was the kindliest and most lovable of them all. How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

OXYGEN EASES DIFFICULT BREATHING.

OXYGEN is indispensable. We cannot live without it. Just a little, however, will not do. Ordinary air contains 20 per cent and the lungs are accurately adjusted to this dilution. In an airplane 20,000 feet above sea level we would become unconscious. In other words, we could not maintain alertness because the atmosphere at that elevation does not contain a sufficient volume.

Any disease which prevents the circulation from obtaining the proper quantity will be followed by anoxemia, which means that the blood is hungry for more of this element.

In pneumonia, for example, where a substantial portion of the lung tissue is "out of commission" because of inflammation, we find that the administration of oxygen may be lifesaving. Struggling for breath, with twice the normal number of respirations per minute, the victim exhausts his strength quickly. This is explained by the fact that the remaining functioning air sacs are obliged to do double duty. Within a brief interval this situation may result in disaster. So much reserve is used up in the muscular effort of inhaling and exhaling that not enough remains for the manufacture of antitoxin against the causative germ.

Cautious physicians, when confronted with cases of this character, may start increasing the concentration of oxygen as soon as the diagnosis is made so that starvation of the tissues is prevented. With extra supplies of this substance, these patients will not only lose their cyanosis [blueness], but headaches and restlessness as well.

The gas can be given thru a small rubber tube inserted into a nostril, with the tip resting against the back of the pharynx. In some instances a tent is preferred, particularly as the temperature can be controled. There need be no sense of suffocation despite the fact that the upper half of the body is within an enclosure. The concentration can be tested from time to time, and its beneficial effect continued for as long as required.

Of course, the best plan is a room wherein the source of supply is some distance away, where nurses and attendants can carry on necessary procedures without interference. For the past 10 years several of my colleagues have been privileged to work with such equipment. The comfort of the patient and the ease with which heat and carbon dioxide are both controled approach the ideal.

Probably one of the most distressing accidents is a block in one of the coronary vessels of the heart. A tank of oxygen is an ever present help. After the first few inhalations, the sense of relief is marked. It is not unusual to have the patient drop into a light doze portraying some lessening of pain. In any failure of the circulation, this program is indicated clearly.

But we must understand that this vital air is not a healing agent. It merely helps to maintain the body at par. Thus physical energy is not used up unnecessarily. Can the delicate cells of the lungs withstand the pure gas [100 per cent]? Yes! and apparently without the slightest injury.

DIET IN SCURVY.

F. I. writes: My mother was cured of scurvy by eating lots of fruits and vegetables. Now she is back on her old starch-fat-protein regimen. Is she likely to suffer another attack?

REPLY.

Quite. In order to ward off this ailment, vitamin C containing foods must be included. Suggest that she use tomato juice or citrus fruits daily.

TWO ERRORS.

G. H. writes: I have heard that cocoa butter, being an animal fat, will cause hair to grow on the face if used regularly. Is this true?

REPLY.

No danger, even tho it came from a bear. Cocoa butter is obtained from the seeds of the chocolate plant, quite some distance from the animal kingdom.

LESS UNION, NOT MORE.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—Owing to the great activity at this time of the Union Now organization a few words of friendly criticism might be in order. The British empire, consisting of a fourth of the world's area and population, and controling immense stores of all classes of raw materials and natural resources, is a perfect self-contained entity. It is now going thru a great change. The empire units are gradually breaking away from the very things Union Now advocates or implies. Every few years these units demand and receive more and more political and economic independence. They are enacting their own tariff and immigration laws which operate against the mother country and other units just as they do against the outsiders. They are establishing their own consular and diplomatic agencies and their own form of government. Instead of more closely binding themselves politically, economically, socially, and militarily, they are doing just the opposite. W. F. FARRELL.

DOUBLE PAY SLACKERS.

Chicago, Feb. 25.—Our unions saw fit to have a mere 250 war plants remain idle Feb. 23 [the day we all celebrated as Washington's birthday] because the plants operating couldn't pay double wages for the day. If this happened in an axis country our lofty union men would be machine gunned before they had time to take another breath. To my way of thinking each and every one of these big shots should now be in line waiting for his army equipment at the salary for which many of our men today are now dying—$21 per month. LEE ELLIS.

WISE SAWS FROM THE ANCIENTS.

Chicago, Feb. 27. — The editorial, "Steel and Gold," recalls the remark of Solon who when shown the gold accumulated by Croesus, said, "Yes, but some one with better iron can take your gold."

Another old-timer whose remark might be quoted more today was Cato, the Roman, who closed all speeches with the words, "Delenda Est Carthago." It seems evident that two countries whose moral philosophies are so dissimilar as that of Japan and the United States cannot exist in the same world, and our motto should be, "Delenda Est Cipango," unless Cato had it copyrighted. W. H. P.

GREEN HARVEST HANDS NO HELP.

Champaign, Ill., Feb. 25.—I voice the feelings of thousands of farmers when I say we do not appreciate being told that there are men in the so-termed labor agencies that can take the place of our men and boys on the farm. The administrators need to know that farming is no longer a job that "any one can perform." Mechanized agriculture calls for skilled labor, highly skilled. These men they suggest evidently have never taken a very vital place in any industry, especially at a time when the demand for labor exceeds the supply. J. F. JOHNSON.

CUSS WORDS.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 25.—I read a news item recently in which it was stated that the Anti-Profanity league had asked the President to call upon the people of our country to quit swearing. We cannot get by with brazenly damning people and things. We can right about face like the people of ancient Nineveh did. F. E. EXUM.

FROM AN AIR CADET WHO PASSED.

Lombard, Ill., Feb. 27.—Undoubtedly the would-be air cadet who used your column recently to air his particular gripe has had little experience outside the realm of books. Certainly I claim to be no second Einstein, but yet I found it no great task to pass a test where the answers are right in front of you. In the aviation cadet examination, 90 questions out of a possible 150 are passing. These questions are all multiple choice and cover a general scope of subject matter. The only difficulty was in reading the question thoroly and using common sense in choosing one of four answers. The so-called complicated questions on gun and airplane mechanisms were nothing more than simple diagrams of gun breeches and airplane fuel pumps, which a 10 year old could understand.

The United States air corps permits those who fail this exam to apply again after a three month period. Why not try again, fellow? H. L. COSYNS.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—When property owners lost their fortunes in 1932, there was no subsidy by the government nor a rental floor to guarantee the overhead. Each month's rental was accompanied by a dictum, "Give me this or I will not pay the rent." The tenants as a lot have shown no mercy to the landlord. They demanded new refrigerators and decorating at a time when taxes could not even be paid. The landlord paid for the tenant's automobile. It came first in the budget, and the rent last.

Chicago for the last 10 years had the lowest rentals of any of the large cities in the United States. A price rental ceiling is the next step to socialism. The sequel would be to sell the buildings to the government and get rent below cost. STANLEY R. KOY.

APPRECIATION.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Permit me to express my deep admiration and appreciation for the sane patriotism of your policies in THE TRIBUNE and fervently I hope you may arouse the people sufficiently to insist upon an American war, not a British; upon the rescue of Gen. MacArthur, upon efficient expenditure of those fantastic billions by Washington's hysterical officials. ELIZABETH FORCE.

THE WHITE MAN'S BURDEN.

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 23.—If we win back Singapore, Burma, India from the Japanese, they are our possessions, not the possessions of the English. We must then educate them and give them the chance to enjoy the four freedoms. CAROLINE LOESCH.

WOULD DENY CITIZENSHIP IF ENEMIES WON'T QUIT.

Chicago, Feb. 26. — After World War I. a great number of our former enemies—men who bore arms against American troops—emigrated to this country to enjoy the American way of living and American peace and security, and some of them have not even yet become American citizens. We should now pass a law that any person bearing arms against any American soldiers or their allies will never be allowed to come to United States or its possessions after this war is over unless they lay down their arms at once and surrender. If this were announced in propaganda to Germany and Italy, I believe it would bring great results, especially so among intelligent people in those countries who are tired of hypocrisy, dictatorship, and wars. ALAN METREGER.

SPILT MILK.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—In your editorial today headed "Bataan Passes the Hat for a Bomber," wouldn't it have been better to suggest some way of sending help to Gen. MacArthur rather than criticize the administration for not having done it? There are those who say that it cannot be done and if this is so because of past mistakes, let us not spend our valuable time crying over spilt milk, but let's try to find the best method of mopping up that milk. REPUBLICAN.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

PAST DUE RENT.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People].—My tenant's rent money was due last Jan. 1. So far he made no effort to pay me.

1. Shall I serve him with a landlord's five days notice to pay?
2. Should this notice have a notary stamp?
3. Can I file this notice in court?
4. What other procedure is followed in these circumstances?
5. This is my first unpleasant experience and I will appreciate any legal advice you may be able to give me. T. Y.

1. Yes.
2. You must be prepared to prove service of the notice and an affidavit taken before a notary is a convenient method of proof.
3. Yes.
4. If the debtor does not comply with the notice, the next step is to sue for possession.
5. In view of this fact it will probably be advisable for you to employ an attorney.

HENDERSON TELLS 20 CITIES TO CUT RENTS OR HE WILL

Detroit, Cleveland, South Bend Affected.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Price Administrator Leon Henderson tonight named as defense rental areas 20 communities in 13 states in which rents must be lowered to "proper levels within 60 days or the government will move in to do the job."

The listed areas take in 8,000,000 persons, including, Detroit, Mich., and Cleveland, the largest cities named. Henderson "recommended" that rents be cut back to the levels of April, 1941, in some of the cities, but named January or July, 1941, in others.

Other Orders Considered.

More than 100 areas in addition to those named are in line for similar rent regulation, the price administrator disclosed.

Under the price control act the OPA administrator is required to give state and local authorities 60 days to bring rents into line. If they fail, he is empowered to impose federal regulation.

List of Cities Affected.

The areas designated and the "maximum rent dates" with which rentals must be brought in line are:

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 1, 1941; Burlington, Ia., Jan. 1, 1941; Bridgeport, Conn., April 1, 1941; Hartford-New Britain Conn., April 1, 1941; Schenectady, N. Y., April 1, 1941; Birmingham, Ala., April 1, 1941; Mobile, Ala., April 1. 1941; Columbus, Ga., Jan. 1, 1941; Wilmington, N. C., April 1, 1941; Hampton Roads, Va., area, April 1, 1941; Detroit, Mich., April 1, 1941; Akron, O., April 1, 1941; Canton, O., April 1, 1941; Cleveland, O., July 1, 1941; Ravenna, O., April 1, 1941; Youngstown-Warren, O., April 1, 1941; Wichita, Kas., July 1, 1941; San Diego, Cal., Jan. 1, 1941; Puget Sound, Wash., April 1, 1941; Waterbury, Conn., April 1, 1941.

27.5% Rise in Burlington.

Burlington, Ia., March 1 [Special].—A survey conducted here last September by the WPA found that rents had gone up 27.5 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941, when the Iowa Ordnance plant went into operation, according to Oliver Reiley, secretary of the city's fair rents committee and executive secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Riley said that rents had previously been subnormal and that there have been few cases of exorbitant rental demands. The committee informed the Office of Price Administration two weeks ago that it saw no need for the government to intervene in the rent situation and pointed out the selection of Jan. 1, 1941, as a fair rent date would penalize many landlords who only now are getting normal rentals.

The ordnance plant brought 13,000 persons to a city with a population of 26,000 and 8,000 homes, Reiley pointed out. There are now no vacant houses or apartments in the city, altho about 200 sleeping rooms are registered with the committee. The government is building 975 houses for defense workers and there are 375 government trailers in use for defense housing.

South Bend Surprised.

South Bend, Ind., March 2 [Special].—Inclusion of South Bend among cities regarded by the Office of Price Administration as in need of rent administration came as a surprise to this city's fair rents committee, which only yesterday wrote the OPA that the rent situation did not require such action.

During seven months of operation this committee, set up by the mayor, has handled 50 rental complaints and has made satisfactory adjustments in all but two cases, it was said. Altho rents have been increased in many cases, the prevailing average for one family dwelling is now $35 a month.

WARN LANDLORDS HERE

Warning that Chicago landlords should not raise rents on the assumption that the federal government will not act was given yesterday by John C. Weigel, regional director of the Office of Price Administration.

Weigel said that, while the first group of defense rental areas designated by the price administrator includes communities with few vacancies and inflationary rent increases, this does not mean that Chicago may not become a defense rental area.

"If there are unwarranted increases in rents in the Chicago area," he said, "and local authorities are unable to cope with the situation I have no doubt that the Office of Price Administration will use the powers granted it by congress."

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th], chairman of the committee on rents and prices of the Chicago commission on national defense, said he expected no action from the OPA unless his committee was balked in efforts to compromise unreasonable rent boosts.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

THE QUESTION.

What particular thing do you find most cheering as you return home from a day's work?

WHERE ASKED.

Mercantile building, 305 West Adams street.

THE ANSWERS.

Morris Adler, accountant, 1647 Pratt boulevard—My wife is always in a good mood. If she's on the reception committee as I walk into the house I can't think of anything more cheering. It's a contrast in atmospheres when she's not there.

Orrin M. Peterson, elevator starter, 128 Geneva street, Elmhurst—The very minute I start walking up the steps I'm greeted by two sons who race toward me to get the funny section of the newspaper. Sometimes I almost feel a little slighted that the funnies get so much attention.

Michael J. Yolich, office clerk, 1949 East 72d street—My home here in the city is a boarding house with a lot of other boys. I find myself looking forward to the pleasant half hour I spend relaxing comfortably on the davenport in my room before the other boys get home.

Josephine Barron, secretary, 432 Surf street—If I'm anticipating a rather dull evening at home it's especially cheering to enter and find a message that a good friend has phoned and will call later. A letter that I've been hoping for is a good substitute for that, too.

Mary McElligott, clerk, 3122 West Jackson boulevard—It's not always easy for me to be right on time for the evening dinner. It's always a cheerful picture to see the whole family around the table with a place set for me. I soon forget anything that might not have been cheerful.

Earle F. Flinn, railroad agent, 1129 Loyola avenue—After a long day in a busy, noisy business world I find the peace and quiet and harmony in my home more cheerful than any other thing. It's soothing to the nerves and a pleasant thing to think about during the day.

CIVILIANS LEARN FIRE FIGHTING AT SIX STATIONS

The 30 foot ladder teetered dangerously. Capt. Milton Hensel of Truck Company 1 stepped in swiftly. "Easy, lads. Easy," he cautioned. "Now put your foot here, Moy, and you, Bruno—swing your weight against it, like this. A 2 year old could handle this stick of he knew how."

Capt. Hensel, first department veteran, was one of a number of firemen who last night opened training courses for civilian volunteers at six fire stations. Eventually 14,000 auxiliary civilian defense firemen will be trained to help cope with emergencies.

This particular class was held in the firehouse of Engine Company 17, 558 West Lake street, and the company's skipper, Capt. Thomas Powers, was another instructor. Twenty-eight volunteers, including Moy Gim Sum and Bruno Fasano, reported for the first of 20 two hour sessions.

VINSON DIGS UP A FLASH ITEM FOR WINCHELL!

Asks Navy to Put Him on Duty or Out Entirely.

Washington, D. C., March 2 [Special].—The activities of Walter Winchell, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the President's son, Franklin Jr., in connection with military affairs were the subject of discussion today in the house of representatives.

The name of Winchell, radio gossiper who was given the title of lieutenant commander in the navy, was brought up while congressmen were discussing whether the navy had given favored treatment to some persons.

"How about Lieut. Com. Winchell who gets $5,000 on the radio every week, reportedly in uniform?" asked Rep. Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.].

Vinson Proposes Solution.

"I have advised the navy department," replied Rep. Carl Vinson [D., Ga.], chairman of the house naval affairs committee, "that he be called to active duty or be disenrolled." Vinson's remark was greeted with applause.

Winchell, informed in New York of the congressional comments about him, said he would take the first train for Washington. He indicated he might see some of his critics on a trip here and try to obtain President Roosevelt's autograph.

The quest for the autograph has to do with getting the President's signature on a gift received from and autographed by Winston Churchill. The gift will be auctioned March 10 at a navy relief benefit show at Madison Square Garden. Winchell did not describe the gift.

"Don't Want Me in Samoa," He Says.

"They don't want me in Samoa," Winchell said. "They want me off the radio."

Winchell explained he had letters from his superior officers advising him that for the time being his present work and status was of more value to the navy than if he were on active duty.

The inquiry about Winchell's naval status was made as Rep. Vinson was defending the naval record of Lieut. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. Rep. William T. Pfeiffer [R., N. Y.] charged last week that the President's son was given more time to recuperate from an appendicitis operation than usually is required.

After recounting young Roosevelt's service record and his preparation for a commission in the navy, Vinson declared Pfeiffer's charge was "unwarranted, unjustified, and inconsistent with the true facts."

Pheiffer Offers Apology.

Rep. Pheiffer later told the house he wished to apologize to the members and to Lieut. Roosevelt and the public if any were offended by his speech last week.

He said that since criticizing Roosevelt's shore leave he had consulted physicians, who told him that altho two weeks was the usual convalescence period following such an operation, six weeks sometimes was required if complications developed.

The war activities of the President's wife were called to the attention of the house by Rep. August Andresen [R., Minn.]. Andresen suggested that Mrs. Roosevelt direct her criticism of local draft boards to her husband, "who is commander-in-chief of the army and navy."

Recalls Radio Talk.

"Last evening," Andresen said, "I heard Mrs. Roosevelt, in her commercial broadcast for a South American coffee company, criticize local draft boards for not properly placing selectees in the army according to experience and qualifications.

"Mrs. Roosevelt, with all her experience in handling governmental matters, should know better. Local draft boards have nothing to do with placing men in the army upon the basis of qualification. They have plenty of trouble without being unjustly criticized for things they have nothing to do with.

"Therefore, Mrs. Roosevelt's criticism should be directed to the President as commander-in-chief of the army and navy."

HOUSING RIOT DEFENDANTS IN COURT; 24 FREED

Detroit, Mich., March 2 (AP).—Fifty-two persons were arraigned today in Recorder's court in an aftermath to week-end rioting which grew from a dispute over whether whites or Negroes should occupy a million dollar defense housing project.

Twenty-four cases were dismissed by one judge, who adjourned three others, while another 24 defendants, in another court, demanded formal hearings. One defendant pleaded guilty to illegally transporting a dangerous weapon in an automobile.

Charges ranged from felonious assault and illegal transportation or carrying concealed weapons to simple breach of the peace, a misdemeanor.

In Washington, meanwhile, defense housing officials said prospective Negro tenants of the Sojourner Truth housing project would have to postpone their moving day indefinitely. The homes will remain empty for the time being, they said.

At Celebration

The Junior Achievement group of Chicago celebrated its second birthday by conferring leadership certificates on 30 adults and 20 young men and women at a banquet last night in the Central YMCA, 19 South La Salle street. The certificates were given for completion of a five weeks training course designed to lay the foundation for new Junior Achievement companies.

The Junior Achievement movement was founded 20 years ago to give youth a first hand knowledge of the American system of business. Today 15,000 young people thruout the country are organized in 1,000 companies. Each company is a complete economic unit which meets the same type of problems that confront large scale enterprises. Chicago has 23 companies with a membership of 276 boys and girls.

After the meeting, a visit was made to the North Park Craftmen company, a group of eight boys who manufacture leather articles. Arthur Snyder, executive director for Junior Achievement in Chicago, led the tour.

Dykstra, assistant to J. J. Noest, the Netherlands consul in Chicago, on "Java." Mr. Dykstra spent 14 years in the Netherlands East Indies service. At 8:45 p. m. Frank Cuhel, a former Cedar Rapids, Ia., college athlete, who is Mutual's representative in Java, is to report from Batavia. Other "on the scene reports" are expected on WBBM-CBS World Today program at 5:45 p. m., and WMAQ-NBC's News of the World program at 6:15 p. m.

Slogans and greetings in languages of the nations fighting the axis powers are going out on the Blue network. These catch phrases are inserted as signoffs for programs or other available spots. The object is to make the American citizen more conscious of his various allies in the world-wide war.

Spanish was the first language in which the slogans were broadcast. Other languages used include Dutch and Chinese. A list of suitable phrases in Chinese has been prepared by the Chinese consulate in New York. Joseph Ku, deputy consul, is coaching the announcers in the proper intonation of the various words and phrases. These are written out phonetically in English so that what the announcer says doesn't mean something else by the mere change of tone or inflection.

President Roosevelt, Vice President Wallace, and Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard will address American farmers over all major networks at 8:45 p. m. next Monday. Donald M. Nelson, chief of the War Production board, will speak over Mutual at 9:15 p. m., March 10. This talk is one of a series of four to be given over the major networks during March.

When Private Joe Louis of the army meets Abe Simon in a heavyweight championship bout on Friday, March 27, W-G-N and the Mutual network will carry the report with Don Dunphy at the microphone. Louis is donating his purse to the army emergency fund; Simon is contributing all but 15 per cent of his share.

Training School Inmate Is Charged with Assault

True bills charging assault with intent to murder and assault with a deadly weapon were returned yesterday by the Kane county grand jury against Noah Betts, 17 years old, colored, an inmate of the state training school for boys near St. Charles. Betts, sent to the school from Chicago last July, is accused of attacking two school officials last week. The bills were returned before Circuit Judge Charles D. Page in Geneva.

STAY FCC ORDER ON RADIO CHAINS PENDING APPEAL

New York, March 2 (AP).—A three judge federal court today stayed the Federal Communications commission from enforcing until at least May 1 its proposed restrictions on chain broadcasting.

The Columbia Broadcasting system and the National Broadcasting company won the stay pending their appeal to the United States Supreme court from the three judge court's decision dismissing their petition for an injunction.

NBC and CBS contested the FCC order barring exclusive network affiliate station contracts and prohibiting any company from owning two networks as an unauthorized attempt to enforce the anti-trust laws.

The court, in dismissing last week the companies' petition for an injunction, said it lacked jurisdiction. In its decision today granting the stay pending the Supreme court's action on the appeal, which the companies filed notice Saturday they would take, the three judge court said that the matter was not of such pressing importance that a further delay of two months will be a serious injury to the public.

BAKERY OWNER DIES OF POISON.

William Fritz, 50 years old, 10531 Avenue M, owner of a bakery at that address, died in South Chicago hospital yesterday of poison. Friends told the police that he had been despondent because his son and an employé recently had been taken into the army.

HIGH COURT RULES UNION NOT HIT BY ANTIRACKET LAW

Clears N. Y. Truck Drivers in Fee 'Collection.'

Washington, D. C., March 2 [Special].—The department of justice lost what it termed a $1,000,000 racket case today when the United States Supreme court overruled charges that AFL truck drivers in New York City violated the federal antiracketeering law by forcibly taking over the driving of out-of-state trucks when they reached the city limits.

Harlan F. Stone.

Members of the union were alleged to have used violence to collect $9.42 for large trucks and $8.41 for small trucks entering Manhattan, the sums representing regular union rates for a day's work of driving and unloading. It was charged they collected payments when their services were rejected and they performed no work for the money.

Concede Use of Violence.

The high court found that the government had proved that the unionists "conspired to use and did use violence and threats" to collect these payments but held, in a 6 to 1 decision, that these activities were not illegal in view of the exemption the federal act accorded efforts to obtain the "payment of wages."

Chief Justice Harlan Fiske Stone was the lone dissenter in the ruling which applied to local 807 [New York City] of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen, and Helpers of America and 26 individual members.

The crux of the disagreement was an exemption in the 1934 anti-racketeering act. The law was aimed at extortion in interstate commerce by gangsters and is directed against any person who obtains or attempts to obtain the payment of money by force, violence, or coercion.

Contends It Is a Tribute.

The justice department contended that payments demanded by the union were not for services rendered, but as tribute for the privilege of transporting and delivering merchandise within the city.

Chief Justice Stone upheld this view, asserting that there was abundant evidence that the payments were made "to purchase immunity from the violence of respondents and for no other reason," adding that truckowners and drivers paid the money "to avoid a beating."

The situation, he said, "was not altered by the willingness of the payee to accept as wages for services rendered what he in fact intentionally exacted from the driver or owner as the purchase price of immunity from assault."

On Par with Robbery.

He declared such an interpretation "would render common law robbery an innocent pastime," and continued, "for there can be no robbery unless the purpose of the victim in handing over the money is to avoid force."

"Precisely as under the present statute," the chief justice asserted, "the robber's use of force and its intended effect on the victim are essential elements of the crime both of which the prosecutor must prove. Under this statute when both are present the crime is complete, irrespective of other motives which may actuate the offender."

However, the majority opinion, written by Justice James F. Byrnes, upheld this fine point that the motive actuating the alleged offender did alter the situation.

The Majority Opinion.

"The exemption [of the antiracketeering law] is not restricted," the majority of the court held, "to a defendant who has attained the status of an employé prior to the time at which he obtains or attempts or conspires to obtain the money.

"Certainly an outsider who attempts unsuccessfully by violent means to achieve the status of an employé and to secure wages for services falls within the exception. The defendants are entitled to immunity if their objective is to become bona fide employés and to obtain wages in that capacity, even tho they may fail of their purpose."

"Need Not Go Unpunished."

The decision added that this exemption would not be altered even tho the truckers might pay the money not as wages but as tribute to avoid an assault.

"This does not mean," the majority opinion added, "that such activities are beyond the reach of federal legislative control. Nor does it mean that they need go unpunished.

"The use of violence disclosed by this record is plainly subject to the ordinary criminal law."

Conservation will be considered at forum sessions today and the Sociological society will hold an open meeting Thursday. UNION WALKOUT STOPS ALL WORK AT WAR FACTORY

Want Michigan City Firm to Collect Back Dues.

Work on approximately $80,000 worth of defense equipment, chiefly boilers and heating equipment for army camps, was stopped suddenly yesterday by a strike of more than 250 union men at the plant of the Weil-McLain company in Michigan City, Ind. The strike apparently was called because of the company's refusal to collect delinquent dues from employés for the union.

E. R. Westphal, plant manager, and other company officials labeled the walkout a violation of the union contract. The strikers are members of the International Moulders and Foundry Workers [AFL]. A federal labor conciliator was called in an effort to settle the dispute, but indications last night were that the work stoppage will continue today.

Order Given by Stewards.

The Weil-McLain plant was operating normally until 9 a. m. yesterday when stewards walked thru the shop and ordered the men away from their jobs, some shouting, "We don't work with nonunion men." In a few minutes the factory was idle.

According to Westphal, the Weil-McLain plant runs on an open shop basis, but more than 95 per cent of the men belong to the union.

The strike came as a surprise, he said, the company receiving its first intimation of it when a grievance committee from the union demanded that the company collect delinquent dues from certain members. The committee also demanded, Westphal said, that the company influence nonunion employés to join the union. The company refused and an hour later the men walked out.

Contract Runs to May 1.

According to Westphal, the union contract, which runs to May 1 does not require that the company maintain a check-off system deducting dues from employés wages. But the contract does provide, he said, that the union shall not strike without first submitting grievances to conciliation. No conciliation was sought, Westphal charges.

Union spokesmen summed up their grievances in an informal statement that the company had agreed to support the union, but instead was trying to undermine it. Apparently the reference was to the company's refusal to collect delinquent dues.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer draft and military service questions, both in the daily columns and personally if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

GROUND DUTY IN THE AIR CORPS.

Direct enlistment for ground duty in the army air corps was suspended under a recent ruling by the war department. Personnel for this branch of the service now is chosen from the thousands of men who enlist or are drafted into the army unassigned for general duty.

Corrects Previous Evil.

Recruiting officials say the new system is a good one, in that it does away with a "prima donna" type of recruit with which they had become all too familiar. This was the man who sought to enlist directly into the air corps and who, if he was not acceptable for this duty, refused to consider enlistment in any other branch of the army.

The new system changes all that. Now a man desiring to serve in the air corps enlists in the army unassigned. At the reception center to which he is sent he states that he prefers to be assigned to the air corps.

Draftees' Opportunity Same.

Aspirants for ground crew duty must make a minimum grade of 100 out of a possible 150 in the army general classification test which is given at the reception center to all recruits. If the aspirant so qualifies, he is assigned for training as a ground crew member. Draftees have the same opportunity for such assignment as do enlistees.

Ground crew aspirants who do not qualify in the test cannot just "wash their hands of the army" as they formerly could. On the basis of the test, together with other factors, they are assigned to duty elsewhere in the army.

[Tomorrow: "Discharged Men Under the Draft."]

QUESTIONS.

"Ex-vet" writes: "Will you please give me some information about limited service with the marine corps?"

ANSWER: Men accepted for this branch will be used for guard duty at naval bases and stations within the continental limits of the United States. Applicants must be between 30 and 50 years of age. Physical requirements are low compared to the qualifications necessary for enlistment in the regular or reserve corps. Only a limited number is being taken. Former marines or army men are preferred, but this is not a necessary qualification. Go to any marine corps recruiting office to enlist.

J. F. writes: "I am employed in a defense industry and I am in class 2-B, having received two deferments. Several friends have told me that third deferments are not granted to defense workers. Is this true?"

ANSWER: There is no set limit to the number of deferments given.

A. D. B. asks: "How do I go about getting into the finance department of the army?"

ANSWER: "You would have to enlist in the army unassigned, after which you would be permitted to state your preference as to the branch of service you would like. Finally, you will be assigned to service after consideration of three factors—your preference, your qualifications, and the needs of the army.

E. W. S. writes: "I am single, registered for the draft, but supporting my mother. My mother is not divorced, but deserted her husband several years ago. Will the responsibility of supporting my mother be placed on my father, thus making me eligible for 1-A classification? My father has offered to support my mother.

ANSWER: It seems to me that this question is one which only your local draft board can decide. If the board should decide that your mother has legitimate reasons for preferring to have you support her rather than your father, the board will defer you so that you may continue this support. However, if the board should decide that your mother is refusing to allow your father to support her just because she wants to keep you from military service, you probably will be drafted.

GRAND JURY QUIZ IN GOON SLUGGING WILL OPEN TODAY

A grand jury investigation is to be opened today into the recent slugging of Oakley Lester, an Elgin meat distributor, who was assaulted in Chicago by labor goons for working on a union work holiday. The investigation was ordered by First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley at Lester's request.

Two men already are charged with the attack. They are Walter O'Brien and Michael Healy, business agents of local 710 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL]. They are free on $3,000 bail each and are scheduled for arraignment in Felony court on March 31.

The slugging occurred Feb. 23—a Monday—which the union had decreed a work holiday in observance of Washington's birthday [Feb. 22]. Lester was attacked by two men when he attempted to get a load of meat for Elgin distribution from a wholesale market at 224 North Peoria street.

Variations on Nursery Theme Featured by Illinois Symphony

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Eighth Street theater last night offered the spectacle of a stageful of adult musicians working away at the tune of "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star." The occasion was a performance by the Illinois Symphony orchestra of Dohnanyi's Variations on a Nursery Theme. Izler Solomon conducted and Catherine Saurer played the piano obbligato.

The work of one of the most polished musicians of our day, the variations are witty, suave, and brilliant by turns. Their finely contrived flow and the deft way in which the orchestra and the piano complement each other were fully apparent in this performance. Miss Saurer played with reticence and with a feeling for the whole [rather than for her part alone]. The piece never threatened to turn into a piano concerto.

The program's other principal item was the Kalinnikoff G Minor Symphony, a work full of a discreet and genteel rather than a profound and moving melancholy. But whatever the piece may lack in depth it makes up for in charm and elegance. The performance was smooth and ingratiating in the songlike passages and always rich in live detail.

The evening opened with Berlioz' "Benvenuto Cellini" overture and closed with Chabrier's "España" rhapsody. Seldom has the Illinois Symphony orchestra played as bravely and brazenly and with rhythms as crackling and headlong as it did in the Berlioz.

Josef Lhevinne will play the Weber C Major Sonata, Opus 24, at his Orchestra hall piano recital this evening in place of the Beethoven sonata in the same key, Opus 53, which was originally announced.

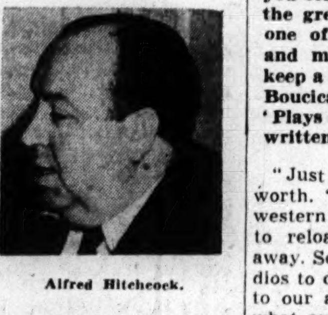
Looking at Hollywood

By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., March 2.—Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, the funny men, are working for Alfred Hitchcock, the horror man, and working for him for comparative peanuts. They don't get star billing and they don't even appear on the screen.



Alfred Hitchcock.

Hitch's new movie, "Saboteur," involves Bob Cummings tracking Saboteur Norman Lloyd all the way from a blazing California airplane plant to New York. In New York Bob and some cops corner Norman in the Radio City Music hall, and there is a chase.

The action of the chase complements the action on the screen. Guns are fired, and one can't tell whether they are screen guns or real guns. A woman in the audience is surprised indeed when a man in the next seat topples over on her. Thinking at first he's just a new kind of masher, she pushes him away; then she discovers he has been shot, but really shot, apparently by a pistol on the screen.

There has to be a tailormade movie, timed to the split second, showing at the music hall. Since "Saboteur" is being produced by Universal, Hitchcock wisely decided to use Universal stars for this interlude. He is now dreaming up an appropriate fragment which will be typical of an Abbott-Costello movie. A villain will be pictured threatening the boys with a gun, and they will supply the offscreen dialog. Chuckles Hitch: I've got Abbott and Costello their first booking at the music hall."

The day after the academy dinner I lunched at Romanoff's and encountered Ben Hecht with Herman Mankewicz, who had won the only recognition awarded "Citizen Kane" by supplying the story. I congratulated Herman, and Ben then told a story on himself:

"When the academy was formed back in 1927 I kept getting literature describing it. It sounded a little fancy and I paid no attention to it. Then, one day, I decided to write a piece kidding the academy. I was half way thru the piece when I got a telegram informing me that I had an Oscar. I'd got the first academy award for an original screen play for 'Underworld.'

"Sure I killed the piece. I never finished it."

"Dear Mr. Chapman," writes C. B. DeMille: "Ted Bonnet tells me that you compared me in some way with the great Dion Boucicault. He was one of my father's guiding stars, and my mother made me always keep a plaque over my desk bearing Boucicault's immortal statement, 'Plays are not written; they are rewritten.'"

"Just a thought," writes Jack Norworth. "No doubt you've noticed in western pictures the boys never stop to reload. They just keep banging away. So-o-o, if you could get the studios to donate some of those weapons to our armed forces, it would make what our best gangsters here in the east used to refer to as 'the difference.'" . . .

"I like your story on Jennifer Jones," writes Neil E. Schaffner of Cedar Rapids, Ia. "I have often wondered why the talent scouts did not pay more attention to the tent shows. There are approximately 300 standard tent theaters in America, and the productions presented compare favorably with the better class of resident stock companies of a decade or two ago. . . . Experience with a professional tent theater is, in my humble opinion, much more valuable to a budding actor than any amount of time spent in a community playhouse. With a tent show the actor is appearing before strange and sometimes antagonistic audiences, whereas in the community type playhouse he appears before friendly and tolerant audiences. Just as it takes fire to make steel, so does it take antagonism to make an artist."

"You stated," writes George L. Watson of Toronto, "that when Joan Crawford went to Columbia to make "He Kissed the Bride" it was the first time she had been off the MGM lot. Now, it's possible I'm wrong, but I think Miss Crawford has been off the Culver City lot before. This was way back in the silent days when she appeared with Harry Langdon in a picture at First National."

Mr. Watson is practically correct. Joan appeared with Langdon in a comedy which Harry produced, called "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp." But it happened before she went to work at MGM.

Time takes care of everything department: When John Shepperd was known as Shepperd Strudwick and was a stagestruck student at the University of North Carolina, he tried out for a part in a dramatic production by the playmakers of the university. For his tryout he chose to recite Edgar Allan Poe's "The Raven." For this performance he placed well down among the also rans. Now John is having another chance at "The Raven" and a certain amount of grim satisfaction as well. He will play Poe himself in 20th-Fox's "The Loves of Edgar Allan Poe." "The Raven" will be the only poem to get an extended reading in the picture.

Good Morning!

KIND: Melodrama in which fifth columnists meet their match in one "Gloves" Donahue—and his maw.

ACTING: Splendid. Humphrey Bogart and Conrad Veidt are slickly fitted with the sort of rôles they so well know how to carry. . . . Peter Lorre [ugh] is in character. . . . Judith Anderson has a brief but pointed part. . . . Kaaren Verne is pleasing—tho unremarkable and minor rôles rest easily on the shoulders of Frank McHugh, William Demarest, etc. . . . Jane Darwell, as always, is tops.

DIRECTION: Apt—tho rather long winded.

DIALOG: Pat for the most part. . . . Hands you quite a lot of laughs. . . .

SETS, PHOTOGRAPHY, ETC.: All the story needs.

STORY: Actionful account of how a reformed racketeer [Humphrey Bogart] runs onto a nest of fifth columnists, and eventually squashes all the snakes. . . . Conrad Veidt is, of course, their ring leader and makes the hero's job far from an easy one.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Bagsful! But the picture really shouldn't be as long as it is. . . . Speaking generally and specifically, repetition dulls many a fine point.

See you soon.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

[This is the fourth of a series of articles which will appear in this column on how women can help in the war effort thru the salvage of waste materials.]

Thomas E. Wilson, executive assistant coöordinator in charge of fats and grease conservation in the Chicago metropolitan area, reports that the coöperation of housewives in this vital undertaking in our war effort is encouraging. He feels, tho, that only the surface has been scratched so far. It is hoped and expected that as women realize the importance of saving grease they will be able to turn over to the retail butchers many more millions of ounces of this valuable material. Every ounce counts, and the housewife who throws away one ounce of grease should feel that she is being unpatriotic.

The 5 billion pounds of fat that yearly came to this country and to our allies from the Dutch East Indies and the Philippines will not be available this year, of course, which means that we must produce it ourselves somehow. The extra amount that farmers will supply by increased production of flaxseed, soy beans, etc., will not equal the deficit, so it is up to the women—the housewives—to do their share toward conserving this valuable material.

Retail stores are paying 5 cents a pound for light grease and 4 cents a pound for dark. All that a housewife needs to do to salvage grease or fat is to save it, strain it, put it into a can or other convenient container, and, when she has a pound, take it to her regular meat market. The butcher receives 1 cent a pound for handling it. A collector picks it up from the meat market and delivers it to a processing company that makes it into soap. It is GLYCERIN, a by-product in the manufacture of soap, that is the valuable necessity that results from the salvage of grease, for glycerin is a basic ingredient in the manufacture of munitions.

Mr. Wilson asks that we stress the importance of conserving every bit of grease. Even if it takes a month or two, or longer, to save a pound, a woman who does this conscientiously can feel that she is doing her best to help in our total war effort. Hotels, clubs, and restaurants always have saved grease, but heretofore in our days of prosperity, many women have discarded used fat and grease by throwing it into the garbage can or down the drain. A woman who does this today is doing something that will hinder us in winning the war and she is being as disloyal as tho she wantonly destroyed a gun, one of Mr. Wilson's co-workers said yesterday.

Some thrifty souls for years have used their old kitchen grease for making soap at home and, while this was a worthy thing to do before the war, it is not a patriotic thing to do now, for by doing this glycerin is lost to the munition plants. Block captains are starting to assist Mr. Wilson's organization in conserving grease, and before long every housewife will have had a call from her captain, who will explain to her in detail exactly how she can help win the war by doing such a simple thing as salvaging bacon fat and the drippings from a roast.

Even the youngsters are salvage conscious. Student councils and many teachers have encouraged their pupils to collect newspapers and to sell them to obtain funds for various school projects. At the Francis W. Parker school last Friday, Jerry Wexler, 17 year old senior, was chairman of a defense assembly at which he outlined plans for the school to earn money for the Red Cross.

Boxes for scrap metal, rubber, paper, and other waste material are being placed in the halls. Posters dramatizing the project carry it home even to the kindergartners. Charts to show the progress of each grade and the school as a whole in the drive will be posted.

"We passed around a piece of hose, a rubber band, and a toothpaste tube," Jery said, "so that the younger students could see some of the articles they should save."

Other schools, public and private, thruout the state, are doing much the same thing as this one.

Last fall during the aluminum drive the Boy Scouts showed their colors. Thru their 573 councils in the United States, the Scouts collected 9,500,000 pounds of aluminum. Anxious to do any service they can for the OCD, the boys are prepared to start collecting anything at the drop of the hat.

The Chicago council of the Boy Scouts has given its members the "go" signal on salvage, and now it is up to the individual troops. One fine example of what they are doing was reported by a reader who writes:

"I believe that you will be interested to know that the village of Clarendon Hills, population 2,500, has contributed over nine tons of paper, magazines, and corrugated paper in the last few months. This work has been done solely by the village Boy Scout troop, No. 51, composed of just 17 boys.

"Over a period of a year and a half they have picked up 13 tons of paper salvage. It was first collected by the boys Saturdays and evenings, and then picked up in the cars of committeemen at night. Now the boys have the use of a small four wheeled trailer pulled by the car of the committeeman who has charge of the troop's paper salvage. Once a month regularly, the scouts now go from door to door until each home in the village is covered."

Art of London's Firemen Going on Exhibit Here

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The firemen artists of London have sent to America a stirring group of pictures illustrating in graphic detail the happenings and horrors in a great city when it lies open to enemy bomb attack from the air. The paintings and drawings, which are the work of men actually in the London fire fighting service, will be on exhibit to the public, beginning tomorrow, at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street.

The club has arranged for a "distinguished guests" breakfast at noon tomorrow to mark the opening. Lewis Bernays, British consul general, and Rudolf Haybrook, a member of London's fire fighting service, who has a number of his own paintings in the exhibit, will speak at the breakfast. Civic leaders in art and in the civilian defense program have been invited to attend.

Among Mr. Haybrook's paintings is a fine rendering of the fireboat on which he served when it played its part in the famous evacuation of Dunkirk. The boat made three trips and rescued many soldiers.

For the most part, however, the exhibit keeps close to the streets of London, tho we must admit that the introduction of other places such as the row of Welsh miners' cottages in "Street End," a gray street lined with gray little houses set against a vast rolling sea of smoke coming up from the far end, adds meaning to the well known fact that London has by no means been the only goal of Hitler's air armada.

There is a case of "fire relics" in the exhibit that possibly brings home more keenly the frightful scenes thru which men pass in defending English towns from fire. Included are a bit of glove, a helmet, a bomb, fragments of a cape, various scraps which survived the flames.

Again, in many of the drawings and paintings is the reality of the fight made plain. It takes courage and dogged determination to stem or stop fire on the loose. The British firemen have both and go to their job with a fierce will to win which so far has prevented the worst from happening. They also "clean up" after a raid. Their success in this is portrayed, too, in the pictures.

There are various headquarters in the fire fihting department. A "Regional Control Room" leaves one with an impression of cool readiness of service. There are professional stations and auxiliaries and for each canteens where the men can get beer or light drinks to refresh and cheer them. At the headquarters when there is no alarm an artist fireman will give art lessons to his comrades. The men serve 112 hours a week—48 hours on and 24 hours off.

The British Tommy has not lost his sense of humor. Some of the caricatures of fire fighting are among the highlights of the show. With various hoses spread at their feet, one Cockney asks another, "You any good at puzzles?" and another cool youth says, "That reminds me. I must get some spaghetti." A current, popular slogan in England is "Go to it." One of the best of the paintings shows two men, "Going to It." holding fast to a heavy hose and directing the stream of water as it plays over a burning building.

The exhibit gives an excellent impression of England under the German air threat. It is well worth seeing; the paintings will remain on view to March 31.

Hebrew Leader's 1,000th Year to Be Celebrated

The Chicago Rabbinical association announced yesterday that the 1,000th anniversary of Saadia Ben Joseph, gaon of Sura, philosopher, codifier, liturgist, and commentator, will be celebrated on March 18. Gaon was a title of honor given to heads of academies at Sura and Pumbedita, in Babylonia. Rabbi Israel H. Weisfeld of the West Suburban Jewish center, Oak Park, chairman of the committee in charge of the celebration, said there will be two sessions at the Covenant club, when prominent rabbis will discuss Saadia's contributions to liturgy, exegesis, and philosophy.

Wives of Service Men Get Chance for Long Visits Home

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE'S one consolation for the parents of army and navy wives these days: They get to see more of their daughters than previously. Dozens of recently married young women return home for long visits while their husbands are transferred from one post to another.

The Telfer MacArthurs currently are enjoying a visit from their daughter, Mrs. Winfield N. Burdick Jr., whose husband, an ensign in the navy, is on sea duty. Ensign and Mrs. Burdick have been living in New Orleans. Mrs. Burdick, the former Dixie MacArthur, will return south in 10 days or so. Tomorrow afternoon she will see some of her old friends at a small tea Mrs. MacArthur is giving in their Libertyville home for her daughter's young friends.

The Edward H. Bennetts are preparing to welcome home Mrs. Bennett's daughter, Mrs. George Wall Merck, the former Betty Mead, at the end of the week. Ensign Merck is reporting for duty this week following their wedding trip to Florida and a few weeks' residence in the east.

Mrs. Schulz and Children to Live with the Daweses.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Dawes have never been separated by more than a few miles from their daughter, Mrs. George Henry Schulz, and her family, but now the former Mary Dawes and her children are living with her parents temporarily. Mr. Schulz has gone east to train for the A. V. S., and their Glencoe house has been leased to Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Sims.

Two more of the boats that Chicagoans are accustomed to seeing in Lake Michigan's blue water will not be seen hereabouts this summer, for the Mizpah, Commander Eugene F. McDonald Jr.'s 185 foot yacht, and the Whim, Edward Morris' cruiser, both are being turned over to the government shortly. Mr. McDonald's boat has been his home for 12 years, so getting it ready for its new service is as big a job as giving up a house that one has occupied for a dozen years. Mrs. McDonald and the children—5 year old Mary Ann and tiny Gene, who was a month old last Saturday—are spending the winter in Miami Beach, Fla., and when they return the family will reside in a house or apartment in Chicago, which will be Mary Ann's first land home in these parts since she was an infant. At that time her mother and father had an apartment in Lake Shore drive for a few months.

McDonalds' Other Boat May Be Brought North.

Commander McDonald will go to the Racquet club when he gives up the yacht at the end of this week or the first of next. He was delighted to hear the other day that the order that fishing boats could not go out of Biscayne bay had been rescinded, for he spends practically every day aboard his small Mizpah when he is in Miami Beach. This is a new boat and probably will be brought to Chicago when the family comes north, for it would be difficult to think of "Gene" McDonald spending all his time on dry land.

The Edward Morris family will miss the Whim, too, for altho the family did not live aboard it except when on cruises, it was in use every night during the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Morris and their sons, and often friends, dined aboard every night for several summers, and each year the family took a long trip to Georgian bay. The Whim now is in southern waters, for Mr. Morris went fishing among the Florida keys recently.

Mrs. Randall Anderson Planning Trip East Soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Anderson of Geneva have not yet met the young woman who is to become the bride of their son, Brentano Anderson, early this summer. She is Miss Barbara Vosburgh, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Vosburgh of Passaic, N. J. Mrs. Anderson and one of their daughters, Miss Audrey Anderson, are planning a trip to New York soon to see young Mr. Anderson and to meet his fiancée.

Mr. Anderson attended the Haverford school and spent some time traveling around the world before becoming engaged in business in New York. He has an occupational deferment in the draft and the wedding plans depend on its renewal. There will be a second wedding in the Anderson family some time within a few months, for their daughter, Miss Georgia Anderson, is engaged to be married to Dudley A. Zinke.

Announcement is made of the marriage on Sunday in Tampa, Fla., of Miss Elizabeth Jane Nevins, daughter of Mrs. Kirke Lewis Moses of Springfield, Mass., to Lieut. John Alexander Orb III. of the army air corps, son of Mrs. John W. Monahan of San Antonio, Tex., and the late John A. Orb II. of Chicago. The ceremony, which was advanced because of war conditions, took place at 5:30 o'clock in St. Andrew's Episcopal church.

Mrs. Elinor Whiting Hagey Will Become Bride Today.

In a quiet ceremony at 12:30 o'clock today in the home of Mrs. A. Harris Whiting her daughter, Mrs. Elinor Whiting Hagey, will become the bride of William Rufus Abbott Jr. Graham Whiting will give his sister in marriage. The Rev. Adolph Bohn of the Edgewater Presbyterian church will read the service and a breakfast will follow.

Mrs. Hagey's sister, Mrs. John Stuart Jr., and Mr. Stuart have come from Peterboro, Ont., for the wedding, which is limited to the families. The bride's son and daughter, John and Joan, will be there, but Mr. Abbott's two children are in Florida where their father and his bride will see them when they arrive in Melbourne shortly to visit Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Sr. Mr. Abbott and Mrs. Hagey will leave for the south this afternoon. They will live in Wilmette.

Junior League Hat Show Today to Collect Books.

Members of the Chicago Junior league and others who plan to attend the league's tea and hat show at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Marshall Field's have been ransacking their library shelves for books to take to the party. The books will go to the Victory Book campaign to provide books for service men. Any woman who brings a book will be eligible to win one of three striking new hats. Current affairs, biography, books relating to business, scientific works, and, of course, the classics of literature are in demand in the campaign. Books in good condition are preferred, but dilapidated ones can be sold for waste paper and new ones bought with the proceeds.

Mrs. John Merrell, Mrs. Stanley Wiley, Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams III., Mrs. William D. Cox, and Mrs. Andrew McNally are some of those who have taken tables for tea.

A $50 defense bond will be awarded to the best amateur model of 1942 at the finals of a series of amateur model luncheon parties today at the Key club. Some of the young women competing for the bond will be Mrs. Andrew P. Rebori Jr., Miss Jane Beckwith, Mrs. Nathaniel E. Duval, and Miss Jane McKenna.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

Turn About.

A packed house, slightly confused by it all but hysterical with applause, heard John Cage and his percussion orchestra at the Arts club Sunday night. Young Mr. Cage, in a white silk shirt and black corduroy trousers, banged on the piano with his forearms, with paddles and with a 2-by-4 that struck every note on the keyboard at once. His orchestra produced sound on tin cans, drum brakes, thundersheets and other shining pieces of metal, all coming to a frenetic climax when beer bottles were shattered in a metal wastebasket. We hasten to report that two well known popular musicians were rapt listeners. One, Ray McKinley, the drummer, crouched on the front row taking notes, and Brad Gowans, the trombonist [the only valve trombonist in America, we are told, altho we can't quite understand it], came all the way from Boston to listen. Last night McKinley, Gowans and two other drummers, Ormon Downes and Rosie McHargue gathered at the home of Attorney E. M. [Squirrel] Ashcraft III. in Evanston for a private jam session. Mr. Cage went, crouched in rapt attention and took notes.

How to Keep a Secret.

Relayed by Neal Dyer, from the bulletin of the morale office at Fort Custer:

Lady: And what part of the army are you in?

Soldier: Well, madam, it is against orders, but I guess I can safely tell you.

Lady: Why, certainly. I'll never repeat a word of it.

Soldier: Well, I'm in the green lacquer section.

Lady: What?

Soldier: That's a special section to help the navy. You see, when the navy is in an area full of submarines, they pour overboard the green lacquer we have developed. The lacquer spreads over the water, and when a sub comes up, the lacquer covers the periscope. The sub commander, thinking the green color is that of the water, keeps on rising, and when the sub is 500 feet above the water, the navy shoots him down with anti-aircraft fire.

Liquid Exchange.

The blood donor service of the Red Cross here reported an intake of 3,100 pints of blood during its first three weeks of operation. However, it doled out more coffee than it took in blood—6,100 large cups. Only 15 donors, the service reports rather sadly, drank milk.

A young Chicagoan, six years old, announced the other night that he intended to run away from home. "All right, dear," his mother said, "I'll pack your bag." The child thought a while. "Not until morning," he said. "I want to get a good night's sleep." His mother wondered how he planned to go. "I'm going to hop a freight," he said. "But all freight trains leave at night," she reminded him. "All right," he said, wearily. "Call me a cab."

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Theater Guild's revival of "The Rivals" is scarcely a revival of "The Rivals" at all. It is, instead, a magnificent one-man show for the irrepressible and unabashed Bobby Clark, who develops the part of the loutish Bob Acres into an opportunity for the romp of a lifetime. In the face of Mr. Clark's volcanic mirth all other values seem inconsequential.

The play, which is in all truth a creaking affair by now, slips into the background, and neither Mary Boland's tartness nor Walter Hampden's roaring can establish any sort of balance against the tidal wave of their colleague's inspired clowning.

While a grotesquely inappropriate music hall style of comic behavior is the keynote of Mr. Clark's performance, there is more to it than this. He can engage in all the fantastic mugging and slapstick gyrations he chooses, for, as was the case with Bert Lahr's playing in "Du Barry Was a Lady," a fundamental acquaintance with the gestures and clichés of 18th century period style gives his Bob Acres a legitimate relationship to the original character.

It would be hard to remember when, within the memory of living man, a more excruciatingly funny scene was ever presented on the stage than the passage in which Mr. Clark, at Philip Bourneuf's instigation, draws up a challenge to a duel. As he writes his letter he embroiders upon the script by subjecting himself to every conceivable kind of difficulty with the pen and ink; he falls into a coma four distinct times, and when he has finished the scene he has transformed it into one of the greatest vaudeville sketches of all time.

No doubt Mr. Clark's jubilant and boisterous unconformity throws the rest of the individual performances into a strange light. Whatever the reason, nobody else quite rises to the challenge of his competition. Miss Boland is acidulous and sharp as Mrs. Malaprop, a figure who can become convincing only when she utters her misappropriated polysyllables with lordly sweep and projectile force. Mr. Hampden vocalizes Sir Anthony Absolute in leonine fashion, but seems a bit dry and impersonal about the process.

There are, of course, good flashes in their delivery, and there are other contributions of passing interest, notably those of Philip Bourneuf, Haila Stoddard, Donald Burr, and Robert Wallsten. Miss Le Gallienne's direction is peculiar, however, for it has no unifying sense of style, so that the stage gives an unhappy impression of merely being peopled by actors in handsome costumes.

I should like to recommend "The Rivals" to you on account of Bobby Clark, much as I recommended "The Streets of Paris" for the same reason. I must say, however, that "The Streets of Paris" was a far better total performance of its kind than is "The Rivals."

Beauty Trade Decrees Short Hair and Nails

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

One word is being heard more often than any other at the 19th annual Midwest Beauty Trade show which opened for three days yesterday in the Sherman hotel. The word is "short."

In short—short hair, short nails, and shortages are the news of the show. They were the chief topics of conversation among the 5,000 beauty culturists from all parts of the country and Canada who attended the sessions yesterday.

"The short bob will be important wartime fashion," Miss Edna L. Emme of St. Louis, president of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists association, explained. "Hair will be cut from two to five inches in length and modes will be adapted for easy wear with defense uniforms. The short, away from the face coiffure which is soft and light in appearance will be the most popular. Bangs will be prominent to stress feminine appeal, and the pompadour influence will still be seen. In general, however, hair styles will be designed with an eye to simplicity and convenience for the wearer."

In line with this wartime policy, there also will be a little cutting down on the fingernail question but with no curtailment of fashion. Fingertips this season must look capable, not clawlike. They must look prepared to roll bandages, dress wounds, drive ambulances, or work with machinery.

So contended Mrs. Lillian Boynton, beauty shop proprietor and authority on the care of the hands, in an address at the afternoon session of the show. Long, talon fingernails are definitely out of the fashion picture, she said. Fingernails must be shorter, less oval, perhaps even slightly squared, to blend in with the war worker mode. Uselessly long nails and busy, helping American hands don't go together, Mrs. Boynton asserted.

There will be no diminishing in the brightness of nail polish hues, however. New shades are still blatantly cheerful with a tendency toward the cyclamen shades, blue reds with the possibility of gradually working toward lilac tones.

"The importance of hand care is frequently overlooked," Mrs. Boynton asserted. "People learn to control their facial expressions but forget that their hands may give them away. Hands actually blush when we are embarrased, turn white with anger, become rigid and tense with fright or anger. They are the dead give aways to our character, and in the present emergency we should be conscious of that fact."

Women must look their best today to bolster up civilian morale, Miss Emme asserted. "Even the federal government is beginning to realize this, and at the present is making a survey of the shortages of materials in the beauty trade field. We have been assured that as soon as the demands of the army and navy are eased, there will be a flow of materials at our command."

Leader in Voters' League Will Address Club Group

Mrs. Laura Hughes Lunde, club leader prominently identified with the League of Women Voters, will address the legislative department of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs at 1:30 o'clock today at federation headquarters. Mrs. S. F. Devin, department chairman, has called the meeting to review federal legislation in which the general federation is interested and to begin organization of the legislative program of the state federation for next year.

Thru the Looking Glass

Exhibits at the Midwest Beauty Trade show, now in progress here, reveal that in the beauty shop industry business in the future will be about as usual. And there is every evidence that patronage will continue about as usual, too, and even indications that it may be stepped up. More and more women will have incomes of their own, and, being engaged in industries of one kind or another, they must be even more exacting than in the past about cleanliness and good grooming.

Curiously enough, the problem of supplies and the difficulties in obtaining them seems to have been overemphasized in this industry. Actually, it is a service industry more than anything else. Consider the shampoo, the permanent, the set or the manicure. The materials used for these services are of no great value compared with the time and the labor. They take small amounts of soap, wave lotion, nail polish or permanent wave lotion; it is the operator's time in using them that is expensive for the shop owner and the consumer.

So far there is no shortage of labor. For the few materials which are becoming scarce we'll probably find admirable substitutes.

The beauty shop is important to feminine well being; its existence will undoubtedly be officially recognized as a civilian need. Women certainly already know it as such, and its good services—not for luxuries nor for touches of "glamor" but for cleanliness and health—are in no jeopardy! ELEANOR NANGLE.

SYNOPSIS.

Exhausted, his horse lost, Dave Wallace escapes death in the desert when a stage picks him up. On the same stage is Beth Hilliard coming home after an absence of two years. Arriving in Vermillion, Beth is greeted by Jess Gove, who orders a man to unload Beth's trunk. Dave recognizes the voice of the man unloading Beth's trunk and knocks him down.

INSTALMENT II.
VISITORS.

Dave reached down, balled up the man's shirt in his big hand, and yanked him up. When he was hip high to him, Dave drove his fist into the man's face with a down beating, full armed hook. The sound of the blow was clean in the night, the muffled thud of gristle padded bone against flesh, and it was swift, vicious, instant.

The man landed on his side, skidded two feet in a moil of red dust and then rolled over on his face and was motionless.

There was one second of utter silence, and then the night was alive. Two punchers vaulted the porch railing of the hotel, their boots booming the boards of the walk as they landed and ducked under the tie rail on the run. A chair scraped the floor of the feed stable office behind Dave, then crashed over as somebody ran out.

Dave heard and felt all this as he laid his glance on the tall Texan across from him, who stood staring stupidly, unbelievingly from Dave to the downed man.

Now they were here, Dave saw—four punchers who came to a halt in front of him and behind him. They kept glancing over toward the hotel, and now Dave, curious, looked over, too.

An overtall, stooped man left the girl and tramped deliberately toward him. In the half light of the street, Dave saw he wore a rusty black suit and halfboots, the town clothes of a rancher. It was his face, that puzzled Dave. It was a kind face, the face of a patriarch, even to the thick jutting eyebrows which were as dead white as his hair.

He hauled up beside the downed man, looked briefly at him while the others alertly watched his face, and then he raised his glance to Dave.

"That sounded like a broken jaw," he said. His voice was mellow and tolerant.

"It was meant to be."

The older man studied him thoughtfully. "But why?"

"Ask him," Dave replied thinly.

The Texas man said quietly, "Better let us find out, Jess."

Dave's glance shuttled quickly to him. There was a smug arrogance in the man's long face as he watched his boss. Dave knew instinctively that the Texan was used to this, that the crew was used to it, too, that they tolerated no challenge and refused no fight. He also knew that at a nod from the older man they would jump him, and the thought prodded a deep perversity in him.

"You can always try," he murmured.

The Texan didn't bother to look at him; he was watching Jess for the nod of assent. One of the punchers started cursing softly. Dave understood swiftly that he would have to crowd it hard to get out of here. He said to the older man, "If I see him again I'm apt to shoot him. Tell him that."

He turned, and singled out one puncher and walked toward him, at him, as if he intended to walk him down. The puncher was a young man, with a lean and reckless face. His hard, merry eyes took in immediately what Dave was doing, and he looked at the older man, not moving, begging for permission to start this.

There was a soft, flat, "No, Pete, no," from Jess, and then Pete stepped aside. Dave tramped on, as if he had not heard it, and when he reached his saddle he swung it to his shoulder, and went on across the street toward the hotel. Behind him, he heard a man swearing in passionate, toneless argument.

And then he was face to face with the girl of the stage, whom he recognized only by the color of her dress as she stood on the boardwalk.

He hauled up and touched his hat and said, "I'm sorry about that hat, Miss. I didn't see it."

There was the tag end of fright in her face when he looked at her, and for a second she stared at him in open-eyed astonishment. In that moment Dave saw a kind of shocked gravity in her hazel eyes. It smoothed out the tired lines of her face, and Dave saw that she was young. Her mouth was full, her lips a little parted now, and her flatly molded cheekbones held a trace of color in them beneath the golden skin. Her ears were small, exposed by the manner of doing her hair, and he had a fleeting moment of pleasure at the way her hair swept back from her temple, flat and waving in small disarray.

The surprise was gone in a second, and it was followed by what Dave thought was confusion. It wasn't; it was resentment.

"It's all right," she said in a completely natural voice. "It was just an old traveling hat."

Dave nodded and started for the steps. The girl's voice hauled him up."

"Why did you hit that man?"

Dave turned to look at her again, and then said plainly, "Among other things, he's a liar."

"Do you know him?"

"No. I've talked with him."

"Then how do you know? He's worked for us for five years."

Dave said dryly, "Then you better get rid of him, Miss," and again touched his hat, and tramped up the steps into the hotel lobby. He was aware that the men on the porch had heard him and were watching him. He felt them watching during the long minutes in which he paid his dollar to the desk clerk, received his key and slowly mounted the stairs.

In his room, he threw his saddle in the corner and lighted the lamp, then stood there looking at it, a trace of a smile playing at the corners of his wide mouth. He felt a faint excitement still with him, but the murdering anger that had been in him for three days now was gone. Gingerly, he put his fisted hand in the palm of his other hand and pressed. He grimaced a little, flexed his fingers, and then crossed the room and opened the door that let out onto the gallery.

He walked out onto the gallery and leaned both hands on the rail, looking down at the town. The street was empty of the crew. Across the way in front of the feed stable the hostler was hitching the fresh teams to the stage. On the boardwalk by the stage the soft spoken Texan was talking to a woman. Idly, Dave watched as he assisted the woman into the stage, doffed his hat and waited the few moments until the stage pulled out.

Dave turned back to his room, and there was an obscure feeling riding him that he was not going to like this town. Coming thru the door, he scowled suddenly and blinked. His eyes, set widespaced in the deep wells under his heavy brows, were red-rimmed with the desert's glare and dust, and a kind of somber impatience fled across his face. There was a restlessness upon him as he glanced about the room at the paint flaked iron bed, the chair and the washstand.

Again he flexed his fingers, then, satisfied, stripped off his shirt. His flat back was pink where the desert sun had burned thru his shirt. As he poured water into the basin, the flat ropes of muscles across his shoulder moved gently under the skin. And then he was quiet, head cocked, listening.

He looked up now as he heard footsteps in the hall, and he watched the door. His glance dropped to the rifle in the corner and he waited, a big, still man who seemed as if he expected trouble.

The footsteps passed and he plunged his hands into the water. He was toweling his face and his thick black hair when he heard a knock on the door. Again, his glance dropped to the rifle in the corner as the knock was repeated, this time with peremptory firmness.

"All right," he said.

The door opened and the Texan who had just put the woman on the stage sauntered in. Behind him, also entering, were two men, and one of them was the puncher Dave had hit. His shirt was tinted with the red dust of the street. The third man was a solid, thick chested man in his middle thirties.

Two points of the star of the sheriff's office peeped out from under the V of his open vest.

"That him, Arnie?" the sheriff asked the Texan.

Arnie nodded.

According to Culbertson

Players are taught very early in their careers not to lead a suit that will afford declarer a ruff in one hand and a discard in the other. Usually this advice is well founded, but, as in the case of every other bridge rule, the defender must analyze the specific situation and decide accordingly.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	1 spade	Double	Pass
Pass	1 no trump	Double	2 hearts
Pass	Pass	Double
		[final bid]

West opened the diamond king, and East signaled with the eight. The ace and another diamond were continued. East ruffed with the nine, and returned the ace and a low club. West, on lead with the queen, had to consider his return. Several facts were obvious, the main one being that, with the spade king under the A-Q, no spade trick could be made by the defenders. East's one spade double could not have been based on fewer than four spades, hence declarer had, at most, a doubleton. Thus the conclusion was inevitable that another diamond lead, permitting a ruff and a discard, would not permit a discard that would do declarer any good. On that sound basis West led a fourth diamond. By so doing he insured his partner's jack of trumps. Declarer was helpless. If he trumped with dummy's queen, East would merely discard and later take both the ace and jack of trumps. For declarer to ruff low, or refuse to ruff in dummy, meant that East could win the jack on the spot.

Obviously, the defenders had to beat the contract two tricks to show a profit over the nonvulnerable game they could have made.

Consistency a Big Virtue in Guidance

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

One of the things that mothers who are "up a tree" in regard to managing their young children complain about most is obedience. You've simply to gain the obedience, or compliance, of your littlest son and daughter if you're ever going to put over the hundred and one things they must do each day.

There are a number of ways in which you go about this, all of which we won't go into now, but one of the most effective means to your end is the exercise of consistency. Consistensy is unquestionably a virtue in a mother, if not in any one else.

If you're inconsistent, your child is confused. He doesn't know "which way the cat will jump" next. He's not quite sure when you mean what you say and when you don't.

An inconsistent mother will scold about a slight mishap one day, and overlook it the next. At one meal a child can't have dessert unless every bite of food and every swallow of milk is taken. At another meal he can eat only what he wants and have double dessert. He's spanked one day for something that isn't even mentioned the next. Inconsistency is almost automatically tied up with unfairness.

But, just the opposite of all this is done by a consistent mother [altho she is not ironclad in her rules]. The result of her consistency is that her child goes along on an even keel.

British cooks have found dried fruits a great blessing in the face of a serious shortage of sugar. They make grand desserts in themselves, and English homemakers use them for sweetening puddings, because of their natural fruit sugar. They use dates and figs alone to sweeten tart fruit such as rhubarb in pies.

We don't need to resort to that last extreme, but we can take a hint or two from across the Atlantic. Dried fruits furnish a lot of energy and, in addition, are rich sources of iron and other essential minerals. Their vitamin content is significant, too. Dried peaches and apricots retain much of their natural vitamin C in the drying process, surprisingly enough, and prunes are a good source of riboflavin [B2 or G]. Raisins contain B1, and figs are a good source of vitamin A.

Good quality dried fruit doesn't need to be soaked for hours. Better flavor, texture, and appearance are obtained by cooking the fruit in water for anywhere from 10 minutes, for raisins, to 1 hour, for prunes. Use plenty of water in cooking, for the fruit will absorb much of it, and you want juice left in which to serve the fruit.

If you are preparing dried fruit for a purée, you'll want to cook it longer, or until it becomes very soft, soft enough to go thru a sieve or colander easily. A cup of uncooked dried fruit averages a cup of pulp when puréed.

Honey and Raisin Pie.

[Cut six to eight pieces.]

- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ⅝ cup water
- ½ cup honey
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Grated rind of ½ orange
- 3 tablespoons cornstarch
- 1⅝ cups raisins
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1 tablespoon butter
- Pastry for double crust

Combine fruit juices, water, honey, salt, and orange rind. Heat to boiling. Moisten cornstarch in a little cold water and add to hot mixture. Rinse raisins and add. Line pie plate with pastry, sprinkle flour over bottom, add filling, and dot with butter. Add top crust, pricked. Bake at 450 degrees for half an hour. Serve slightly warm.

PRUNE FRITTERS.

[Serve with roast pork.]

Pit stewed prunes and fill centers with pieces of American cheese. Dip in slightly beaten egg, then in fine, dry bread crumbs, a second time in egg, and again in crumbs. Fry in deep fat, heated to 390 degrees, until golden brown. Serve hot.

FIG AND APPLE SALAD.

Boil dried figs for 5 minutes in water to cover. Drain and cut with scissors into strips. Combine with an equal amount of diced apple, and half as much cut celery. Add French dressing, and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise as garnish.

TODAY'S PRIZE RECIPE.

Today's $5 prize goes to Alberta Dubelston, 2502 Eastwood avenue, Chicago, for her flavorsome meat and oat breakfast loaf. It's a handy loaf to have on hand during winter and early spring months.

Send your entry now to the Mary Meade Recipe contest. Any favorite economy dish, family specialty or your own original may win the daily $5 prize. Write the recipe in standard form and make directions simple and clear enough for a beginner to follow. Write or type neatly, and put your name and address on each sheet of paper.

Oat Breakfast Loaf.

- 2 pounds fresh pork shoulder
- 4 cups steel cut oatmeal [1¼ lb. pkg.]
- 1 large onion chopped fine
- 1 tablespoon lard
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- 2 teaspoons thyme or poultry seasoning

Cover pork with salted water, and simmer until tender. Drain and measure cooking water, adding enough more to make 14 cups. Add oatmeal and cook in the top of a double boiler, about 30 minutes, or until very thick. Salt to taste. If you cook the mixture on top of the stove, use an additional 3½ cups water, and stir to prevent scorching. Put meat thru food chopper, using medium blade. Add to hot oats along with the onion, which has been browned in the lard, and the spices. Mix well and pack in lightly greased loaf pans to mold. To serve cut in ½ inch slices and brown on both sides in a small amount of fat in a hot skillet. Serve with fried apples or applesauce. When stored in the refrigerator, this loaf will keep for several weeks.

[Send in your favorite recipe.]

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY.

Right or Wrong!

Is it:

The balance of an order? Or—the remainder of an order?

A grammatical error in a letter? Or—an ungrammatical error?

I shouldn't wonder if he didn't still settle his account? Or—I shouldn't wonder if he still settles his account?

I wish I could type like she does? Or—I wish I could type the way she does?

The directors were bored, indifferent listeners? Or—the directors were bored, disinterested listeners?

Correct: The remainder of an order; grammatical error; I shouldn't wonder if he still settles his account; I wish I could type the way she does; the directors were bored, indifferent listeners. [Disinterested means impartial, or lacking in self-interest—the most commonly misused word I know.]

No Sale!

A pretty, tho furrowed, brow last week was that of the young woman who applied for a job and undersold herself with the result she was told she had not enough experience. Then, she applied for another job and oversold herself with the result she was told she could surely get a better job with her extensive experience. The upshot was that she went across the street to a restaurant, ordered a cup of extra strength coffee, and sat stirring it idly, pondering life's drolleries.

Sceptic.

"The most important lesson I've learned in business," contributes Vee Bee [who works in a research organization] "is not to believe the first person who tells me something."

Scents and Sensibility.

It's a conceit common to us all to contend that "in my kind of business you have to understand psychology." Yet, the salesgirls who stand behind counters selling creams, lotions, and perfumes do learn a lot about human nature. These saleswomen in the third largest industry—cosmetics—gain a pretty clear picture of their customers. They know, for instance, whether a woman is buying a perfume for herself—to supply a much needed lift, buying it for its effect upon a man, or buying it for its effect upon the afternoon bridge club.

They like their work . . . ask any one of them. Ask them, too, how they happen to look so fresh and attractive. They'll tell you that many of them are graduate dermatologists and they have learned the importance of reading directions. "Follow the directions on the package to get your money's worth," is their advice to the business girl with a limited sum to spend.

Men, they add, always read directions . . . practically never buy without first reading the label. The cosmetic girls like to wait on a man because he knows what he wants . . . or is open to suggestion. Of course, sometimes he has trouble with a name, like the gentleman who asked for "Tizzy Jane" perfume. [He meant Corday's Tzigan.] Generally speaking, men buy exotic perfumes for young women and lily-of-the-valley or violet for the older woman. They go for fancy packages and don't mind carrying them one bit.

What does the soldier or sailor buy? The girls know before he asks what it will be: a compact engraved "to her" . . . "from him."

Engagements

At a tea on Sunday in Ida Noyes hall at the University of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. F. Charles McDiarmid of South Union avenue announced the engagement of their daughter, Helen Jean, to Dr. Robert A. Albrecht, son of Mrs. A. J. Albrecht and the late Prof. Albrecht of Chicago. Miss Diarmid is a graduate of the University High school and attended DePauw university. Dr. Albrecht is a graduate of the University of Chicago and of Northwestern university's dental school.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer C. Lindsey of Beverly Hills announce the engagement of their daughter, Harriet, to Ensign Frederick W. Linden Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Linden of Moline, Ill. Both young persons attended the University of Chicago. Ensign Linden recently was commissioned in the naval air service and will report for active duty next week.

Blouses Pay Dividends in Suit Variety

BY REA SEEGER.

Starting with a suit or with a smart suit costume, any one, these days, can establish an enviable reputation for originality with such a simple idea as blouse contrast. Spend your money for shirts and blouses, in other words. Brand new creations are arriving daily, and each model is different. If you like coin dots against dark colors, see the smooth rayon blouses with long sleeves. Choose from a brown, red, and two shades of blue, navy and cadet blue. The dots are the size of a dime in clear white. They are ideal shirt blouses for office suit costumes.

Other colored blouses are slightly more dressup because of the hand fagoted trim high on the chest and the gathered neckline with a demure bow of the crepe. Bright red, beige, pink and blue and navy are the colors. Prints continue to fascinate the blouse makers and blouse buyers, for there are dozens arriving daily. One jaunty affair is called the guardsmen blouse, because its cool white is printed with shako headed guardsmen. There's a chest pocket and a convertible collar, in this blouse, and three colors are available, red, brown and navy with the white background.

One of the smartest of suit blouses comes in white crepe with short sleeves. Around the cuffs, the collar line and the pocket is a narrow piping of color in a choice of red, green, black, navy and brown.

Tailored blouses are coming in made of cool, crisp, white sheers, extraordinarily smart when the sheer is combined with white waffle patterned pique. The long sleeves are cuffed in pique, and the blouse itself has bosom of the pique just like a man's dress shirt. If you've been hunting for a slipover vestee that fits smoother than skin, see the tailored one of waffle weave pique with the turnover collar cut right in with the front to make the lapels.

Your Handwriting

BY SHIRLEY SPENCER.

Vivian Stokes is representative of a certain type of young woman, who is prominent on the American scene at present. I don't know how long this phase will last, but it is interesting to note it while it is at its height.

The younger society set is spreading its butterfly wings and trying to fly. This is an encouraging sign, for they are leaving their cotton padded cocoons and taking their chances in the competitive world. Just what they will do when they get thru the stages of singing in night clubs, modeling, etc., is a matter of conjecture, but I am willing to wager on the strength of the handwritings of the majority of this set that we are going to get a creative contribution from them.

Vivian Stokes

Right now they are self-centeredly interested in themselves as their backhand scripts show. Affectation is shown in their capitals and studiously "different" letter forms. They have got to get attention. So far, so good. After that I hope they will put their constructive creativeness to work seriously. We are going to need these young people to remake a world, and I'm rooting for them.

For handwriting analysis send 10 cents (in coin) and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, together with a sample of handwriting to Shirley Spencer, Box 116, General Postoffice, New York City. IMPORTANT: Write 25 words and signature in ink.

How Clean Is Your Face? Try Cream and Tissue Skin Test

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

How clean is your face? Do you think it's thoroly clean after you've washed it? Well, suppose you make a test, and see if it still holds dirt. Take cleansing cream and massage it into the pores. Then, with clean facial tissue, gently remove the cream. Does the tissue absorb only the cream, or does it take a little more dirt off your skin? If it shows only the cream, then you have done a good job of cleansing your face the first time. It's important that you do a good face cleansing job, if you want your skin to be free of blackheads, which may become infected and cause pimples, even dreaded acne.

Altho it's important that grownups learn how to cleanse their faces thoroly, it's doubly vital that teen-age youngsters learn the perfect cleansing ritual, for at the adolescent age nothing destroys self-confidence more than does a blotched complexion. If the disorder continues, it may have a definite effect on the personality of the child, an unhappy result that may last thru life.

So for the oily, blackhead troubled skin, be sure to cleanse your face thoroly and often. It will do you no harm to wash it three to five times daily, at least twice daily. To soften the dirt in the pores, cleanse your skin first with cream, then, using a highly alkaline green soap, or a castile soap, made sudsy with warm water, wash your face in a massaging, circular motion. Altho a wash cloth will do the trick, you may get better results with a complexion brush. Rinse your face thoroly with warm water, then douse cold, cold water on it.

Repeat this soap and water cleansing, or for your second cleansing use cold cream. After this, witch hazel is a good astringent to apply, or perhaps you'd prefer one of the good astringents on the market. Until your skin shows definite improvement cleanse it five times daily. If your skin is sensitive, between the morning and evening cleansing, apply warm, wet towels instead of the soap, dry your face, and apply a skin tonic with a clean piece of absorbent cotton.

Marriage Is a Hard Job, Says Career Girl

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"I married six months ago at the age of 27, and I am finding it difficult, after a number of years of independence as a 'career woman,' to adjust myself to marriage and being at home. I hope I can make my marriage as much of a success as my business career, but from where I'm sitting it looks like a much harder job. Incidentally, I gave up my work entirely and I'm not one bit sorry. He's worth it! G. W."

Thereby hangs a tale, a problem, rather. For it is a problem that is important. G. W. does not say whether she lives in a house or a small apartment. If she lives in a house in some community, she should be so busy managing her household and getting acquainted with what's going on about her that she would not have time to sit down and worry about her marriage. She would be working just as hard to adjust herself to her new life and new surroundings as she would to a new job.

But if she lives in a small apartment, which does not require as much housekeeping, and if she does not have the opportunity to seek new friends and new interests, and, in the interests of her career she has neglected her social and outside activities, she does, indeed, have a problem.

Having given up her career for marriage, she has a complete readjustment to make. If she had continued working it would not have been so complete. She would just have added responsibility, and her chances for married happiness would be in a constant state of jeopardy. Not that her responsibility now is less. On the contrary, it is an entirely different one. And having made a success in her business career, she will have to strive just as hard to figure out success in her marriage. Thought and effort should do it.

WAR CONTRACT PROTESTS POUR IN TO PROBERS

Grand Jury to Investigate Collusion Charges.

Business men of Chicago and nearby cities poured complaints into the Chicago office of the federal department of justice's antitrust division yesterday, charging unfair treatment in the awarding of war contracts.

The complaints resulted from a story in THE TRIBUNE yesterday disclosing that a Chicago manufacturer consistently lost bids for the installation of water purifying systems in service camps and ordnance areas because of a trick clause in contract specifications.

Stoker Maker Protests.

Guy Holcomb, head of the small business section of the justice department, spent a busy day in Chicago sifting the new complaints, among which was one by N. T. Ladenson, president of the Automatic Stoker company, 14 North Clinton street.

Ladenson protested that he had been barred from filling stoker orders by specifications in government contracts which were, in effect, descriptions of a competitor's product. A similar charge had been made by the water purifier manufacturer.

Within the last 90 days, Ladenson said, the war department has made its stoker specifications more general and he has won a few of the contracts originally denied him. Other government departments, however, still write such special types of specification that his bids, even tho lower than competitors', are thrown out, Ladenson charged.

Referred to Saltiel.

Holcomb referred his complaint and scores of others to William Saltiel, assistant attorney general in charge of the small business section.

Saltiel said that many of the complaints were properly addressed to the small business section because they cited specific violations of the law. Many, however, were of such a general nature that the department of justice could not hope to correct conditions complained of, he declared. He said such complaints should be addressed to senators and congressmen or to production agencies such as the war production board.

The complaint concerning the water purifying systems charged that the government specifications were so phrased that only one company—having the rights to an instrument patented in Germany and held by a German alien in New York—could bid successfully. This charge was made by Clark T. Henderson, chief engineer of the Everson Manufacturing company. He said that as a result of this clause his bids had been rejected altho they were a third lower than those of his competitor.

Grand Jury Quiz Planned.

Holcomb left for Washington, D. C., late yesterday with several folders from the Everson company files. Altho he declined to discuss the nature of the evidence he obtained, he indicated that it will be presented to a federal grand jury soon. He said the grand jury investigation would be directed by Daniel B. Britt, head of the antitrust division in Chicago, and that it would determine whether there is collusion between contractors and army and navy procurement officials.

Holcomb said it appeared to him that Henderson's charges provided an "open and shut" criminal case under the antitrust laws. He also cited section 88 of the federal code—the war frauds law—and declared that the grand jury would be permitted to inquire whether this statute might have been violated.

BURGLAR IN JAIL WITH 10 PALS HE TRIED TO CHEAT

The 10 young burglars seized last Friday as the gang which had been breaking into homes since Dec. 18, were joined yesterday by the 11th—and the 10 glared fiercely at the newcomer.

He is James McGovern, 17 years old, 909 Wilson avenue, and his arrest disclosed he had tried to bilk the other burglars out of $3,000 in stolen bonds. He had been given the bonds to convert into cash, but reported back that they were worthless. He kept them.

Last Saturday, when the others were caught, McGovern sent $2,900 worth of bonds to their owners, but kept the rest for himself. When the police heard of this, they told the other gang members and they then implicated young McGovern.

ASSIGN 30 NEW PATROLMEN TO HIGHWAY FORCE

Thirty new patrolmen were assigned to duty with the county highway police and 45 rookies began a course of training for the department yesterday, Chief James Fleming announced. Fleming said that within a month 100 new policemen, whose addition to the department was authorized by the Circuit judges, will be in uniform, doing police work in the county. Their addition will bring the department personnel to 245 men. Fleming said 10 new squad cars will be put in service as soon as delivery under the priority rules permit.

PREDICT ANOTHER PEAK PROPERTY TAX RATE FOR '42

Board Officials Warn Realty Owners.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

The Civic federation predicted yesterday that the property tax rate in Chicago for 1942 will soar to $10.05 for each $100 of assessed valuation, which would be an all time high for the second consecutive year.

This estimate followed by only a few days the official announcement of the 1941 tax rate, which is $9.89 for each $100 valuation and 37 cents above the previous record high. The 1941 tax bills are payable May 1 and 1942 bills are due next year.

"Such skyrocketing of tax rates has become intolerable," said the federation statement, which was signed by Newton C. Farr, president, and Douglas Sutherland, secretary. "The holder of any property who has not had its assessed value reduced is going to bear the brunt of what probably will be the highest tax rate of any large city in the United States.

Increased Taxes Granted.

"A portion of the rate increase for 1941 and a greater portion of the presently estimated increase for 1942 result from increased taxes granted by the last general assembly to the board of education and the sanitary district for 1941; and to Cook county, the Chicago public library, the forest preserve, and the Chicago school teachers and police pension funds for 1942."

Meanwhile, the county board yesterday added $183,000 to the county's previous 1942 budget of $21,528,323, bringing the total budget to $4,540,000 in excess of prospective revenues as estimated by the county controler. The 1941 budget was $20,828,283.

The additional item for 1942 was for interest on judgments of $3,136,000 against the county covering its share of Municipal court costs. The judgments were obtained by the city of Chicago in 1939, but were sold to the Woodmen of the World Insurance company and the Ben Hur Life association.

No Fund to Pay Principal.

On petition of the insurance companies, Judge John Prystalski in Circuit court last week ordered the county to show cause why it should not pay the interest, which is due from Dec. 1, 1940. The county so far has made no appropriation to pay the principal of the judgments and is appealing to the Illinois Supreme court from a recent mandamus by Judge Prystalski ordering an appropriation in 1942 for one-tenth of the principal.

County Treasurer John Toman yesterday started mailing refund slips totaling $1,200,000 to 150,000 taxpayers for overpayments on their 1932 tax bills. The slips may be used to pay 1941 tax bills or to clean up delinquent taxes. The refunds, which involve owners of homes and two flats, have been held up by years of litigation. Judge Prystalski yesterday denied a requested mandamus order to halt the refunds.

Arraign Theater Slayer of High School Girl Today

McDonald was arrested 12 hours after the shooting.

21 LATIN CADETS START AIR STUDY AT LEWIS SCHOOL

Course Results from Two Years of Planning.

Eleven army and 10 civilian aviation cadets from Central and South American countries yesterday commenced flight and ground school courses at the Lewis School of Aeronautics at Lockport, under an arrangement made by the United States army. Training of this group is undertaken as part of the Pan-American Good Neighbor program.

The army cadets—nine are from Bolivia, one from Colombia, and one from Guatemala—are the first who have been trained away from regular army air bases. This group will take a three month course that will be approximately the same as the primary and advanced Civilian Pilot Training courses for American college youths. Then they will be sent on to regular army basic and advanced flying schools.

Arrive from Texas.

The nine Bolivian cadets arrived at the school late Sunday direct from the army air corps' training center at Randolph field, San Antonio, Tex. The others have come in at various times direct from their home countries. They have been sent to the civilian school, it is understood, because of their inability to speak English and the inadequacy of army facilities for providing Spanish-speaking instructors.

Designation of the Lewis school as a training center for the Central and South American youths is the result of planning initiated two years ago by John Wilson, the school superintendent. At that time he set in motion plans for establishing a Latin American department in the school in which Spanish speaking instructors would be available.

Live with American Boys.

Wilson said yesterday the ground school courses that will be given to both the military and civilian cadets will be taught by Gentile da Rosa, and his brother Edmundo, both of whom came to the United States from Brazil under an exchange scholarship arrangement made between the Lewis school and that government.

While at Lewis the Spanish speaking cadets will live with American boys so that their progress with the English language may be expedited.

The ages of the cadets range from 22 to 25 years. All will go back to their respective countries as instructors when their training is completed. The civilian cadets are from Chile, Puerto Rico, Brazil, Argentina, and Bolivia.

DIES OF FUMES FROM RANGE.

Jacob Papadalo, 57 years old, was found dead yesterday in his room at 347 West 29th place. Police said he had died Sunday of fumes from a coal range.

Clothesline Hanging Is Held Accident.

An inquest into the death of Mrs. Helen Ensminger, 24 years old, mother of two small children, was continued yesterday to March 18 to allow further investigation. She was the wife of Melville Herrick Ensminger, 29, an assistant director and first aid instructor of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross.

Mrs. Ensminger was found dead early yesterday in the basement of her home at 14917 Avers avenue, Midlothian, by her husband on his return from a visit with a neighbor, Dan Shadrack, 14937 Avers.

Efforts to Save Her Fail.

In his statement to Sergt. James Lawrence of the Homewood county highway police and Sergt. Walter McDermott of the coroner's office, Ensminger said he found his wife hanging from a clothesline hook. He took her down, tried to revive her, and, failing in that, called Shadrack, who notified the Midlothian police. An inhalator squad responded but was unable to save the young mother.

After hearing Ensminger's story and examining available evidence, police said it was probable that Mrs. Ensminger was the victim of an accident. Ensminger said he found the clothesline tangled around her throat. Apparently she had been washing clothes for her children, David, 2½, and Richard, one month old. The police theorized that she was standing on a paint can and toppled over, and that the clothesline wrapped itself around her throat in the manner of the end of a cracking whip.

Father Testifies at Inquest.

Only brief testimony was taken at the inquest, which was conducted by Deputy Coroner Sylvester Vyzral. Ensminger did not testify. One of the witnesses was Mrs. Ensminger's father, Herman Hartman, 1654 West 105th street. After giving a brief sketch of her history, he was asked if he had "any further information."

"My daughter's marriage was not very happy," Hartman said.

The post-mortem examination of Mrs. Ensminger's body revealed two fractured vertebrae in the neck, a rope burn completely around the throat, and bruises under the armpits and on the right elbow. The bruises may have resulted from the pumping of arms in artificial respiration. These will be examined, and the vital organs will be analyzed in a routine investigation.

RATIONERS ISSUE FIRST PERMIT TO BUY CAR IN CITY

Automobile sales under the federal rationing setup started yesterday. The first successful Chicagoan was K. E. Crago, a traffic representative of American Airlines.

Crago, who lives at 4218 West 21st place, is a liason man between the airline and army and navy officials in the area who desire priority for air travel. He was issued a certificate that entitles him to buy a new car by the local rationing board at 2322 South Ashland avenue.

While yesterday was the first day of actual rationing, Michael F. Mulcahy, metropolitan rationing administrator, said it was the last day of pre-freeze buying.

All sales of cars, as well as delivery cars previously contracted for, were frozen by the government Jan. 1. The local rationing boards have been issuing permits allowing persons who had contracted for cars before Jan. 1 to secure delivery.

Cook county has been allotted only 3,942 autos for the next three months and rationing boards will not be able to issue permits for the sale of more than that number, Mulcahy said.

EX-CONSTABLE INDICTED.

Charles Hall, 42 years old, former constable in Warren township, was indicted yesterday by the Lake county grand jury on a charge of snatching a woman's purse containing $1,238 in North Chicago. The victim is Mrs. Anna Wovoris, 1705 Sheridan road, North Chicago.

JAKE'S BACK BROKEN AS N. U. BEATS INDIANA

CORONA OF TEXAS TO MAKE 3D BID FOR GOLDEN GLOVE

VETERAN, THREE MATES SEEK TEAM CROWN

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Morris Corona is an intercity champion but he's never won a diamond studded Chicagoland Golden Glove. This year the three time winner of a Texas title in the Fort Worth tournament believes he will gain his goal Friday night in the Chicagoland Golden Gloves semi-finals and finals in the Stadium.

In 1940 Corona was defeated in the Golden Gloves welterweight finals in the Stadium by Savior Canadeo, who went on to intercity honors against New York and then won an international championship in the last Chicago matches with Europe.

Last year Corona again reached the final night of fighting in the welterweight division. Again he failed. In the semi-finals he lost to George Horne Jr., of the Cleveland team, who then beat Bob Burns, of Fort Wayne, for the Golden Glove. When Horne could not report for the Chicago intercity team. Corona and Burns earned the welterweight assignments in the 16 bout program. Both were victorious.

He Becomes a Lightweight.

This year the Texan is fighting in the lightweight class since he was ineligible to defend his Texas welterweight crown by the rule that permits a champion to defend his title successfully only once in a weight class. He still was eligible to compete, however, for an amateur may fight five years in Golden Gloves tournaments. So, since he was not a full-fledged welterweight, Morris decided to reduce to the lightweight class. He wanted a Golden Glove.

Corona weighed 135 pounds on the first night of the tournament. In his first match he defeated Leonard Pelton of Gary. The champion from Fort Smith, Ark., came next and this victory brought Corona to the quarter-finals. His opponent was Roy Lewis, from Muncie, Ind., who, as a featherweight, won a Golden Glove in 1940. Corona won a three round decision from the left handed Hoosier and now is ready for his final test.

His rivals Friday night are Julius Menendez, St. Louis; Tommy Lemmon, Milwaukee, and Bert Williams, Sioux City, S. D.

Texas to Bid for Team Title.

Corona is 23 years old and his home is in Port Arthur, Tex., where he is employed in the grease plant of an oil refinery. He was born in nearby Lake Charles, La., but has lived nearly all of his life in the gulf city. He played football and basketball in high school and started boxing about the time he graduated.

Each year Corona has advanced thru the Houston Golden Gloves tournament to compete in the state finals sponsored by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. He and his teammates have remained in Chicago since the Tournament of Champions. Fort Worth, Milwaukee, and Cleveland lead in the battle for the team trophy. Each city has four boxers in the semi-finals.

Five points will be awarded for each championship, three points for each defeated finalist, and each defeated semi-finalist scores a point for his team. Thus these three cities are assured of four points. The award of this trophy, the team championship trophy in Chicago's city tournament which was won by the CYO and the three sportsmanship trophies will be made Friday evening.

Good Seats Remain.

The sportsmanship trophies have been awarded Joe Krulitz of Milwaukee, Barney Ross welterweight trophy; Harry Stephens of Chicago, Tony Zale trophy; James Phillips of Fort Worth, Joe Louis trophy. Ross won the Golden Gloves featherweight title in 1929 and he also won his intercity match that year in New York. Later Barney became lightweight and welterweight champion of the world.

Zale was an outstanding Golden Glove fighter and he also competed on an intercity team against New

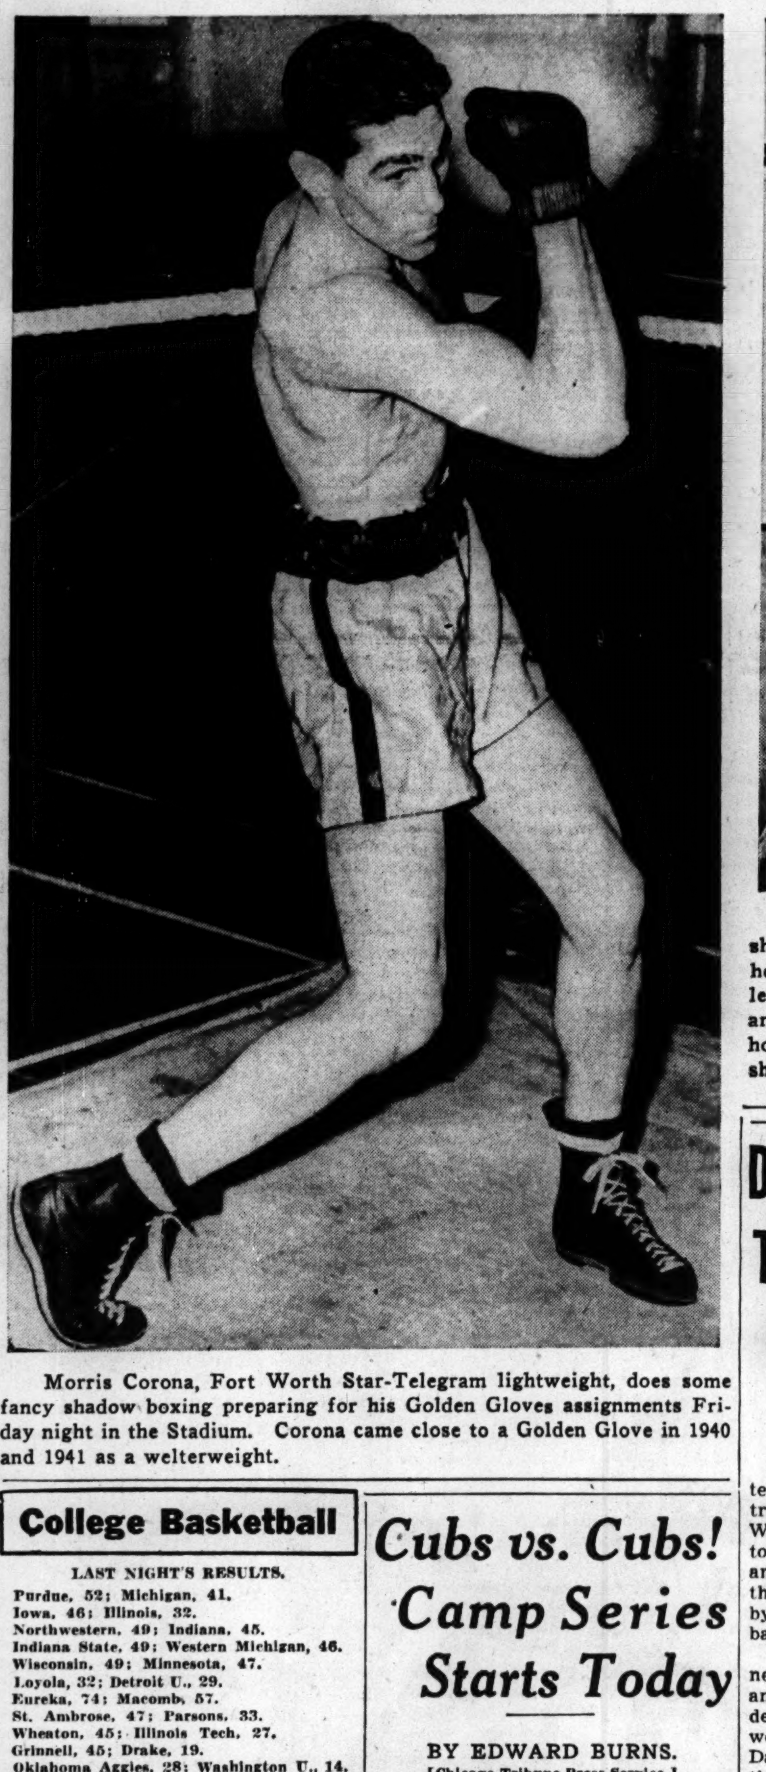
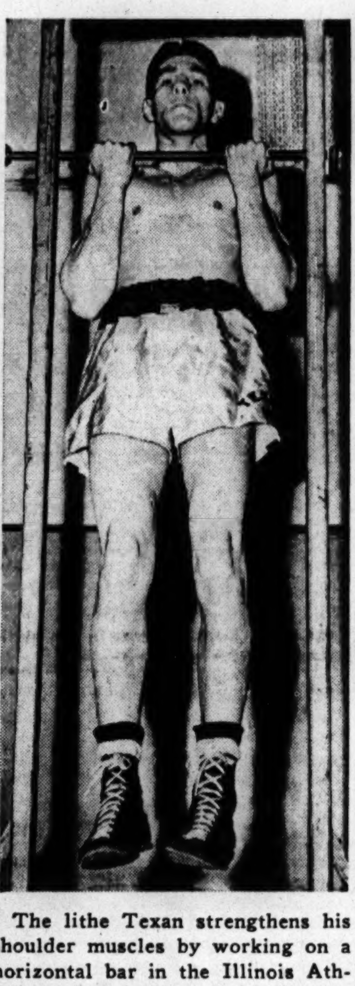
Corona of Texas Hopes Third Time's the Charm



Morris Corona, Fort Worth Star-Telegram lightweight, does some fancy shadow boxing preparing for his Golden Gloves assignments Friday night in the Stadium. Corona came close to a Golden Glove in 1940 and 1941 as a welterweight.



The lithe Texan strengthens his shoulder muscles by working on a horizontal bar in the Illinois Athletic club gym. Three other Texans are in the finals and Fort Worth hopes to win the team championship.

Cubs vs. Cubs! Camp Series Starts Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 2.—Maybe it's just the stir craziness that has resulted from being marooned out in the Pacific, or maybe it's eagerness to get started on a highly problematical year in baseball competition. In any event, the Cub camp on semi-isolated Catalina island was all a-twitter tonight in anticipation of the baseball game to be played tomorrow between teams managed by Clyde McCullough and Bob Scheffing, Cub catchers.

Something of a world series tenseness pervades the island. If you think this statement is evidence of slap-happiness, make the most of it. We wouldn't know, until we consult an alienist, which we propose to do as soon as we get back to the mainland.

$15 Rides on Each Game.

Just like the regular fall world series, the game tomorrow, and probably all subsequent intracamp games, are to be played for a cash purse. Tomorrow's game will be played for $15 net. In other words, every player on the two teams chosen by McCullough and Scheffing will have a $1 bet riding on himself.

At a press conference this morning, Manager Scheffing, who was the youngest manager in organized basebell when he managed the Washington, Pa., team in 1938, revealed his managerial flair by shaking up his batting order. Scheffing announced a batting order yesterday after the choosing lottery. The shakeup fol-

DYKES DECIDES TO TRY KENNEDY IN SOX OUTFIELD

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 2.—In an attempt to relieve the monotony of training camp, James Dykes, the White Sox boss, came up with an idea today. After due deliberation Dykes announced he will attempt to remedy the current shortage in the outfield by moving Bob Kennedy from third base into a fly chasing job.

It can be done very simply if Kennedy shows he can master whatever an outfielder is supposed to do on defense. His removal from third base wouldn't cause complications since Dario Lodigiani can be restored to the position. There also are a couple of rookie possibilities for the position. Of course, there is the matter of Kennedy's hitting which was weak last season. In his new berth he would be employed only if something should happen to Taft Wright, Wally Moses, or Myril Hoag, the regulars.

Attends First Outfielding Class.

Kennedy attended his first class in outfielding during today's workout and another novice also was in attendance. The latter was Murrell Jones, the rangy first baseman for whom the Sox paid the Shreveport club $12,500. He is rated as an able-bodied citizen around the first corner but Joe Kuhel remains available for such chores, so there isn't much chance for trespassers. If Jones can exhibit outfielding skill he'll be a handy fellow to keep not only for fly chasing purposes, but as a sub for Kuhel.

Dykes also made a speech today. He assembled his charges for their first clubhouse meeting and while he was in his usual ribbing mood he put over his points. He said he had read that 12 rules had been set up for the Cubs.

Step Ahead of Cubs.

"We can't let the Cubs have anything on us so we will have 14 rules," declared Dykes. "Twelve of them I won't mention, because I don't know them myself. But the two others are important. Keep away from beer, and don't forget to be locked in your rooms by midnight."

15,000 ATTEND FIRST SESSION OF BOWLING SCHOOL

Varipapa, Twinkle Watts Delight Crowd.

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

It was dull and snowy yesterday. Moreover it was Monday, just the day to stay in the house. But more than 15,000 who might have done that, preferred instead to crowd into Ted Lyons' recreation center for the opening session of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE free bowling school. They filled the main floor and jammed the balcony many rows deep—all to see and hear Andy Varipapa teach his bowling lesson and watch Andy and 6 year old Twinkle Watts put on a show that brought frequent "Oh's" and "Ah's."

Andy had been booked for some time to teach bowling free of charge at various establishments thruout Chicago. Last week little Twinkle was added to the faculty. Yesterday their instruction became as much a high class act as a school. And the crowd which had packed the house long before their arrival was delighted.

Andy Demonstrates Technique.

Andy gave his lecture, explaining the need of a properly fitted ball, of special shoes, of the bowlers' using a four step delivery, and of other fundamentals. He rolled a few balls to demonstrate his technique. Then he brought on the dark eyed curly headed blonde mite of 44 pounds to help him demonstrate.

Varipapa asked if the crowd wished to get back to the alleys and start its lesson or have him bowl a game with Twinkle. The verdict was unanimous—in favor of the game, of course. Andy bowled 231, following his own rules—throwing two balls with right and left hands simultaneously to pick up splits. Twinkle followed the accepted rule book and fired a 152 game, using her special 10½ pound ball. She had only two open frames, picking up all the rest of her spares, including the 10 pin twice. Later she rolled a 165 game, getting eight balls right into the pocket.

Works with Bowlers.

After the lecture and demonstration Andy went to work with bowlers who were on the lanes. He answered questions, he showed why the bowler should keep his wrist straight and demonstrated what happened when he allowed it to turn. He was there for hours, inasmuch as many of those who had heard the opening lecture and bowled a few games had left and new bowlers had taken their places. When school was dismissed, hundreds of high school students came in. They also were put on the alleys wherever possible, five bowlers being kept on each of the 32 lanes thruout the afternoon.

Appears Again at Night.

Andy and Twinkle appeared again following the center's league play last night. Varipapa gave his widely known trick shot exhibition.

The Tribune's school will again be conducted at Lyons' center today and tomorrow, the afternoon session—starting with the lecture—opening at 2 o'clock and the night show at 11 o'clock.

JACKIE WILSON LOSES; SUFFERS BROKEN ARM

New York, March 2 (AP).—The National Boxing association's world featherweight champion, Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh, suffered a broken left arm tonight, was floored twice, and lost an eight round decision to Terry Young, a local battler, in the St. Nicholas palace.

The damage was done in the second and third rounds. Two ripping lefts put him down in the second and in the third he suffered a fractured left forearm near the elbow when Young parried a hard left uppercut. Afterward Dr. Alexander Schiff, New York state athletic commission physician, described the injury as "a fracture of the left radius at the juncture of the upper and middle thirds.

Don't Stay Horizontal.

Success is never final,
And failure never fatal,
So play the man, the best you can,
And treat yourself as rival.

In spite of gravitation.

You may not find ambrosia

To scorn to rise is fatal,
So play the man, the best you can.
And don't stay horizontal.

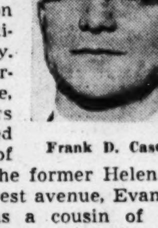
Frank Case Jr., Athlete, Dies in Navy Plane

Lieut. Frank D. Case Jr., former all-around athletic star at the United States Naval Academy, was lost at sea Feb. 23 while on flight patrol duty, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Case, 4701 Beacon street, were notified yesterday. Besides his parents, Lieut. Case, who was 27 years old, is survived by his bride of three months, the former Helen Forsyth of 1128 Forest avenue, Evanston. Lieut. Case was a cousin of Clint Frank, All-American football star at Yale in 1938 and now in the quartermaster corps at an army air base.



Frank D. Case Jr.

Starred at Evanston High.

Lieut. Case was graduated from Evanston High school in 1932 after starring in football. He then entered Williams college and the following year transferred to Bullis school in Washington, D. C., to prepare for entrance to the Naval academy.

The Chicagoan played quarter back on the Navy team in 1935, 1936, and 1937, appearing in action once in this district when the Navy lost to Notre Dame on the latter's field in 1937 by 9 to 7. He captained the Navy lacrosse team in his senior year when the Middies won the eastern intercollegiate championship. He also took part in varsity wrestling and swimming and was president of his class for two years.

Transfers to Air Service.

After his graduation from the academy in 1938 he was assigned to duty aboard the U. S. S. Manley, a destroyer, and then the U. S. S. Lexington, aircraft carrier. While serving aboard the Lexington he requested transfer to the naval air service and received his wings as a flyer in August, 1940.

Lieut. Case was fifth in command of the squadron from which he was lost.

Bloomington, Ind., March 2 [Special].—Northwestern's basketball team tonight did what no other team has been able to do for more than two years. The Wildcats whipped Indiana on the Hoosiers' home floor, 49 to 45, but there was a tragic aftermath. Bobby Jake, Northwestern sophomore forward, suffered fracture of a vertebra and probably will be in a cast for 10 weeks.

Bobby Jake.

Jake is the boys' and junior tennis champion of Wisconsin and, due to the injury, probably will be unable to represent Northwestern on the courts this spring. He was taken to the Indiana university infirmary, where Dr. Charles Holland said there was a break between the first and second vertebrae. Following an X-ray examination he was placed in a plaster cast.

Jake was injured during a collision with Ed Denton, Indiana guard, in a scramble near the Hoosier backboard.

Northwestern dropped in 37 per cent of its field shots to gain a surprising 25 to 13 half time lead and came back to score the first four field goals of the second period. This gave the Wildcats a 20 point margin. Thereafter they played cautiously and staved off the Hoosiers' late rally.

Iowa City, Ia., March 2 [Special].—Iowa's Hawkeyes played Illinois off its feet in the second half and routed the Big Ten basketball champions, 46 to 32, before a record crowd of 13,500 here tonight. The victory put Iowa in second place in the Big Ten standings.

The Iowans, outscored 23 to 16 by the Illini reserves in the first half, allowed the regulars only three points in 16½ minutes of the second half, then the second team again went in.

The first team which had dropped only one Big Ten game previously, went into the game for the first time in the second period, but the Hawkeyes unleashed a fast breaking attack against it and in five minutes took a 24 to 23 lead. Illinois scored after six minutes on a free throw by Gene Vance. Jack Smiley scored the only field goal for the varsity, hooking one in from the side after 10 minutes had elapsed. The second team then went back on the floor, and connected with six more points in the final three minutes. Lineup:

Wisconsin led, 27 to 15, at the half, Kotz getting five of his field goals in this period. The Gophers battled into a momentary lead with seven minutes to go, but their opponents stormed to the front again. Kotz now has scored 211 points in 14 conference games. The lineup:

POMAYYA TAKES $10,000 EVENT AT HIALEAH PARK

Scores by Three Lengths; Silvestra Is Second.

Miami, Fla., March 2 (AP).—The 4 year old filly Pomayya, flying the silks of Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade stable, won an easy three length victory today in the $10,000 added Black Helen handicap at Hialeah Park.

Only 7,054 fans saw the race over the mud and slush, altho it was the first big event on Hialeah's annual Widener week and the state's richest purse for fillies and mares.

The week, closing the track's first wartime season, ends Saturday with the renewal of the $50,000 added Widener Cup race, which this year has drawn unusual interest because the nation's leading thorobreds are concentrated in Florida due to California's racing suspension.

Victory Is Worth $9,075.

Pomayya's victory was worth $9,075 to Mrs. Sloane. The filly negotiated the mile and one furlong in 1 minute 50 4-5 seconds, which was fast considering the sloppy footing.

By virtue of late arrival from Columbia, S. C., and an unimpressive first start in Florida, Pomayya was an outsider and paid $10.50, $6.20, and $3.80.

Herbert M. Woolf's Silvestra, an even longer shot, paid $14.60 and $5.80 for the place. She barely beat the favorite, John A. Bell Jr.'s Dark Discovery, in a photo finish. Dark Discovery paid $3.10 for $2 to show.

All Even Pays $103.90.

The program was enlivened by Conn McCreary's surprise victory in the seventh race aboard Mrs. H. G. Good's All Even, which paid $103.90, $29.70, and $10.80 in the mutuels.

Basil James rode Pomayya in the Black Helen, thus scoring a double for the day and gaining a one race lead over his close rival, Eddie Arcaro. Both started the program with 23 victories each for the Hialeah season and Arcaro could do no better than a single victory.

Eliot's First Football Call Brings Out 85

Champaign, Ill., March 2 [Special].—One of the largest turnouts in University of Illinois football history, 85, today greeted Ray Eliot, new Illini coach. Confined to the east great hall of Memorial stadium, the players were put thru fundamentals by Eliot and his assistants.

Tony Blazine, former Chicago Cardinal and New York Giant pro star, appeared for the first time as an assistant coach, and "Jus" Lindgrin, veteran assistant, worked with the linemen. Eliot's assistants also included Ralph Fletcher, recently promoted from head freshman coach to have charge of the varsity back field; John Tarwain, varsity end coach; Jack Treece, Ray Duncan, and Dave Buzy.

11 Letter Men Report.

Capt. Jimmy Smith headed a group of 11 letter men who have checked out equipment. The others were Don Griffin, Tony Butkovich, Dick Good, backs; Jim McCarthy, Elmer Engel, Bob Wilson, John Genis, Dom Mattiazza, Joe Pawlowski, linemen, and Bob Wallin, letter man in 1940. Other veterans are in various sports, but will report later.

Among the new backs who received attention were Ray Florek, freshman from Fenger High school [Chicago], and Frank Wehrli, Naperville, who were worked with Smith, Butkovich, Griffin, and Bert Piggott, reserve full back.

Other freshmen included these linemen:

Stan Rosen, Chicago [Hyde Park]; Jim Craig, Champaign; Ray Bordner, Lewistown; Don Walters and Mike Kasap, Oglesby [La Salle-Peru]; Mac Wenskunas, Georgetown; Jack Butt, Decatur; Tom Smerdel, Danville.

Jack Hendron, Chicago Heights [Bloom township], and John Zedrow, Naperville, are freshmen who reported. Art Dufelmeier, Beardstown, a leading freshman back, is expected to report soon. Joe Astroth, Wood River, half back, is out for freshman basketball.

Chuck Gervig, Belleville, captain of the 1940 freshman team, who withdrew from the varsity because of an injury, reported.

HALAS FAMILY PERILED IN FIRE; AUNT RESCUED

Mrs. May Mikule, 65 years old, aunt of George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears football team, was rescued yesterday when fire attacked the three story building at 5510 North Campbell avenue, in which the Halas apartment is located.

Mrs. Mikule was in the laundry in the basement when she discovered the fire. She ran to the first floor apartment of Mrs. Earl Johnston to give an alarm. She was overcome by smoke and was carried out thru a window of that apartment. She was revived by a fire department inhalator squad and taken to the Ravenswood hospital.

Mrs. Halas, wife of the football coach, and her mother, Mrs. Mary Bushing, 79 years old, fled to the street from the apartment on the second floor. Chief Robert Wallace of the 20th battalion said the fire started in the basement from spontaneous combustion. Damage was estimated at $2,500.

108 Teams to Roll Tonight in ABC Opening

Columbus, O., March 2 (AP).—Thirty-six five man teams fire the opening salvo early tomorrow evening in the 73 day American Bowling Congress tournament, in which the winners in four classes will take down approximately $250,000 in prizes. In all 108 teams are to shoot in three squads tomorrow. The teams come from Ohio, Michigan, Texas, Illinois, New York, Kentucky, Indiana, and Pennsylvania.

For breaking in the new alleys the opening shift teams will take on added prize money, the ABC having put up a purse of $450. The leading one gets $100, while the ninth placer gets $25, with the rest of the purse going to teams between those spots.

SINKE HAS 218 AVERAGE

Joe Sinke, who a few months ago proved one of the outstanding bowlers in the All-Star tournament, will carry an average of 218, believed to be one of the best in league shooting, into the Gold Coast Major league's matches tonight. Sinke is a member of the Joseph L. Gill team, which leads the circuit by 11 games with a record of 58 won and 17 lost. Tonight's matches:

Joseph L. Gills vs. Detloff Park View Flowers; Louis Glunz Liquors vs. Triangle Shirts; De Luxe recreation vs. Gold Coast; International Sportsmen's Show vs. Ballantine's Restaurant; Budweisers vs. Pogue's Old Times; Art J. Williams Jewelry vs. Acme Furnace.

Team entries for the Women's International Bowling congress tournament, to be held in Bensinger's Milwaukee recreation center beginning May 7, are expected to exceed 2,500. The event will be the WIBC's 25th anniversary tournament. Teams averaging less than 700 will compete in the booster division. . . . John Stanaitis of the Post Office Night Owl league took the lead in the singles division of the Gold Coast handicap tournament with a big 746 Sunday night.

Syd Roth and Bob Brown of the Marshall Letters team of the Merchandise Mart Handicap league have realized an ambition. In one night they scored the league's first and second individual high games, first and second high series, and led their team to high team game and series for the season. Syd, who averages 170, shot a 272 game and 713 series and Bob got a 234 game and 653 series. The team hit a 1,067 game and 3,098 series. . . . Women's scores:

Waller Wins First Battle in Playoffs

Waller High, north section junior basketball champion, hurdled its first test in the Chicago Public High School league playoffs without much trouble, defeating Wells, 42 to 32 on the latter's floor yesterday.

The trio of Joe Morreale, Frank Hokl, and William Booker proved too much for the Wells quintet. Waller led, 13 to 11, at the conclusion of the first quarter. Then in the second period, Waller changed its fast breaking offensive tactics to meet with the size of the gymnasium. Booker and Morreale paced the second period attack. Booker, who became eligible the first week in February, scored three baskets and a free throw, and Morreale made two field goals and a free toss. At halftime the north siders were in front, 23 to 18.

Booker Fouls Out.

Booker fouled his way out of the game toward the end of the third period and when the gun sounded ending the quarter, Waller held a 14 point advantage, 37 to 23.

Booker left the game with six field goals and one free throw. Top scoring honors however, for the afternoon went to Morreale, one of the most improved players in junior competition this season. He scored five field goals and five free throws for 15 points.

Five games will be played this afternoon as the preliminary playoffs continue. In the junior division, Tilden, undefeated central section champion meets Hirsch of the south zone at Englewood, and Von Steuben, second place north section representative, encounters Austin, third west section team, at Roosevelt.

Lane Tech Meets Crane.

The feature senior contest on a three game card brings together Lane Tech, undefeated in 10 north section games, and Crane of the west zone on the Schurz High school floor. Du Sable of the central meets Morgan Park of the south at Tilden, and Kelvyn Park of the west tangles with Senn of the north at Lane Tech.

Play will also continue on Wednesday, and when the day is over there will be eight teams left in each division. Lineup:

Milt Kuhl, Iowa Athlete, Reveals Feb. 2 Marriage

Iowa City, Ia., March 2 (AP).—The marriage Feb. 2 of Milt Kuhl, Ida Grove, Ia., University of Iowa basketball and track star, and Miss Betty Jean Hagman, Huron, S. D., was announced here today.

OHIO STATE AND ILLINOIS MENACE MICHIGAN HOPES

Buckeyes, Illini Squads Eye Track Title.

Ohio State is the favorite and Illinois is the dark horse in the campaign to outpoint the Michigan track team as the Big Ten makes final preparations for the 1942 indoor meet, which will be held in the University of Chicago fieldhouse Friday and Saturday nights.

Keen competition is expected. Three records, the high and low hurdles and the broad jump, already have been broken in dual meets this season, and two others, the pole vault and the mile run, are expected to be broken or tied.

Buckeyes Are Strong.

Ohio State, which has never won a Big Ten track title, indoor or outdoor, has the greatest team in its history and is expected to offer the chief competition to Michigan's return to the supremacy which had lasted seven straight years before Indiana took over last year.

The Hoosiers are not regarded as a title threat this year, despite the fact that their distance runners probably will capture three individual championships. Illinois, Ohio State, and Michigan all exceed the defenders in team balance.

Ohio State will be led by Bob Wright, star hurdler. Defending champion in the high hurdles as a result of his record breaking effort last year in which he clipped a 10th of a second from the previous mark, he has run faster this season and also has beaten the low hurdles record set last year by Don Olsen of Illinois.

In addition, the Buckeye squad includes Capt. Ralph Hammond, sprinter; Gene Kiracofe, distance runner; Gil Yates, half miler; Leroy Collins and Russ Owen quarter milers; George Simmons, shotputter; Dallas Dupre, broad jumper; John Schmidt, vaulter, and Loyd Crable, high jumper, all of whom are regarded as good for points in the meet.

Ufer Leads Michigan.

Michigan's squad is topped by Bob Ufer, sprinter, Frank McCarthy, who probably will win places in both the high and broad jump as well as in the high hurdles, and a relay team which has the best record in the conference.

In addition, Michigan has star half milers in Dave Matthews, Wilbert Ackerman, John Kautz, and John Roxborough, plus three good sprinters, Al Thomas, Al Piel, and Leonard Alkon.

The Illini, tho they have Don Olsen, low hurdles champion and record holder, will depend for their title bid on Bob Rehberg, who is sure to collect points in any of three races—mile, half mile, and 440—he elects to run.

Records in Danger.

Besides new records in both branches of hurdle competition, a new mark is practically certain in the broad jump, with Lee Farmer, Iowa sophomore, already a foot and a half beyond the record established last year. Two vaulters, Bill Williams of Wisconsin and Jack DeField of Minnesota, have been within two inches of Milton Padway's 1939 record.

CLUB PRESIDENTS OF CDGA TO MEET IN FORUM TONIGHT

Discuss Golf's Problems of Wartime.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Presidents of member clubs of the Chicago District Golf association tonight will assemble in the Lincoln room of the La Salle hotel for one of the most unusual meetings in the history of the organization. It will be the first time, aside from the regular annual meetings in December, that the ranking officers of CDGA clubs have assembled officially. Dinner will be served at 6 o'clock, and the meeting will open promptly at 7:15 p. m.

There's a reason for this special gathering, called by Thomas G. McMahon of Skokie, new president of the CDGA. Every golfer in the country is, or certainly should be, aware of hazards other than sand, rough, and trees which confront him this season. These perennial obstacles, in fact, become incidental along side such new problems as automobile tires, golf balls, income taxes, and club operating expenses.

Responsibilities Multiply.

It is obvious that the responsibilities of each club president are thus multiplied. No longer must he concern himself solely with the problems of his own club, except as the maintenance of that club concerns the welfare of the game as a whole.

"These are trying times for golf club presidents," McMahon said yesterday. "Only sound judgment and revised economics will balance our budgets and increase our memberships, or, at least, maintain them at our present level. This meeting has been called on the basis of an open forum, with a view to rendering assistance in the common solution of our problems. Every president this year has assumed an increased responsibility, and the CDGA should be the medium for ironing out all kinks, even as general meetings in other fields, such as law, medicine, dentistry, and manufacturing."

Uniform Accounting Problem.

Among the topics expected to be taken up tonight are caddies, transportation, the golf ball supply, memberships, and club operating costs. The last named is of the most immediate importance, and the CDGA uniform accounting committee has prepared a 57 point questionnaire which will be distributed tonight.

With the coöperation of the presidents, the CDGA executive board hopes to assemble figures which will produce a composite picture designed to aid every club in the association. This statistical comparison of selected permanent data, it is planned, will be a definite aid to solving the problem of operating costs per member.

Corona to Try Third Time for a Golden Glove

York. This winter Tony won the world's middleweight championship. Louis was the 1934 Golden Gloves light heavyweight champion and in 1937 he became heavyweight champion of the world.

All ringside seats have been sold for Friday's show. However, excellent seats remain in the $2.20, $1.65, and $1.10 sections. You'll have no difficulty getting a seat and all afford a perfect view of the Stadium ring. Tickets are on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices in the lobby of Tribune Tower and at 1 South Dearborn street.

The heavyweight division fights alone are worth the admission. Not since the days of Max Marek and Otis Thomas have better boxers been brought together. Two of them—James Phillips of Fort Worth and Bill Jochman from Camp Polk, La.—are soldiers. Jochman was born in Appleton, Wis. He's a member of the 23d engineers' battalion. Phillips is a member of the 133d field artillery stationed in Camp Landon, Fla.

Chicago's champion, Hubert Hood of the CYO, and George Roscoe, Cleveland's champion who comes from Farmdale, O., complete the quartet of heavyweights. Pairings for the semi-finals will be made Friday immediately after the physical examinations. Boxers will report at noon at the CYO gymnasium.

Bolden Evens Score; Whips Reeves in Ten

Nate Bolden, 1937 Intercity Golden Gloves middleweight winner, appearing in the best form of his career, obtained sweet revenge for an earlier defeat at the hands of Jimmy Reeves by dealing the Cleveland light heavyweight a fierce beating in their 10 round bout in Marigold Gardens last night.

The unanimous decision of Referee Frank McAdams and Judges William O'Connell and Romaine A. Goudie was a mere formality. Bolden, outboxing and outfighting Reeves most of the way, scored three knockdowns, two in the seventh and one in the eighth.

At the half way mark Bolden held a comfortable margin as a result of scoring points in the first three rounds.

Body Blow Hurts Reeves.

Bolden staggered Jimmy with a right to the head in the second and in the third a right to the body almost floored the Ohioan. Jim's left jabs cut Bolden's mouth in the fourth, but in the fifth Bolden gave as much as he received.

In the sixth Bolden landed a right to the stomach and Reeves clinched. This blow softened up Reeves and he was a target for rights to the chin which sent him to the canvas in the seventh. Bolden weighed 163½ pounds and Reeves 166. Attendance was 1,343. Gross receipts were $1,845.

◆

Eddie Lander, west side lightweight, yesterday returned from New York where he won two fights. . . . He started workouts in Trafton's gymnasium for his 10 round bout against Nick Castiglione in Marigold Gardens Monday. . . . Milt Aron, once a contender for the welterweight championship, has been moved from a south side hospital to his home on the west side. Aron has been ill with a blood infection since last Oct. 2.

◆

Gene Spencer, South Chicago junior lightweight, last night was matched to meet Jimmy Joyce of Gary in a six round contest in the next show in Midway arena, date of which has been postponed from tomorrow to March 11. . . . Emil Baksic, former South Chicago middleweight, has joined the personnel department for a defense plant in South Chicago.

MARTIN KNOCKS OUT WELCH IN SECOND ROUND

Milwaukee, Wis., March 2 (AP).—Tony [Cianciola] Martin, Wisconsin middleweight champion, made it two in a row over Coley Welch, of Portland, Me., by knocking out the fighting Irishman in 52 seconds of the second round of their scheduled 10 round bout tonight.

Martin beat Welch in Chicago Stadium last summer.

Martin dropped Welch for a nine count with three tough rights early in the second round after shading the easterner in the opening round. The Milwaukee Italian pursued his advantage and floored Welch again before Referee Barney Ross stopped the fight with Welch hanging on the ropes.

A crowd of 5,000 saw the match. Martin weighed 157¾, Welch 159.

Hoffman, Malkov to Open New Health Center Today

The club is located at 173 West Madison street and was built at a cost of $25,000.

DETROIT EAGLES ADD GARFINKEL FOR PRO TOURNEY

Henry [Dutch] Dehnert, coach of the Detroit Eagles, which won the world professional basketball tournament in Chicago last year, has strengthened the club by signing Jack [Dutch] Garfinkel for the meet which will start Saturday night in the International amphitheater.

Garfinkel, from St. John's of Brooklyn, was an outstanding player in the College All-Star game last fall in the Stadium. The eastern youngster played under Coach Joe Lopckick at Brooklyn. The latter and Dehnert were teammates on the Original Celtics basketball team.

Garfinkel and Paul Widowitz and Lou Kasperik of Duquesne, have replaced Jimmy Brown, Bob Calihan, and Eddie Sadowski, members of last years' title winning quintet. Calihan is in the navy and Sadowski is in the army. Other members from last years' title winning team are Bud Jeannette, Jack Ahearn, Ed Parry, and Jerry Bush.

Sixteen teams will participate in the tournament.

Loyola Defeats Detroit, 32-29, in Final Game

Loyola finished its season with a 32 to 29 victory last night over the University of Detroit. It was Loyola's 17th victory in 23 games both for the year and for the Detroit series.

Jack Stanton and Bob Tietz, who scored 19 points between them, paced the Rambler attack. The score was tied, 18 to 18, at the half. Detroit led most of the period mainly thru the one handed push shots of Art Stolkey from the corner of the floor.

Loyola took a two point lead, 26 to 24, half way thru the second period. With five minutes and forty seconds to go, Mike Dougherty and Joe Mader traded blows after a scramble for the ball. Both were ejected and Substitute Bill Durkin scored for Loyola and Ray Kelly missed for Detroit on the double foul. Tietz scored Loyola's last basket with a minute to go, while Bob Brice came back with a one handed shot to make Detroit's final points with 15 seconds to play.

The score boosted Loyola's total to 1,062 for the year, a new all time mark. The old record was 1,029 set by the 1939 squad. Rottner's four points gave him 297 for the year, the second best mark in Loyola's history. Lineups:

PURDUE WINS, 52-41

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 2 [Special].—Trailing, 40 to 29, with 12 minutes remaining in the second half, Purdue's basketball team put on a blistering 23 point rally while holding Michigan to a single point and triumphed, 52 to 41, in a Western conference basketball game tonight.

Michigan led, 28 to 22, at the half, and except for a brief period early in the game, had led all the way thru. Early in the second half the Wolverines built up a 36 to 25 lead, and at the eight minute mark held a 40 to 29 advantage. Then the Boilermakers went to work in earnest and the only Wolverine score in the final 12 minutes was a free throw by Jim Mandler.

Start Swinging in Earnest Today

Cardinals Pick Slaughter for Cleanup Spot; Crespi Is Leadoff

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 2 (AP).—Outfielder Enos Slaughter will bat in the cleanup spot for the St. Louis Cardinals this year, Manager Billy Southworth said today in announcing his tentative starting batting order.

Second Baseman Frank Crespi, only unsigned member of the Cardinals, is slated for the leadoff position, to be followed by Jimmy Brown, Stanley Musial, Slaughter, Ray Sanders, Terry Moore, Walker Cooper, Marty Marion, and the pitcher.

The Cards meet the New York Yankees in their first exhibition game Friday.

FINDS SPOT FOR CROUCHER.

Orlando, Fla., March 2 (AP).—Manager Bucky Harris intends to use Utility Infielder Frankie Croucher, obtained from the Detroit Tigers during the winter, on the Washington Senators' second base job this season.

Altho no fence buster, the smooth fielding Croucher is expected to augment the defense of an infield already shattered by the loss of Infielders Cecil Travis and Jimmy Bloodworth.

BROWNS CAMP OPENS.

De Land, Fla., March 2 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns training camp opened today with all but one player far behind the American league pack in physical conditioning. John Niggeling, the veteran knuckleball pitcher, has been here one month.

TIGERS MAKE FINAL OFFERS.

Lakeland, Fla., March 2 (AP).—Detroit Tiger holdouts were told in effect today to accept salaries offered them or seek other employment.

General Manager Jack Zeller, here to talk business with the recalcitrants, declared that the club had made its "final offers." That wasn't all.

He was reported to have laid down these conditions among others:

Unsigned players must pay their own way here or to wherever they join the club.

Players reporting out of condition will not be paid until they get into "satisfactory" shape.

Players still unsigned by April 14 will be automatically suspended.

Zeller talked to four holdouts—Pitcher Lynwood [Schooboy] Rowe and Paul [Dizzy] Trout and Outfielders Barney McCosky and Dick Wakefield—but only Rowe came to terms.

DODGERS GET VACATION.

HAVANA, March 2 (AP).—With a quarter of his squad victims of illness or injuries and the remaining three-fourths still aching after the two games with the New York Giants, Manager Leo Durocher of Brooklyn gave his players their first vacation today since the camp was opened 12 days ago.

Topping the hospital list is Alex Kampouris, utility infielder, who suffered a broken finger last week and now has influenza.

Here's the rest of the hospital squad: Pitcher Bob Chipman, sprained ankle and charley horse; Pitcher Ed Head, cold; Pitcher Newt Kimball, sprained ankle; Pitcher Ed Albosta, influenza; Pitcher Chet Kehn, cold and sore throat; Outfielder Jack Graham, upset stomach, and Outfielder Don Padgett, lame back.

PIRATES' PHELPS THINS OUT.

El Centro, Cal., March 2 (AP).—Babe Phelps, Pirate catcher, expressing hearty approval of Manager Frankie Frisch's training methods, said today he "does more work in a single day than I ever did in an entire week of training while with the Dodgers." The big catcher is trying to work down to 225 pounds.

Rookie pitcher Donn Kerr lost the nail of his right big toe due to having it struck by a ball off his own bat. Other Pirates appear in good condition.

The second squad of players are due here Thursday, the day after the team moves to its San Bernardino camp.

BRAVES DUE TODAY.

Sanford, Fla., March 2 (AP).—The Boston Braves, who departed from Boston with three players this morning, will be joined by at least another score before they arrive here tomorrow, President Bob Quinn predicted today. He said that Pitcher Bob Williams, a recent Amherst graduate who performed for the Hartford farm team last season, had decided to quit baseball and remain with his family's wool concern.

McCullough stood pat on his batting order but asked for the room numbers of all his squad. He said he had ordered a curfew an hour earlier than the usual midnight and that he proposed to check in all the lads at 11 o'clock.

Even a Commissioner!

Coach Dick Spalding is acting as commissioner and issued a bulletin when he heard there was unrest on the teams. The bulletin read, "If you don't want to play for McCullough, you'll have to play for Grumpy Scheffing, so what's the difference?" The two managers denied there was an undercurrent on the teams and held Commissioner Spalding's pronouncement was ridiculously ambiguous.

TELLS OF AIDING RISE OF INDIANA SLAYING VICTIM

Describes Methods Used by Mrs. Payne.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bloomington, Ind., March 2.—A new version of the start of Charles O. Mattingly's rise to a $7,500 a year legal job was given a jury today by a man who took an active part in promoting Mattingly's interests, Sanford Deckard.

Deckard testified in behalf of Mrs. Caroline Payne, who is charged with the murder of Mattingly. Formerly head carrier boy for Mrs. Payne during the years she was an executive of Bloomington newspapers, Deckard said that part of his job, after he was graduated to a place in the printing department, was to make certain that news stories concerning Mattingly found their way to page 1.

Pays for Lodge Initiation.

When Mrs. Payne decided that Mattingly should join a lodge, it was Mrs. Payne who paid the initiation fee, according to Deckard, and Deckard who presented the application for membership. Deckard told the jurors and Special Judge Charles B. Staff that Mrs. Payne frequently paid the dues of Mattingly, who has been pictured as her protégé as well as her lover. Deckard testified that he married Mrs. Payne's niece, lived in the Payne home for some time, and thought that Mrs. Payne and Mattingly were married.

Battle Over Love Letters.

The defense won a victory during the morning session when the court ordered the prosecutors to surrender a dozen love letters from Mattingly found in Mrs. Payne's purse after Mattingly was shot in the back last July 5.

Court fans who had been hoping the letters would be read in evidence were at least temporarily disappointed, however, when J. Frank Regester and Q. Austin East, defense attorneys, made no effort to place them before the jury.

Interest was heightened by references to a hitherto undisclosed letter to Mrs. Payne addressed to "My Baby Sweetheart" and signed "H. K." This development came when Sylvan Tackitt, prosecuting attorney, was called to the witness stand by the defense and asked if such a letter had not been among those found in the purse. Tackitt produced the letter but the defense refused to divulge its contents.

Psychiatrists are expected to testify tomorrow as to Mrs. Payne's mental condition at the time of the shooting. Mrs. Payne herself will probably take the stand to tell the story which she hopes will free her.

DENY UNION PLEA FOR REHEARING ON NORTH SHORE

The national mediation board has denied the petition of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés for a rehearing on the question of representing the workers on the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee line, union officials were informed yesterday.

W. F. Levander, president of the Amalgamated local, said his union was taking issue with the board's ruling that bargaining agents be chosen in a recent election by separate balloting among the various crafts. The railroad brotherhoods and a waiters' union carried the elections last week by wide majorities.

It was indicated that as a result of the denial, elevated line crewmen will continue to operate North Shore trains south of Howard street, as they have been for several weeks since the end of a dispute in which Amalgamated members refused to service trains over the elevated lines, thereby stopping them at the city limits.

Widow Will Administer Banker's $290,000 Estate

Letters of administration were granted yesterday to Mrs. Birdie R. Gray, 994 North Meadow lane, Lake Forest, to administer the estate of her husband, William Walden Gray, who died Feb. 18. He was president of the Citizens' National bank, Evansville, Ind. His estate is valued at $290,000. He left no will, and the estate will be divided among the widow and three daughters.

HENRY G. MILLER, VETERAN LAWYER OF CHICAGO, DIES

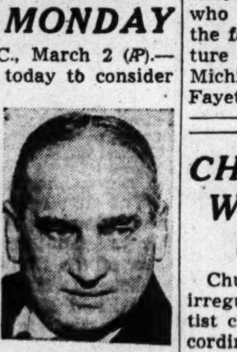
Short Illness Fatal to Civic Leader.

Henry G. Miller, 71 years old, Chicago attorney and civic leader, died yesterday in the Evanston hospital after a short illness. He was a member of the law firm of Whitman, Miller & Coon and had been practicing since 1899. He also was president of the South State Street Improvement association for a number of years.

Miller was the son of the late Henry G. Miller Sr., an early leader of the Chicago bar and a grandson of Col. Roswell B. Mason, who was Chicago's mayor in the fire of 1871. He graduated at Yale in 1895 and Northwestern university law school several years later.

He was a bachelor and lived with his brother-in-law and partner, former Superior Judge Russell Whitman, at 1334 Asbury avenue, Evanston. Besides being a member of prominent bar associations, he was a member of the Law, Legal, University, Saddle and Cycle, and Skokie Country clubs, and Wild Wing Lodge at Bath, Ill.

SENATE TAKES UP LANGER OUSTER REPORT MONDAY



Sen. Langer.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—The senate agreed today to consider next Monday a resolution to exclude Sen. William Langer [R., N. D.] on charges that he was guilty of gross misconduct and other acts involving moral turpitude prior to membership in the senate. The question reaches the senate on a recommendation of its elections committee which decided by a vote of 13 to 3 that the charges had been proven "beyond all reasonable doubt."

The minority report, signed by Senators Ellison D. (Cotton Ed) Smith [D., S. C.] and Abe Murdock [D., Utah], took sharp issue with the majority report which said the committee investigation demonstrated that Langer over a long career as attorney and governor had shown a "continuous, contemptuous and shameful disregard for the high concepts of public duty that every public official swears to uphold and defend under his constitutional oath."

"If a small fraction of the charges leveled, most of them based upon hearsay—none of them sustained by convincing proof—were true, it is fair to assume that Mr. Langer would not now be at large," the minority report said. Sen. Tom Connally [D., Tex.], former chairman of the committee, said he did not join in all the minority report details but agreed to its conclusions.

SEEKS TO HAVE RAPIST SENT TO PRISON AT ONCE

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley will appear today before Chief Justice Robert J. Dunne of the Criminal court to take steps to have David R. Steffey III., 18 year old convicted rapist, sent to prison immediately. Dr. William H. Haines, head of the county behavior clinic, reported to the court yesterday that Steffey required immediate attention for his mental condition.

Dr. Haines reported that Steffey was suffering from schizophrenia [split personality], was displaying suicidal tendencies, and should be transferred to an institution at once. Steffey divested himself of all clothing yesterday, and only after considerable persuasion by Warden Frank G. Sain did he replace his trousers.

Steffey was sentenced to two life terms in prison by Judge Julius H. Miner, but his attorney, Benjamin Ehrlich, obtained a delay until March 13 pending an appeal.

CHARGE PASTOR'S WIDOW SEIZED CHURCH MONEY

Church services have been highly irregular at the Zion Missionary Baptist church, 649 East 48th street, according to a suit filed by representatives of some 250 Negro members in Superior court yesterday.

The suit alleges that since the death of the Rev. William Cosey last November, his widow, Marion, has taken over the church records and its money and has boarded up the church windows. What's worse, says the bill, the old line members of the church don't even know how much they owe on the building. They estimate that about $3,000 has been collected to pay for it, but they can't find out from Mrs. Cosey how much is still due.

There is also the little problem of who is actually the pastor. It seems the old line members chose the Rev. Henry Allen Boyd, but before he could take charge Mrs. Cosey and her faction had installed the Rev. S. E. Tyler. Defendants include the Trust company of Chicago, Mrs. Cosey, William Howard, Emmett Cosey, the Rev. Mr. Tyler, and Mary Jane Thomason.

SON OF DRY ERA SLAYING VICTIM GETS TRUST FUND

A trust fund collected by THE TRIBUNE for Gerald De King, whose mother, Mrs. Lillian De King, was shot and killed when state officers made a prohibition raid on the De King home, near Aurora, on March 25, 1929, has been given to him, it was announced yesterday.

The Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank, the trustee, turned over a check for $2,908.17 to young De King's account in the Aurora National bank. The beneficiary, now 25 years old, is in the marine corps. The original amount collected totaled $1,948.12, and the earned interest, $1,558.70. Previous payments have been made to him.

Great indignation was aroused when the raiders entered her home and shot Mrs. De King. The raiders accused her husband, Joseph De King, of bootlegging. Readers of THE TRIBUNE contributed to the fund. One of the conditions of the trust was that the balance in the fund was to be paid when Gerald became 25 years old.

BOOST IN RAIL FREIGHT RATES CONFINED TO 6%

Lines Disappointed by ICC Action.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—A 6 per cent freight rate increase on most commodities hauled by the nation's rail and water carriers was granted today by the Interstate Commerce commission, a move expected to add about 203 millions dollars to the carriers' annual revenues.

The carriers had petitioned last December for a general 10 per cent increase in passenger fares and freight rates after a presidential fact-finding board had apporved railroad wage increases estimated to amount to 300 or 325 million dollars a year. The ICC acted first on the passenger fare petition and approved it. This increase is expected to bring in 46 million dollars of revenue.

In today's order, increases on raw agricultural commodities and low grade products of mines, were limited to 3 per cent. Coal and coke rate increases of 4 to 6 cents per gross ton were allowed. Iron ore was excluded.

Allow Simplified Procedure.

The higher rates were authorized for the duration of the war and for six months thereafter. The order permitted the carriers to establish the increases by simplified forms of tariff publication, and to place them in effect on 10 days' notice, but not later than May 15. Railroad spokesmen could not say tonight exactly when the rates would become effective.

"A rate increase of 10 per cent," said the commission, "applied to the present increased traffic and that which is reasonably in prospect would yield a larger amount than is necessary to meet the avowed purposes of the increase sought [to meet the higher wages]. But a smaller increase is justified.

"We have already permitted an increase in passenger fares. It is just and reasonable in order that the railways may continue to give the efficient service which is indispensable to our national defense that the body of freight rates and charges, except those specifically excepted, shall be increased."

275 Million Gain Possible.

ICC experts estimated that if passenger business increases 10 per cent in volume in 1942, as some rail officials expect, the higher fares will bring in nearly 50 million dollars. A similar increase in freight traffic would bring the freight revenue increases to about 225 million dollars, or an aggregate of about 275 millions a year on both types of service.

"It is clear," said the commission, "that the need for increased earnings which the petitioners predicated upon the traffic volume of 1941 is subject to some discount on account of the prospect for a further growth in traffic and the consequent greater net earnings in 1942."

DISAPPOINTS OFFICIALS

Officials of western railroads last night expressed disappointment over the Interstate Commerce commission's ruling on freight rate increases.

The roads were understood to be especially concerned over the fact that increases of only 3 per cent were granted on live stock and agricultural items on which the lines depend for a substantial part of their revenues. Some representatives said that apparently the lines in the industrial east will benefit more from the order than western carriers.

Carrier officials said the yield from the increases would fall short of the amount needed to pay the increased wage costs.

"It is difficult to tell what the yield will be," J. A. Farmar, chairman of the western traffic executives' committee, said. "The order is a disappointment generally, and particularly so because it sets the increase at 3 per cent on types of traffic that are important to western roads."

USE OF RUBBER IN CIVILIAN GOODS AGAIN CURTAILED

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—The War Production board revised its regulations restricting the use of crude rubber and latex for civilian commodities today, again curtailing the amount which may go into such items.

It left unchanged, however, the list of articles for which use of crude rubber is forbidden. This list includes rubber heels, bathing suits and caps, toys, novelties, and garden hose. These still may be made out of reclaimed rubber.

A WPB source said that even the use of reclaimed rubber probably would be restricted at some future date.

Week's Steel Output to Set Record, Institute Reports

New York, March 2 (AP).—The American Iron and Steel institute estimated today that steel mills would operate this week at 97.2 per cent of capacity and turn out 1,651,100 net tons of steel, the largest output in history. Such production would compare with the previous peak of 1,650,500 tons in the week of Oct. 27, 1941, when the rate under the capacity then existent was 99.9 per cent.

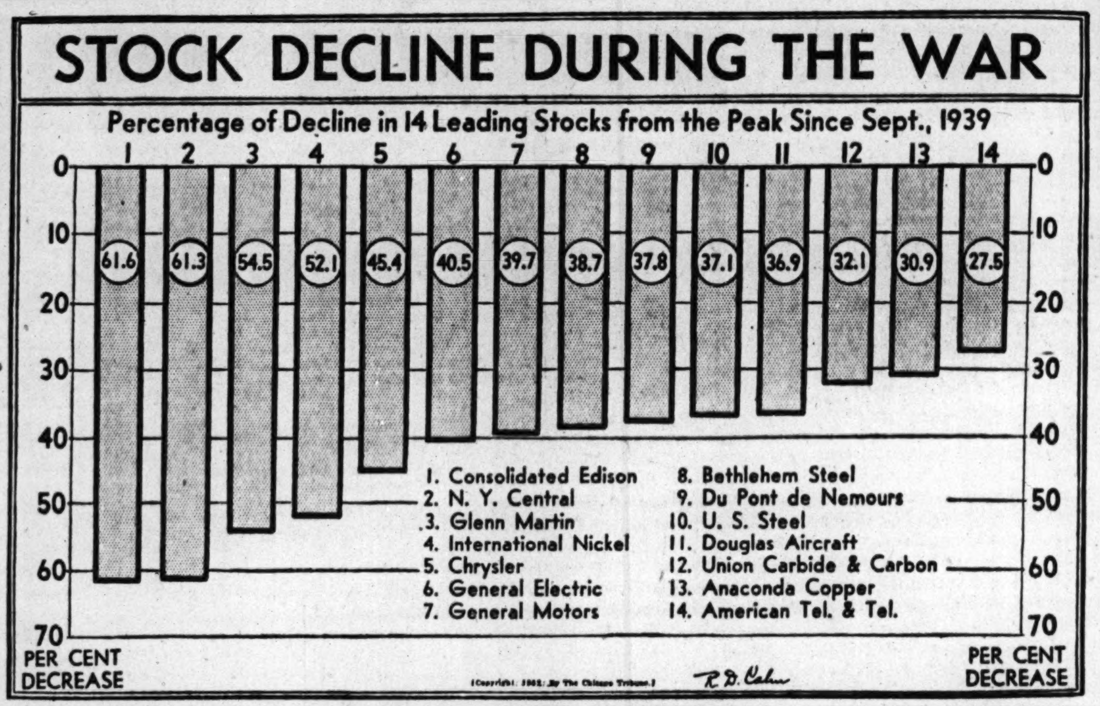
STOCK DECLINE DURING THE WAR



Percentage of Decline in 14 Leading Stocks from the Peak Since Sept., 1939

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

G. M. Dealers Given Chance to Unload Cars

Detroit, Mich., March 2 (AP).—Retail automobile dealers, dissatisfied with the Office of Price Administration rationing program and the consequent freezing of considerable capital, are to have an opportunity to liquidate a large part of their stocks on a not less than cost basis.

This became apparent today with disclosure that the five car divisions of General Motors corporation [Chevrolet, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, and Cadillac], were preparing to repurchase from their dealers any new cars the retailers had previously purchased from the factories and desire to turn back after April 1.

Others Expected to Act.

Similar action, it is understood in trade quarters, is contemplated by other car manufacturers.

The repurchasing plan became known today coincident with the start of the OPA rationing program.

It was to forestall possible wild bidding for these sales by dealers seeking to liquidate quickly that the repurchasing plan was primarily conceived. It was explained in trade circles also that it would relieve unbalanced inventories.

Under the plan as thus far developed, the factories would buy back the vehicles at the dealer's net cost, including transportation and an allowance of 1 per cent of the list price, or $15, whichever is lower, for each month the retailer has held the car.

Would Redistribute Cars.

The factories would redistribute the vehicles to other dealers desiring them.

Just how extensive the repurchasing might become was a subject of considerable speculation in trade circles. Approximately 480,000 passenger vehicles currently are in dealers' hands or in manufacturer-provided storage awaiting delivery. Of the total not more than 140,000 may be sold under the rationing program between now and May 31 and 135,000 must be held for release in 1943 or thereafter. All passenger car production was suspended Feb. 10 for the duration of the war.

DECLARE PLAN HELPFUL

A General Motors corporation plan to repurchase new 1942 automobiles previously sold to dealers was received favorably yesterday by Chicago automobile retailers. They viewed the offer as a way of reducing their financial burden of carrying frozen stocks of cars subject to strict rationing.

"The plan will be helpful," said Samuel B. Shapiro, general manager of the Chicago Automobile Trade association. "There are a number of dealers who probably will want to drop out of the automobile business in the next 30 or 60 days. Most of them now are undecided. They are exploring the fields that they might go into."

ARNOLD ASSAILS PRIVATE USE OF ANTI-TRUST LAW

Philadelphia, Pa., March 2 (AP).—Thurman Arnold, special assistant attorney general in charge of the government's anti-trust division, told the Third United States Circuit Court of Appeals today that "blackmail" and "chaos and disorder" will thwart the nation's war effort unless "anti-trust prosecutions be taken out of the hands of private citizens."

Arnold asked the court to throw out a $315,000 judgment which Morris L. Marcus, Pittsburgh lawyer, won for the government in a suit against 57 electrical contractors in western Pennsylvania. The defendants had pleaded no defense to charges of making false claims against the United States.

The judgment would be divided equally between Marcus and the government.

Arnold said such suits would hamper war production and added, "Never before have such possible sources or fountains of blackmail existed."

NAME 3 JUDGE COURT TO HEAR ALL APPEALS FROM PRICE CEILINGS

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone today designated the three member emergency court of appeals which will handle cases arising under the emergency price control act.

Fred M. Vinson, associate justice of the United States Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, will serve as chief justice. The others will be Judge Albert B. Maris of the 3d Circuit court at Philadelphia and Calvert Magruder of the 1st Circuit court at Boston.

Calvert Magruder (left) and Fred M. Vinson, two of the price judges.

The emergency court of appeals has sole jurisdiction to hear cases arising from complaints against price or rent regulations issued by Price Administrator Leon Henderson. It does not have jurisdiction over criminal cases or enforcement proceedings instituted by the Office of Price Administration to compel compliance with price orders.

The recently enacted price control act permits the filing of a protest against any price ceiling regulation within 60 days after issuance.

Court Outlaws Delegation of Subpena's Use

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Declaring that the power of subpena "is capable of oppressive use," the Supreme court outlawed today the practice of the federal wage-hour administrator in delegating to subordinates authority to require companies to produce records for inspection.

In two cases involving the Lowell [Mass.] Sun and the Cudahy Packing company of Lousiana, the court held that congress intended that the administrator should issue any such orders personally. The justice department, contending that this would be an unbearable burden, said the administration was issuing 6,000 subpenas a year.

The newspaper, in addition, had argued that application of the wage-hour law to newspapers violated the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press. The court did not pass on this question.

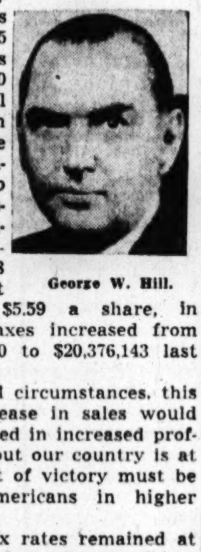
In another case the court upheld California legislation imposing a franchise tax based on a formula allocating to the state a percentage of the business done outside the state by a corporation. The decision applied specifically to Butler Brothers, which has headquarters in Chicago.

The court also ruled, 5 to 3, that tips given red caps for a period after the wage-hour law became effective could be considered part of the wages required by the legislation. The litigation applied specifically to red caps at Dallas, Tex., and Jacksonville, Fla.

DOUBLED TAXES TRIM AMERICAN TOBACCO PROFIT

Offset Big Increase in Year's Sales.

Sales of the American Tobacco company increased 51 million dollars last year to $336,938,665, but earnings dropped nearly 5 million dollars from the 1940 level as federal taxes more than doubled, George W. Hill, president, reported to stockholders yesterday. Net income was $23,883,860, equal to $4.58 a share, against $28,498,015, or $5.59 a share, in 1940. Federal taxes increased from $9,200,508 in 1940 to $20,376,143 last year.



George W. Hill.

"Under normal circumstances, this outstanding increase in sales would have been reflected in increased profits," Hill said, "but our country is at war and the cost of victory must be paid by all Americans in higher taxes."

Had federal tax rates remained at the 1940 level and not increased last year, the company would have earned $6.65 a share, Hill said.

Seeks Vote of Confidence.

Hill told stockholders he will ask for a "vote of confidence" at the company's annual meeting April 1. The management will ask approval of a change in by-laws to provide reimbursement of officers and directors for expenses in suits directed against them as company officials.

Hill and other officers were ordered by the New York Supreme court last fall to return $1,811,950 of the "incentive compensation" they had received under a bonus plan. After legal expenses the company expected to realize $651,482 on this settlement, according to the report.

The statement showed Hill earned $288,144 last year, including $168,144 of incentive compensation. In pursuance of the court order the company deducted $145,258. Earnings of all officers and directors totaled $1,365,968, including $553,726 of incentive compensation.

A proxy statement said the management "Does not intend to sponsor" a resolution expected to be

Price of Most Foods Subject to Some Kind of Federal Rule

The government, thru the Office of Price Administration and the department of agriculture, now controls the prices of most major food products, food experts said yesterday.

Last of the important divisions of the food industry came under government control Saturday when Price Administrator Leon Henderson set price ceilings for canned fruits and vegetables. He already had established ceiling prices on sugar, fats, and oils.

Act to Boost Some.

Wholesale prices of meats, cereals, dairy and poultry products are partly determined by the department of agriculture. Their general levels are affected by lend-lease purchases or by the ever normal granary and other price supporting programs.

In some cases the federal authorities are exercising their powers to hold prices up rather than down.

Wholesale food prices have reached the highest levels since 1929, according to the bureau of labor statistics, and are almost 30 per cent higher than a year ago.

Canned Foods at 10 Year Peak.

Food industry spokesmen said the new ceilings placed on canned goods came after most canned fruits and vegetables were selling at the highest prices in more than a decade. Under the ceilings set by the OPA, the approximate wholesale prices of the major fruits and vegetables in Chicago, according to the Independent Grocers' alliance, would be:

	Approx. ceiling, doz. cans.
Pork and beans, No. 2 can	$1.00
Green beans, No. 2 can	1.22
Corn, No. 2 can	1.10
Peas, No. 2 can	1.32
Pumpkin, No. 2 can	.88
Sauerkraut, No. 2 can	.96
Tomatoes, No. 2 can	1.32
Catsup, 14 ounce bottle	1.27
Tomato juice, 46 ounce can	1.98
Asparagus, No. 2 can	1.55
Lima beans, No. 2 can	1.00
Spinach, No. 2 can	1.25
Peaches, No 2½ can	2.31
Apricots, No. 2½ can	2.31
Fruit cocktail, No. 2½ can	2.60
Pears, No. 2½ can	2.37

So far the OPA has taken no action to control retail prices. It has issued warnings, however, particularly in the case of sugar. The ceilings on the prices of some of the basic food commodities have been sufficient to curb further advances at retail.

The levels at which the government is maintaining prices, or the current ceilings, and the prices at wholesale a year ago of some of the basic food commodities, follow:

	Ceiling or maintained price.	Year ago.
Sugar, cwt, New York	$5.45	$4.60
Butter, lb.	.34	.30
Lard, lb.	.1255	.0610
Eggs, doz.	.27	.16½
Wheat, bu.	1.32	.90
Corn, bu.	.84	.64½

In the last four or five days approximately 1 million dollars or more of government funds has been spent in Chicago alone to hold the wholesale price of butter at 34 cents a pound. The amount of butter owned by dairy products dealers is probably the largest on record, but the government wants to maintain prices at a level that will continue to stimulate milk production.

To hold meat prices around current levels, the department of agriculture has threatened to place ceilings on the various cuts of meat and has limited its lend-lease purchases.

Seek to Peg Butter

Government agents spent another $300,000 yesterday attempting to hold wholesale butter prices around 34 cents a pound in Chicago. The federally financed Dairy Products Marketing association bought 876,090 pounds of butter in Chicago and 85,554 pounds in New York.

Trade in futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange centered in the March storage standard butter contract with prices advancing .2 cent to 32.85 cents a pound. One hundred sixteen carlots were traded.

DEFENSE BOND SALES DECLINE FROM PEAK RECORDED IN JANUARY

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau announced today the public had purchased $703,200,000 of defense bonds in February, compared with a record breaking $1,060,547,000 in January.

He explained, however, that January sales included large amounts sold to people who bought their entire quota for 1942. No one may buy more than $5,000 of series E bonds or more than $50,000 of series F and G in one year.

SMALLER FIRMS TO BE HEARD IN WAR COUNCILS

Virkus in Ordnance Advisory Group.

The Chicago ordnance district moved yesterday to give small business a full voice in the councils of war production.

Col. Donald Armstrong, district deputy chief, announced that Frederick A. Virkus, president of the Illinois division of the National Small Business Men's association, has been named to represent small business on the ordnance district's advisory board.

At the same time, Col. Armstrong disclosed that ordnance contracts are being awarded in the Chicago district at the rate of 90 million dollars a week, many of them going to small firms with as few as six employés. He emphasized that the little shops will play an increasingly important part in making weapons for the army.

May Get Full Time Job.

Virkus has agreed at present to serve on a part time basis, but Col. Armstrong indicated he will be offered a full time, permanent assignment on the district's staff which will require relinguishing his present business connections. Virkus is president of Virkus company, Chicago publisher of genealogical books.

Small business men who desire ordnance contracts and have suitable facilities will be able to consult Virkus in the district's office in the First National Bank building, Col. Armstrong said. Ordnance engineers

PROVIDENT MUTUAL
IN A WORLD AT WAR

TODAY, business institutions are no longer judged solely by the old standards of gains and losses. Instead, they are judged largely by what they are doing in the world struggle to preserve human freedom.

During the first World War, during the inflationary period of the twenties, and during the depression of the thirties, life insurance exerted a powerful influence in stabilizing the national economy and providing security for the individual. It is playing an equally vital role today.

By providing economic security for the American home, it makes an outstanding contribution to American Morale. With more than one billion dollars of life insurance in force, PROVIDENT MUTUAL makes it possible for many thousands of men and women throughout the land to do their work more efficiently—confident of the future.

Another vital contribution is that many people, who otherwise might be dependent, are regularly receiving life insurance checks. During 1941 Provident Mutual paid policy owners and beneficiaries more than twenty-six million dollars.

LIFE INSURANCE DOLLARS ARE BUSY DOLLARS

Life insurance dollars are not idle—they are continuously being plowed back into essential American industries and efforts. Of Provident Mutual's four hundred million dollars of resources, nearly 20% are invested directly in United States Government securities; 43% in bonds and stocks of the country's basic industries; and 22% in real estate and mortgages.

There are many ways in which you can help America in these trying times. One is to see that, so far as possible, your own family has ample security against emergency. Life insurance enables you not only to accomplish this objective but also to perform your necessary duties with a freer, surer mind.

Security management that is keyed to present-day conditions

The efficient management of securities not only requires a constant vigilance which few owners have the time to provide, but broad fact-finding facilities necessary to maintain that vigilance which are at the disposal of few individuals. For these reasons many people have turned to a Northern Trust Agency Arrangement.

An Agency Agreement offers services ranging from the task of safe-keeping, and cutting coupons, to the payment of taxes and personal bills. It frees you to whatever extent you may desire from the routine duties surrounding the management of your securities.

These are duties you yourself can fulfill, but which you may wish to delegate to our experienced hands. You retain full control under a Northern Trust Agency Agreement since title and registration remain unchanged.

A Northern Trust Agency account will provide the systematic and personalized care of your securities they require. The cost is moderate. You are invited to write or call our Trust Department today for the descriptive booklet, "The Care and Custody of Your Securities."

STOCKS RETREAT UNDER PRESSURE OF LIGHT SELLING

Continued Adverse War News Is Blamed.

New York, March 2 (AP).—The stock market negotiated an orderly retreat today in the face of somewhat cloudier war news.

The list developed a slightly easier tone at the start and, around midday, losses for leaders ran to a point or more. There were scattered recoveries in the concluding hour, but most were feeble.

The one encouraging feature of the session was that liquidation never was urgent and price declines in many instances were attributed more to lack of bids than to pressure of offerings.

Index Falls .3 Point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks finished with a net drop of .3 of a point at 36.7, widest dip since Feb. 17. Transfers amounted to 325,305 shares compared with 362,840 last Friday.

Drying up of demand was blamed mainly on the critical position of the united nations in Java, the threatened loss of Burma to the invading Japanese, and further ship sinkings in the Atlantic.

Many potential buyers of shares inclined to stand aside pending the treasury's forthcoming tax program and the handing down of the long awaited decision on increased freight rates, announced after the close.

Socony-Vacuum slipped to a new low for the last year or so and Standard Brands edged to record low territory.

Goodyear, J. I. Case, and Woolworth were among the few issues to register modest gains.

CHICAGO LIST WEAK.

Prices tended lower on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday. Of 88 issues traded, 17 advanced, 47 declined, and 24 closed unchanged. Transactions totaled 12,000 shares.

Commonwealth Edison was the volume leader, declining ¼ to 20⅝ in transactions of 1,900 shares. Chicago corporation and Midland United preferred, other active stocks, closed unchanged. In the half hour after the close in New York Commonwealth Edison and New York Central advanced ⅛.

BANKS INCREASE FEDERAL BOND HOLDINGS AGAIN

HINT ALLEGHANY STOCKS MAY BE GIVEN UP BY BALL

New York, March 2 [Special].—Wall street sources predicted today that approximately 45 per cent of the voting control of the Alleghany corporation common and preferred stock, which carries about 26 per cent voting control of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway common stock, again will be held by Robert R. Young, Allan P. Kirby, and the Seaboard Company, Ltd., thru settlement of the 8 million dollar law suits brought against George A. Ball.

Settlement was announced last week, but details have not been disclosed. Reports indicate that the Ball interests may relinquish their entire holdings of about 1,310,000 shares, or about 30 per cent of the Alleghany common outstanding. A substantial part of the 50,000 shares of preferred stock held in the Ball family also is expected to be relinquished.

The final agreement, when reached, will climax a controversy that has been going on almost from the date of the original sale of Alleghany control by the Ball interests to the Young-Kirby syndicate in 1937.

19 FIRMS PICKED FOR SEMI-ANNUAL SAFETY AWARDS

Nineteen companies whose employés worked more than 35 million man-hours during the last half of 1941 with only 173 accidents have been named winners in the 26th semiannual interplant accident prevention contest sponsored by the Greater Chicago Safety council, C. S. Craigmile, council president announced yesterday.

The rate of 7.6 accidents per million man-hours worked during the period was the same as during the first six months of the year. Of the 149 plants enrolled in the contest, 28 lost no time thru accidents.

Awards to the winners will be made at the closing session of the 20th annual Midwest Safety conference in the Hotel Sherman on May 7.

SEE LITTLE HOPE OF WILD RUBBER SUPPLYING NEED

Federal Experts Term It Costly Method.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Department of agriculture officials who testified before the house appropriations committee during hearings on the department's 1943 appropriation bill held little hope for speedily augmenting the nation's rubber supply from domestic and Central and South American sources.

They said they hoped intensive efforts with wild rubber in Central and South America would produce up to 70,000 tons of rubber annually by careful planning and proper financing. But, they said, this would require 18 or 20 months, and the price would be higher than the present New York price for crude rubber.

Termed a Reserve Source.

Dr. Elmer W. Brandes, rubber expert of the bureau of plant industry, in testimony made public today as the department's appropriation bill was introduced in the house, said wild rubber constituted a considerable reserve and that investigations over the last 18 months had led to the conclusion as to the maximum production to be expected.

Brandes said synthetic rubber was "definitely one of the sources of rubber that will have to be turned to." He added that for must purposes synthetic rubber had to be mixed or blended with natural rubber.

Calls Nazis "Frantic."

The witness said Germany was "absolutely frantic for natural rubber" to mix with synthetic rubber and that the Nazis were not yet wholly on a synthetic rubber basis.

Brandes and other officials of the bureau testified the plan to plant guayule to produce rubber eventually would add to the nation's rubber supply, but said it would require from two to five years to get that project into production. They said that last year only about 500 tons of guayule rubber was produced in this country.

Brandes said that rubber produced in the Amazon valley now amounted to about 14,000 tons a year and he believed this could be increased five times.

THREAT OF CURB FAILS TO CHECK HOG PRICE CLIMB

Despite the federal threat of a price ceiling on pork products in wholesale channels "any day now," unless farmers ship more hogs to market and accept lower prices, the market for hogs ruled strong to 10 cents higher yesterday. The general level of prices was second highest for March since 1920. Gains ranging up to 50 cents a hundred pounds were registered in fresh pork cuts.

Packers paid an average of $12.95 a hundred pounds for the day's supply of hogs, 5 cents over last week's close and within 5 cents of the peak of two weeks ago. The loads were steady at $13.20, but all "lard hogs" showed gains of 5 to 10 cents.

A limited supply of choice steers and yearlings sold at 10 to 15 cents advance, but other cattle sold steady to 15 cents lower.

Handyweight lambs sold steady to weak, while heavy kinds declined 10 to 20 cents.

DEFENSE HOMES GAIN, BUT OTHER TYPES DECLINE

Building of all types in Chicago last month was less in both number of projects and cost than in January, and was also below the February, 1941, totals. Building commissioner Richard Schmidt reported yesterday that 255 permits were issued last month for buildings costing $1,961,585, against 262 permits for structures valued at $2,179,080 in February, 1941. The January, 1942, volume of 351 permits and $5,065,040 in valuation was boosted by a $2,500,000 federal project.

Altho February home building declined in both number and cost as compared with January, single family dwellings in the "defense home" bracket of $6,000 or less for house and lot, increased. Permits were issued for 167 "defense" homes costing $735,550, against 105 costing $472,750 in January.

Illinois Central Starts Drive to Produce More Scrap

The Illinois Central railroad has started a systematic campaign to collect scrap iron and steel over its system, officials announced yesterday. They said that in the three year period from 1939 to 1941 Illinois Central accumulated and disposed of 281,119 tons of iron and steel scrap and 1,072 tons of nonferrous scrap materials.

High Grade Wheat Is Shipped East for Live Stock Feeding

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

The Commodity Credit corporation has ordered approximately 400,000 bushels of its wheat shipped from Chicago to the east in the last few days, grain elevator operators disclosed yesterday. The wheat has been sold for feed purposes. Delivered in New York, it is priced to eastern buyers at about 97¾ cents a bushel.

The elevator men say that most of the government owned wheat being shipped east is of the No. 2 hard grade, the kind generally used by mills for making flour. Wheat of this same grade was quoted in the open market on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday at $1.44½ a bushel, delivered New York, dealers said.

Priced Below Cost of Corn.

Altogether the elevator operators expect to ship around 2 million bushels of the high grade wheat for feed purposes in the east. The cash grain men reported the price of the government wheat compared with 98½ cents a bushel for its corn. They said for ¾ cent more, the eastern buyer got only 56 pounds of corn against 60 pounds of wheat.

After selling off from one to two cents a bushel early in the session, grain and soy bean futures rallied toward the close but prices remained fractionally below Saturday's closing levels. Washington reports on the progress of farm legislation before congress appeared to be the dominating factors in the trend of the markets, pit brokers said.

Wheat finished ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower with May contracts at $1.28⅝ a bushel. Corn was down ⅛ to ¼ cent; oats, ¼ to ½ cent; rye, ¼ to ½ cent, and soy beans, ⅛ to ¾ cent a bushel. Lard prices declined 5 to 10 cents per hundredweight.

The grain prices were at the lowest levels in more than three weeks. Traders said liquidation was particularly noticeable in the rye pit. Weakness in soy beans was attributed to the easiness of the meal market recently and the limitations on bean oil prices.

Traders noted Canadian reports that the United States is seeking assurance that the dominion's yield of such grains as oats, barley, and rye will be adequate for the United States live stock industry, and a report by the Santa Fe railroad that wheat prospects in Kansas and Oklahoma are highly favorable.

Extend Grain Loans

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Agriculture department today authorized extension of 1941 loans on wheat, rye, and barley stored on farms and in good condition for 12 months from the current maturity date of April 30 except in certain eastern and southern areas to be designated later.

The department said loans on wheat defined as "excess" under marketing quota provisions, whether stored on farms or in approved warehouses, also may be extended until the new date.

START CONGRESS BATTLE TO KILL QUOTAS ON SUGAR

Florida Group Hits Big Benefit Fund.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Florida congressmen led a new movement today to eliminate the sugar marketing quota system.

Encouraged by an appropriations committee report critical of the government's efforts to continue the sugar control and benefit arrangement, Rep. Joe Hendricks [D., Fla.] offered a proposal to deduct $500,000 of a requested $794,000 fund for administrative expenses of the sugar quotas in the year beginning July 1. The cut was upheld by the committee.

Rep. J. Hardin Peterson [D., Fla.] said that when the agriculture appropriation bill came up for consideration by the house later this week "further and more stringent" sugar amendments would be offered.

Committee Asks Suspension.

He said one probably would be a proposal to deny to the agriculture department any authority to spend money for the operation of a sugar quota system. That, in effect, would eliminate government control over production of marketing of sugar.

Earlier, the appropriations committee declared that the sugar act of 1937, which provides for marketing quotas and benefit payments to producers, should be suspended. However, it provided $47,462,910 for administration of the sugar act during the year beginning July 1.

The committee explained in its report that it would have eliminated the item except that congress only recently voted to extend the life of the sugar act.

All Curbs Are Removed.

"The hearings disclosed," said the committee, "there is in prospect a very pronounced shortage of sugar and that acreage and quota restrictions have been removed. The committee can see no sound reason for the continuance of this program of benefit payments to growers who are free to produce without restriction for a market in which the demand is certain to be substantially in excess of the supply for some time to come.

"The committee believes the legislation should be suspended under present conditions. Under these conditions, price fixing legislation recently enacted may be so administered as to assure fair prices for sugar producers."

Calls Payment Bonus.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard, told the committee that continuance of benefits would encourage production now.

He pointed out that all production limits had been taken off and growers were being urged to step up their yields of beets and cane.

"Then what is the purpose of one-half cent a pound tax on sugar, for the purpose of paying benefits to sugar producers if they are not required to limit their sugar production?" asked Rep. Malcolm C, Tarver [D., Ga.]

"They are not limited this year," Wickard replied. "That payment is more or less of a benefit payment to increase production."

WAR PRICE RISE GIVES FSA COMMUNAL FARM PROJECT NET PROFIT

Coolidge, Ariz., March 2 (AP).—The federal government's $600,000 experiment in human rehabilitation and coöperative farming paid cash dividends in 1941.

Handicapped in its first three years by drouth and a shortage of irrigation water, Casa Grande Farms, Inc., has switched from farm crops to live stock and is making what Manager R. E. Beatty says is "amazing progress."

The wartime lift in prices was an important factor in raising the average income of the project's 60 families in 1941 to more than $1,200, the ultimate goal set by the Farm Security administration when it founded the corporation in 1938. Housing was furnished to each family for $10 a month.

The FSA, in its annual report today, said that net profits in 1941 amounted to $432.75 per member family. In addition, each family received a fixed salary of $65 a month. Earnings in 1941 were sufficient to pay $5,000 interest on operating capital and farm rental of $22,847, the FSA reported.

URGES RETENTION OF TWO SOY BEAN RESEARCH UNITS

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Combination of the regional Soy Bean Industrial Products laboratories at Urbana and Peoria, Ill., would not be feasible, an agriculture department official told the house appropriations committee in testimony made public today.

Dr. James T. Jardine, chief of the Office of Experiment Stations, said that combination of the laboratories would require provision of new facilities.

"At Urbana," he said, "we are working on the industrial utilization of soy beans, but in connection with the industrial uses work there is a unit carrying on agronomic work to discover and develop varieties best suited to meet industrial requirements."

The chemical phases of the Urbana laboratory work could be carried on at the Peoria plant but the agronomic phases could not, Jardine said.

AM. COLORTYPE LEASES FORMER BASTIAN PLANT

The American Colortype company yesterday leased the four story and basement building at the northwest corner of Fairbanks court and East Ontario street, containing 98,000 square feet of floor space, for 3½ years at a rental understood to be about $30,000 annually. The building is owned by the estate of C. L. Bastian.

It was occupied for several years by the Bastian-Blessing company, which moved last fall to its new half million dollar plant on a 13 acre site at the southwest corner of Peterson and Rogers avenues. The American Colortype company will continue to occupy its main plant at 1151 Roscoe street. Several smaller units are being merged in the plant leased and about 500 persons will be employed there.

Republic Builds Gun Plant

Republic Steel corporation, Cleveland, O., disclosed yesterday that it is at work on a large gun bloom forging plant and that the government has authorized it to operate a rough turned and bored gun forging factory.

These developments and others were outlined by Tom M. Girdler, chairman, in the company's annual report, in which Girdler declared that industry and the people must demonstrate that a democracy can unite its efforts.

"Axis leaders have taunted Great Britain and America as to the inability and ineffectiveness of democratic nations to unify their efforts for successful prosecution of a great war," Girdler said.

Must Prove Superiority.

"Now it is our great responsibility to demonstrate the superiority of a free people and to prove that in time of national peril we can forget all individual or group differences and display a united power not possible in a nation dominated by autocratic government."

Because of the war, the company did not state any details concerning the new projects.

Other war production activities were outlined by Girdler. He said facilities now under order will greatly increase the company's electric furnace steel capacity. Production of forging steels for aircraft engine parts will be increased by additional capacity now being provided. The company is producing light armor plate for aircraft and land vehicles, including tanks and trucks.

Boosts Output of Plates.

Republic's steel and tubes division has developed and put into commercial operation a welded alloy steel tubing process for use in airplane construction. One subsidiary is producing steel barracks and airplane hangars. Output of steel plate for shipbuilding has been increased. Much of the company's bar output is being used for making shells.

Girdler said Republic operated its ingot facilities at 99½ per cent of capacity last year, compared with 78 per cent in 1940. Profit last year, as previously reported, was $24,038,339, against $21,113,507 in 1940.

SMALLER FIRMS GET VOICE IN WAR OUTPUT COUNCILS

Virkus Put on Ordnance Advisory Board.

will assist manufacturers in selecting the kinds of war jobs they could perform efficiently and will advise them on production methods.

"The large industries are saturated with contracts and can take no more for the present," Virkus told reporters in the district headquarters. "Now is the time for small business men to get in. And they now can get in with the War Production board, the army and the navy and every procurement agency eager to help them.

Chance Long Waited For.

"Here is the opportunity small business has been waiting for. The government isn't something to be afraid of. The government wants to help."

Virkus was one of the early champions of small enterprise. Last summer he had conducted thru the Illinois group of small business men a survey of what effect government restrictions on the use of vital materials would have on the nation's small factories and shops. He appeared several times before various congressional committees to present his views. He proposed persistently that a separate voice for small business be created in the management of the war program.

Describing the rôle of small plants in the accomplishment of the nation's war aims, he said:

"The time is now here when voluntary scheduling of machine facilities must be supplemented by a more thoro method, and we can no longer waste time on halfway measures. This is a rush order.

"Every ounce of our industrial power must get into the war effort, whether it is a plant employing thousands or a plant employing a dozen hands. Every plant that can possibly be harnessed into war production must be harnessed whether it likes it or not, just as any citizen has to go into the army whether he likes it or not."

Small Firms Share Orders.

Col. Armstrong emphasized that numerous small companies, including fountain pen manufacturers, are being awarded ordnance contracts. He said that at least 12 concerns with 100 or less employés had received orders last week. The total of ordnance contracts let in the district now exceeds 1 billion 400 million dollars, he said. Among larger companies, he said, four in this area are making complete tanks. Many others are making such heavy ordnance as guns, gun carriages, and anti-aircraft equipment.

Other members of the advisory board include Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, chairman of the City National Bank and Trust company; Brig. Gen. Robert E. Wood, former board chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co.; Col. William W. Coleman, president of Bucyrus-Erie company, and Frank R. Bacon, president of Cutler-Hammer, Inc.

ASSEMBLY LINE METHOD APPLIED TO SHIPBUILDING

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Mills which formerly turned out sheet steel for automobile bodies will make ship plates under a plan announced today by C. E. Adams, chief of the iron and steel branch of the War Production board. This in effect "applies assembly line methods to the shipbuilding program," he said.

Eighty to 90 per cent of the steel going into "Liberty" ships hereafter will come from converted continuous strip mills, Adams predicted, instead of the 10 per cent they have supplied in the past. He added that this was expected to relieve the most serious bottleneck in the ship construction program.

Under the plan a mill will deliver plates of a single size to a number of shipyards and will not need to interrupt production to shift equipment from one size plate to another.

CORSON PREDICTS A CRISIS IN WAR LABOR BY JULY 1

Kansas City, Mo., March 2 (AP).—John C. Corson, director of the federal employment service, visualized today a war labor supply emergency by July 1.

Addressing a nine state meeting of employment service office heads, he estimated that war industries the next year will need 10,500,000 workers "over and above those now employed."

"If we're not to be the ones responsible for handicapping the war effort," he declared, "we must find ways of obtaining enough recruits to supply employers' demands."

He said he believed 7,500,000 of the new workers would come from industries converted to war production and the other 3 million would comprise women, high school students, and elderly persons.

Schlake Says War Makes Sales Forecast Impossible

William Schlake, president of the Illinois Brick company, told stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday that the confused situation in the building industry resulting from the war makes it impossible to gauge the outlook for sales of the company's products. The stockholders reëlected three directors whose terms had expired. Election of officers was postponed to March 25.

EQUITABLE LIFE PAYS $23,918 OF BENEFITS HOURLY

1941 Total Tops 209 Million Dollars.

Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States said yesterday in its annual report to policyholders that benefit payments to owners of policies and their beneficiaries averaged $23,918 for every hour of 1941. The payments totaled $209,526,000 for the year.

Thomas I. Parkinson, president, announced that benefit payments under death claims amounted to $72,978,000 and payments to living policyholders in the form of annuities, matured endowments, disability payments, dividends, cash values and accident, sickness, hospital expense and surgical benefits totaled $136,548,000.

Total 4 Million Over 1940.

The payments to beneficiaries represented an increase of $1,336,000 over the amount reported for 1940, and the amount paid to living policyholders was up $2,758,000.

Parkinson said that the society has paid out more than 4 billion 801 million dollars in its 82 years' existence.

Deaths from influenza and pneumonia dropped to a new low level and the mortality record improved generally as compared with 1940, altho the death rate from automobile accidents increased, Parkinson reported.

Lapses Lowest on Record.

Policy lapses and surrenders declined to 2.8 per cent, the lowest in the company's history.

"The society had $407,120,000 invested in United States government securities at the end of 1941," Parkinson said. "That was a net increase of 184½ million dollars during 1941. Between the attack on Pearl Harbor and the year-end, the society acquired 88½ million dollars of treasury bonds. The society recognizes an obligation to direct a large part of its funds into United States government securities to provide the sinews of war."

FINANCE TANKER FLEET THRU BIG EQUIPMENT ISSUE

New York, March 2 [Special].—The Consolidated Oil corporation was reported today to have sold to a group of banks and life insurance companies an 18 million dollar marine equipment issue.

Proceeds will be used to pay for a fleet of tankers, all except two of which have been delivered. The cost of the tankers is estimated at $22,400,000. Use of an equipment issue of this type is common among the railroads, but rare in the marine field.

The financing was arranged thru Kuhn, Loeb & Co. The notes are due serially in one to 15 years.

LOCAL COLLECTORS GIVEN AUTHORITY TO DELAY TAX RETURNS

Local internal revenue collectors under a ruling received yesterday from the commissioner of internal revenue are permitted to grant taxpayers time extensions up to 60 days for filing their income tax returns. The order materially modifies an earlier ruling depriving the local commissioners of this authority and requiring that all special cases be referred to Washington for decision.

Corporate accounting executives, the Controlers institute and the American Institute of Accountants had protested the earlier order, claiming it was often impossible for large corporations to file accurate returns by March 15, especially in view of the depletion of accounting staffs by the draft and the increased complexities of returns resulting from the excess profits tax.

Altho accountants had hoped for the rescinding of the earlier order and the restoration of the right of collectors to permit extensions of three to six months, the new ruling is regarded as going a long way toward meeting their problems.

The accountants construed the order to mean that in special cases such as those of corporations with foreign properties, further extensions can be allowed only by Washington officials.

FEDERAL BONDS RISE ON SHIFT IN TAX PROCEDURE

New York, March 2 (AP)—United States government bond prices advanced today in fair volume in over the counter trading. Taxable treasury issues were up around ⅛ of a point while tax exempt governments rose ¼ to ½ point, a fairly wide swing for these issues.

The gains were based on a report that the treasury had shelved a technical change in revenue laws which would have added to bookkeeping and possibly to income tares of banks and other government bond holders.

The plan laid aside would have made it impossible for the bond owner to charge against taxable income the expenses of obtaining nontaxable bonds, an analyst explained. Instead, these expenses would have to be balanced against the tax exempt income.

Corporate bond price changes in the stock exchange market held generally to a point either way, altho a few relatively inactive issues varied more.

Volume of Bank Checks Dips, but Tops Year Ago

Debits to deposit accounts in banks in 274 cities in the five business days of the deek ended Feb. 25 totaled 9 billion 844 million dollars, compared with 10 billion 615 millions in the preceding week and 8 billion 785 millions in the corresponding 1941 period, the federal reserve board reported yesterday.

JOB INSURANCE COVERAGE FOR ILLNESS URGED

Board Report Says Time Ripe for Expansion.

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—The Social Security board recommended today an expansion of the federal insurance program to provide compensation for wage losses due to illness and urged also that "a beginning be made" on a program of assuring adequate medical care for all persons.

In its annual report to congress, transmitted by Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt, the board said it believed federal insurance against wage losses due to permanent or temporary disability "is now feasible."

"A wage earner who is out of work because he is sick," the board observed, "is not entitled to an unemployment benefit even tho his past work and earnings would have qualified him for benefits if he were well and available for a job.

Gets No Insurance Aid.

"The man disabled in younger years, unless by occupational injury or disease covered by a state workmen's compensation law, has no recourse to social insurance, tho his family responsibilities may be at their height. If his disability is long standing, any protection he may have earned for his old age or for his dependents in the form of survivors' insurance is likely to lapse."

The board said legislation also should be enacted to protect workers entering the armed forces against loss of their federal insurance protection.

One method, it said, might be to "freeze" their insurance status on the date of their induction into service. But a more satisfactory method, the board added, might be to extend the insurance system "to include employment with the armed forces" provided "coördination would be effected with programs set up for persons in the regular armed forces and with the special programs for veterans' benefits."

Other Safeguards Asked.

The board directed attention also to what it described as "the need of safeguarding the insurance rights of persons who take civil defense jobs with the federal government." The federal old-age and survivors insurance system does not cover government employment.

Moreover, the agency said, "the coverage of employés of the federal government is particularly urgent."

PENN. ELECTRIC BOND AND STOCK ISSUES AWARDED

Public Offering Reported Likely Tomorrow.

Pennsylvania Electric company's new issues of $32,500,000 in bonds and 34,000 shares of preferred stock were awarded yesterday in competitive bidding to an underwriting syndicate headed by the Mellon Securities corporation.

The Mellon group bid 102.3177 for the 3¾ per cent bonds and 100.3789 for the stock at an annual dividend rate of 5.10 per cent. Offering of the securities is expected tomorrow, with the bonds priced at 103½ and the preferred stock at 103¾, if the issues are cleared in time by the Securities and Exchange commission. Life insurance companies were reported to be large prospective buyers of the bonds.

Will Pay Bank Loans.

Pennsylvania Electric will use the proceeds partly to redeem long term bonds and bank loans as well as to acquire additional properties.

Offering of 15 million dollars of 10 year, 4 per cent debentures of Schenley Distillers corporation also is expected tomorrow by a banking group headed by Mellon Securities.

The North American company announced that its directors had voted to call for redemption 3 million dollars of the company's 4 per cent debentures on April 4. The debentures, which are due in 1959, will be called at 103¼ and accrued interest. It will reduce the company's debt to $46,476,000.

Detroit Refunding Revived.

Postponed plans by the city of Detroit to refund more than 28 million dollars of general obligation bonds have been revived. Sale of refunding bonds will be held late this month or early in April, it was indicated.

The operation had been planned for late January, but was delayed 30 days by a technicality in a new Michigan law. Meanwhile, treasury department proposals to tax income from municipal bonds had disturbed the market and city officials did not attempt to sell the securities when the waiting period ended.

JANUARY PROFIT OF RAILS PLACED AT 25.7 MILLION

The aggregate net income of class one railroads for January was estimated at $25,700,000, against $19,700,000 for January, 1941, the Association of American Railroads reported yesterday. Net operating income for the month totaled $68,966,000 compared with $62,017,000 for the corresponding 1941 period.

Of a $103,000,000 gain in gross revenues over January, 1941, $96,000,000 was absorbed by a 29.7 rise in operating expenses and a 42.7 per cent increase in taxes, the association reported.

TRADE IN.

In 1941 I traded in a truck I had been using in my contracting business for a new truck. Should I compute a gain or loss on this transaction in reporting my income?—H. B. J.

Answer: In any trading in of property used in your business no gain or loss is recognized for income tax purposes if the new property acquired is of a similar character and is to be used for the same purpose. If, however, the trade in allowance actually is less than the depreciated cost of the old property, you could claim a loss by first selling the old property for cash to establish the loss and purchasing the new property as a separate transaction.

REPORTING DIVIDENDS.

In the regular form 1040, which I am using to report my 1941 income, I notice that the line for entering dividends received provides only for the total amount. Would you advise attaching a separate list of the dividends I received to the form?—V. K. H.

Answer: It is advisable to attach and file with your return a complete list of the dividends you received. The list should show the paying corporations and the amount from each. If you claim that certain dividends are nontaxable, you should state that fact.

WHY 1913?

In your discussion of dividends in the income tax series you mention that dividends are taxable if distributed from current earnings or profits accumulated after Feb. 28, 1913. Why is the latter date chosen?—A. C.

Answer: The 16th amendment to the constitution, providing for federal income taxes, was ratified Feb. 25, 1913. The tariff act of Oct. 3, 1913, contained income tax provisions but specified only income earned after Feb. 28, 1913, would be subject to tax.

CONTRIBUTION RECORDS.

What are considered proper records of contributions paid? I wish to make certain of proving my claim for deductions in the event they are questioned.—F. O. V.

Answer: Canceled checks, receipts, and correspondence are among the effective proofs of contributions paid.

AMENDED RETURN.

In 1940 I inadvertently claimed an inproper deduction in my income tax return. This item was never questioned by the authorities but I wish to correct it and pay whatever additional tax is due. Shall I correct it on my 1941 return?—L. L. H.

Answer: You should file an amended return for the year 1940.

WHEN YOU CAN HAVE MORE, WHY TAKE LESS? $

Is your advertising inferior to today's opportunities?

Is your advertising strong enough to produce your full share of Chicago's buying today? With the Tribune as your basic medium, you get the full-market-coverage you need to produce response from every neighborhood and suburb.

Daily and Sunday, the Tribune delivers in excess of 1,000,000 total net paid circulation. This is 530,000 more total circulation on weekdays than any other Chicago newspaper delivers—and more than any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined. On Sundays, the Tribune has 290,000 more than the second Chicago Sunday newspaper delivers and 785,000 more than the third Sunday newspaper.

Right in metropolitan Chicago, the Tribune on weekdays has 375,000 more circulation than the next Chicago daily newspaper. On Sundays, the Tribune delivers 360,000 more circulation in Chicago and suburbs than the second Chicago Sunday newspaper delivers and 450,000 more than the third Sunday newspaper.

The Tribune is the only newspaper with circulation volume equivalent to majority coverage of all the families in metropolitan Chicago. Chicago's buying power today invites intensive selling. You dig deepest into your potential when you make the Tribune your basic medium. Rates per 100,000 circulation are among the lowest in America.

When you can have more, why take less?

Chicago is too big to be passed up with half measures in selling. Every day you do without the Tribune's market-wide coverage, you pass up sales here which easily might be yours.

January average net paid total circulation: Daily, over 1,000,000—Sunday, over 1,200,000

—on weekdays, 530,000 more than delivered by the next Chicago daily newspaper and more than any two other Chicago daily newspapers combined.

—on Sundays, 290,000 more than delivered by the second Chicago Sunday newspaper and 785,000 more than the third Chicago Sunday newspaper.

offered at the meeting that would limit sharply the opportunities for incentive compensation.

Belden Profits Set Record.

Profits, billings, and pay rolls of the Belden Manufacturing company, Chicago producer of insulated copper wire and other electrical items, were larger last year than ever before in its 40 year history, the company's annual report showed.

Earnings rose to $641,405, equal to $2.65 a share, from $373,127, or $1.54 a share, in 1940. Provision for taxes increased to $1,103,264, more than three times the 1940 bill of $281,070, federal taxes alone accounting for $910,000 of the total.

Whipple Jacobs, president, and Hopewell L. Rogers, chairman, announced net billings totaled $10,044,422, against $6,254,659 in 1940. Pay rolls increased to $2,292,234, from $1,673,458. A major portion of the company's output is devoted to the war, the officials said.

Auto-Lite Profits Fall.

Electric Auto-Lite company, Toledo, O., manufacturer of automotive parts and arms items, disclosed that higher taxes and increased wages reduced its 1941 net earnings to $5,866,211, equal to $4.90 a share, from $6,001,718, or $5.01 a share, in 1940.

United Gas corporation, New York, announced 1941 earnings of $6,449,118, against $5,519,599 in 1940. The company produces natural gas and oil and operates extensive pipe lines.

Illinois-Iowa Power company, Monticello, Ill., reported its 1941 earnings were $2,906,439, against $2,273,754 in 1940. President Allen Van Wyck said the increase was recorded despite the fact electric and gas rates were at the lowest levels in the company's history and wages, taxes, and depreciation reserves were at the highest levels.

Electric Storage Battery company, Philadelphia, announced 1941 earnings of $3,312,413, equal to $3.64 a common share, compared with $2,167,592, or $2.38 a share, in 1940. Sales totaled $47,553,169, against $33,151,906 in the preceding year.

Postal Has Another Loss.

Postal Telegraph, Inc., reporting to the Federal Communications commission, announced a 1941 net loss of $3,037,900, compared with a loss of $3,024,572 in 1940.

Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing company, Columbus, O., announced its 1941 earnings were $4,534,097, equal to $4.72 a share, after providing $5,550,000 for federal income and excess profits taxes. The 1940 earnings were $4,188,786, or $4.36 a share, after provision of $2,635,000 for federal taxes.

REPORT ILLINOIS FIRM GETS ARMY PLANT CONTRACT

Washington, D. C., March 2 (AP).—Rep. William H. Wheat [R., Ill.] said the war department advised him today a contract to operate "a manufacturing plant in Illinois to cost over 5 million dollars" had been awarded to the Caterpillar Military Engine company, East Peoria, Ill.

Wheat said he was informed the contract was also for "consulting services and personnel training." He added that the plant would be under supervision of the United States district engineer at St. Louis.

Union Delays Caterpillar Tractor Plant Strike Call

Peoria, Ill., March 2 [Special].—Local 105 of the United Farm Equipment Workers' union deferred action on a strike call at the Caterpillar Tractor company today at the request of Joseph Vincent, department of labor conciliator.
